JOURNEY'S END FOR 'LITTLE RIVER' BOND ISSUE; $270 FOR $1000

Drainage District Obligation of $9,059,000 Is to Be Settled in Full for $2,191,414 Under Proposal Agreed On.

RFC ADVANCES MONEY AS LOAN

Claims, Which Have Been Frozen Since Interest Default in 1929 Are to Be Liquidated; New 4 Pct. Securities.

The $9,059,826 debt of the Little River Drainage District at Cape Girardeau, Mo., is to be settled in full for $2,191,414 under a proposal which an organization representing a majority of bondholders has indorsed.

This means payment to bondholders of $273 cash for each $1000 bond they hold, in full satisfaction of the obligation. Despite the loss of $727 on each $1000 invested, the board of directors of the organization representing bondholders has recommended acceptance of the plan.

Funds to make the payment are to be advanced to the Drainage District by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as a loan. Large amounts of the bonds are held in St. Louis and consummation of the plan will mean liquidation of claims which have been frozen since the district defaulted on interest Oct. 1, 1929.

Under the plan, the district is to issue to the RFC new 4 per cent bonds for the amount of the loan, to be retired in 16 years.

In determining the amount of the new loan, the RFC took into consideration the "Jones Report" prepared by the Department of Agriculture estimating the maximum taxes the lands in the district could reasonably pay under varying conditions. In view of all the circumstances the RFC refused to increase the amount of the loan, as requested by the bondholders' organization.

The organization recommending acceptance of the plan is the Little River Drainage Corporation. Its president is Royal D. Kercheval of St. Louis. It was organized by bondholders who turned in more than $5,000,000 of the outstanding bonds for stock of the corporation. Its original purpose was to try to liquidate the bonds through tax sales of lands in the district. Its directors, as a committee of bondholders, are understood to represent additional bonds, making the aggregate held by the corporation or represented by its directors about 90 per cent of the total.

In a letter to the stockholders of the corporation, urging acceptance of the plan, Kercheval states the directors feel they have exhausted every possible effort to get any better settlement through the RFC than the $273 offered. The stockholders are asked to vote on the plan. The RFC requires that all of the old bonds be deposited, or "such a large proportion of them," as will be satisfactory to its executives. This is understood to mean not less than 90 per cent.

The outstanding debt of the district is represented by $8,018,000 principal amount of bonds and $1,041,826 of delinquent interest.

CITY TREASURER MENNE HURT IN AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

City Treasurer Henry C. Menne, 49 years old, 3842A Arsenal street, and Patrick Noonan, 2802 Eads avenue, were hurt when Noonan's automobile collided with a parked machine on the south drive in Tower Grove Park last midnight.

At City Hospital it was found that Menne had suffered only scalp wounds and cuts of the face. Noonan, who is 40 years old, suffered a fractured hip. The parked machine was occupied by Patrolman Christ Fehr, 3865 McDonald avenue, who was off duty.

4,000,000 POUNDS OF PORK

Contracts Let for Buying Meat for Relief.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — Contracts for purchase of approximately 4,000,000 pounds of commercial cuts of pork were let today by the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation to 24 packing firms.

Harry L. Hopkins, president of the corporation which is buying the meat for use in the Government's relief program, also said 3,884,000 pounds of lard had been purchased from 10 packing companies in addition to 4,242,000 pounds bought last Monday.

Prof. Kemmerer Says Roosevelt Dollar Will Double Cost of Living Whenever Depression Is Over

Declares Legality of Gold Transfer Is in Doubt —Shows How Federal Reserve Is Fast Losing Its Power.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Prof. Edwin Walter Kemmerer, Princeton University economist who has been called in at different times as international monetary expert and adviser to several governments, predicts that the cost of living will be more than double that of last November whenever the depression is over and results of the Roosevelt administration's dollar devaluation have completely worked themselves out.

Writing in the New York Sun today, Prof. Kemmerer declares he foresees a general price level 118 per cent higher than last November's and a cost of living 126 per cent higher. He emphasized that these results would take time.

Change in Federal Reserve.

He also declared that "if present tendencies are long continued, the Federal Reserve System soon will be little more than a fiscal agency of the Government."

"Like the first and second United States banks, its tenure of usefulness as a real central bank will have been but 20 years," said Kemmerer.

His comment was made in a lengthy analysis of what he termed the "new monetary unit and new currency system" put into effect by the Roosevelt Administration Jan. 31. He said:

"The present 'gold reserve act of 1934' and other recent monetary and banking legislation and Government regulations have so weakened the powers of the Federal Reserve system in the fields in which a central bank usually operates, except the purely Government field, as to prevent it from functioning in a normal and effective way. Its powers have been extensively taken over by the Government and it is no longer fair to hold it responsible for performing the usual functions of a central bank."

He called "entirely sound" the action of the Government in taking the "profit" arising from the Government's other action, the devaluation of the dollar to 59.06 cents. He declared, however, the provision transferring legal title of Federal Reserve gold to the Government "is supported by dubious legalistic argument."

How Prices Will Rise.

A large part of his analysis was devoted to future effects of devaluation of the dollar. He said that if it is assumed that the commodity price level of 1926 "represents roughly what will be the purchasing power of gold when the world once works its way out of this depression and when our panic-stricken international struggle for gold has subsided, then our commodity price level, when once the adjustment to 'the new 59.06 cents dollar' has been completely effected would be as follows:

'All prices would be about 69 per cent higher than in 1926. Wholesale prices would be 139 per cent higher than for last November; general prices would be 118 per cent higher, and the cost of living would be 126 per cent higher.

"These are the price advances that we may reasonably expect will ultimately take place when the depression is over and when the results of the devaluation have completely worked themselves out."

He said such advances could not assume "much importance" until in some way an increased demand for goods and services should be created.

KILLED IN CRASH

Olaf Steen, 23-Year-Old Senior at Washington University, Victim of Crash.

Olaf Steen, 23-year-old student at Washington University, was killed and four companions were hurt when an automobible, in which they were returning home from a dance at the German House, crashed into the rear of a furniture truck at Chouteau and Vandeventer avenues at 2 a. m. today.

The injured: Steen's brother, Edward, 22, cuts and bruises; Joseph Bozalin, 26, 6117 McPherson avenue, cuts and bruises; Joseph Neu, 17, son of former Alderman John Neu Jr., 3955A Wilmington avenue, fractured collar bone, and Elmer Ebersohl, 23, 4637 Idaho avenue, the driver, bruises.

The truck, property of the International Furniture Co., 2105 Pine street, and driven by John Kowalski, was making a boulevard stop when the sedan hit it. Olaf Steen, sitting beside Ebersohl, was thrown against the dashboard, suffering a fractured skull. Ebersohl was quoted by police as saying he misjudged the distance between the van and his machine in slowing down for the stop. He was placed under bond pending an inquest.

Olaf Steen and his brother, who is employed at a St. Louis County sandwich shop, roomed at 8733 Nashville avenue, Richmond Heights. Their parents live at Ortonville, Minn. Olaf was in his senior year in college and had planned to enter the medical school next year.

U. S. PAY CHECKS ABROAD CASHED AT EXCHANGE RATES

Federal Employes Are Notified Old Pound Basis No Longer Applies.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—American government employes abroad, were informed today that their pay checks no longer will be cashed at the old parity rate of $4.86 to the British pound, but on a basis of the ruling exchange rate.

From the French capital the devalued dollar has started homeward the last of the foot-free traveling Americans who hoped the dollar would rise or that the French franc would decline.

The American Chamber of Commerce in Berlin sent a cablegram to the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington, protesting against the action of the House Appropriations Committee in eliminating funds for consular employes abroad to make up for the drop in the dollar.

3 FRENCH MINISTERS QUIT IN DISPUTE WITH PREMIER

Object to Ousting of Prefect of Police by Daladier.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Three members of the cabinet resigned today after a disagreement with Premier Edouard Daladier over his ousting of Prefect of Police Chiappe from his post.

The resigning ministers are:

Lieut. Col. Jean Fabry, Minister of War.

Francois Pietri, Minister of Finance and the Budget.

Gustave Doussain, Minister of Technical Instruction.

Doussain announced the resignations following a conference at the Ministry of Finance. Daladier was said to be still hopeful that they might patch up the differences.

MARCHING ON WASHINGTON

400 Persons Arrive to Petition for Unemployment Insurance.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — About 400 persons arrived in the Capital today in automobiles and trucks to petition Congress for unemployment insurance legislation.

The gathering was directed by the same organization which conducted two marches during the Hoover administration. Herbert Benjamin, leader of the National Unemployed Council, said Congress would be asked to enact a bill for insurance covering unemployment, old age, accident, illness and maternity. This, he said, could be financed by surtaxes on incomes of more than $5000 a year.

LONDON DOLLAR PRICE IS DOWN 3 CTS. TO POUND

Goes to 4.93 1-2 as Compared to 4.90 1-2 at Close of Trading on Exchange Yesterday.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The United States dollar, which for two days has strengthened appreciably instead of falling, as generally expected upon announcement of revaluation, took the anticipated downward slide today.

Its drop was not precipitate, but nevertheless it was sufficient to register a loss of 3 cents to the pound for the day, the closing quotation being 4.93½ to the pound as compared to the overnight quotation of 4.90½.

It closed at 4.93½ to the pound, after depreciating to 4.95¾ from an opening of 4.89½.

The foreign exchange market was only fairly active.

All leading gold currencies eased somewhat on sterling, the French franc finishing at 77.72 to the pound as compared to the overnight figure of 77.50.

From a weak opening at $4.90½ to the pound yesterday, the dollar advanced to close officially at $4.92¾.

However, in after-hours trading, the dollar went even better. It finished at $4.90½—the strongest point it had reached in three months.

The French franc was slightly off today. It opened at 77.77 to the pound as compared with last night's close of 77.69. The franc closed Thursday at 78.30.

Early dealings showed no such scramble for dollars as characterized the London market virtually all day yesterday.

On the contrary offerings of dollars caused the rate to ease appreciably within the first half hour to $4.92¼.

The bullion price lowered one shilling, three pence to 138 shillings 3 pence today.

The gold price again was fixed on the basis of supply and demand rather on the French franc.

Approximately £960,000 of gold was markcted. The buyers' names were not disclosed.

MORE TESTIMONY ON REMOVAL OF AIRMAIL RECORDS

HIS EXPLANATION EXPECTED MONDAY

Aviation Firm Representatives Say Certain Papers Were Transferred Before Files Were Examined.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — Two witnesses testified today to the Senate Airmail Investigating Committee that the aviation companies they represented had agreed to permit examination of their records only after certain correspondence had been removed.

The witnesses were L. H. Brittin, vice-president of Northwest Airways, and Gilbert Given, secretary to Harris M. Hanshue, president of Transcontinental and Western Air.

They said the records were taken from the office of William P. MacCracken, the Assistant Secretary of Commerce for aviation in the Hoover administration and now acting attorney for their companies.

MacCracken Gives Bond.

MacCracken was arrested last night for contempt but immediately freed on bond to appear before the Senate Monday to explain his refusal to permit access to the records.

Britten testified he took "about half a dozen papers, purely personal" and "tore them up as I would any other papers."

Given said he had been told by Hanshue to get the personal papers from MacCracken's files. He testified he did so and sent them to New York, but that they were returned. He gave the committee what he said were the papers he obtained.

Included were minutes of directors' meetings and letters to and from governmental departments. One was to Earle B. Wadsworth, former superintendent of air mail service in the Postoffice Department, from H. A. Burgess, assistant to the president of Western Air Express.

Another was to Western Air Express from Clarence M. Young, who succeeded MacCracken as Assistant Secretary of Commerce in the last administration.

MacCracken's Defense.

MacCracken told investigators that he was standing on the privilege of a lawyer in not disclosing the affairs of a client.

Those close to the former official said today, however, that just about the time he was arrested yesterday he had received word from the last of his aviation clients releasing him from any pledge of privacy about their affairs.

What had angered the Senators most was the testimony of MacCracken himself that after refusing to place his airmail correspondence before the investigating committee the officers of two airways companies had taken letters from the files.

Chairman Black of the Senate committee said the letters had been destroyed. The air mail officers themselves were quoted as saying the letters were personal correspondence and that they had nothing to conceal.

25,000 TAXICAB DRIVERS ON STRIKE IN NEW YORK

Demand Money They Collected Under Tax Measure Which Later Was Ruled Illegal.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Thousands of New York taxicab drivers were on strike today. Estimates of the number of men idle varied, but the dearth of vehicles on the main boulevards bore out indication that probably 25,000 men were on holiday. The leading taxicab concerns said about 10,000 cabs had been withdrawn from service because of the strike.

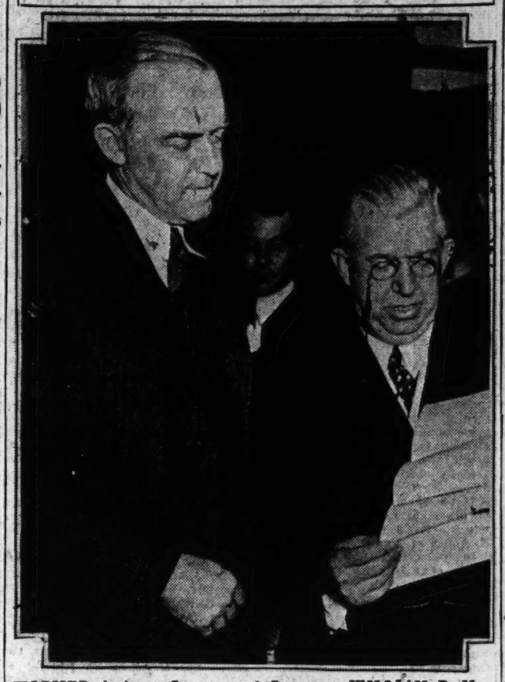

The cabmen, who appear to have struck spontaneously and not by order of any union, want the cab concerns to give them all the money that was collected as a city tax of 5 cents a fare under a measure adopted last September. About $500,000 was collected before the tax was declared illegal.

The drivers want the entire amount returned to them. The companies offer to split it 60-40, the drivers to get the 40. Mayor LaGuardia has expressed himself as favoring paying the entire amount to the drivers.

Strikers captured 18 cabs in the Grand Central area, grabbed the ignition keys and pushed them, driverless, in the general direction of the East River.

Meanwhile, 600 policemen were lined along North River piers keeping back pickets who threatened operators of independent cabs.

SHIPS WITH GOLD WORTH $30,000,000 SAIL FOR AMERICA

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Feb. 3.—The Trans-Atlantic gold rush, in the wake of American devaluation, began today.

The great liners Bremen and Berengaria sailed with strong rooms stacked with gold bars of an estimated value of more than $30,000,000. The gold is to be sold in the United States at a profit.

By special train, airplanes and trucks the gold arrived at the port and was stacked in heavily guarded cases until aboard the ships.

The Bremen and the Berengaria shared a total weight of 32½ tons of gold. The Berengaria carried about $20,000,000 worth and will pick up another $5,000,000 worth at Cherbourg tonight, while the Bremen had $7,500,000 worth in its strong rooms.

A special gold train of five cars brought the metal from London last night. The Bremen's gold was stacked on the docks until the ship arrived this morning. A heavy police guard surrounded it.

Five million dollars worth of bar gold from Amsterdam is being sent to the United States today. The gold arrived at Croydon Airport, packed in 80 boxes prior to devaluation of the dollar. The Netherlands included the United States in its embargo on gold shipments to countries off the gold standard.

BODY OF MISSING WOMAN FOUND IN RIVER BANK GRAVE

Former Circus Acrobat Had Been Murdered, Indiana Officers Say.

By the Associated Press.

TELL CITY, Ind., Feb. 3.—The body of Miss Alice Martin, former circus acrobat, was found today in a shallow grave on her 150-acre farm on the banks of the Ohio River. Officers said she had been murdered.

Miss Martin was about 50 years old. She had been missing from her farm for a week.

Officers began a search for Ernest Wright, 32, a farmhand who was employed several months ago by Miss Martin. He recently told neighbors, officers were informed, that Miss Martin had gone to New Jersey, where she owns property, and had left him in charge of the farm.

SILK HOSE GIVEN JOBLESS

Bought With Governmental Funds to Help Girls Get Work.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Jobless New York City girls now wear silk stockings paid for by Federal, State and city funds. The Emergency Home Relief Bureau, which operates with funds received from governmental bodies, regards silk hose as a national necessity for the girl seeking employment, and pays 80 cents a pair for stockings given to applicants.

Moreover, it thinks clothing given to women who seek jobs in offices, stores and other public places must fit and have some regard for style. So official shoppers are sent to stores with applicants for new outfits.

STEEL FIRMS PLAN FIGHT FOR COMPANY UNIONS

Issue Statement Criticising Presidential Order Authorizing Federal Board to Conduct Labor Elections in Its Own Manner.

ASSERT RULES MANIFEST BIAS

Affirm Loyalty to NRA, but Declare System of Employe Representation in Mills Meets All Legal Requirements.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Executives of leading steel companies issued a statement last night pledging themselves to "resist all attacks" on their company unions and contending that the unions comply with Section 7A of the National Recovery Act and that elections authorized by an executive order yesterday might violate it.

The executive order, issued by President Roosevelt, empowers the Labor Board to conduct in its own way elections of labor representatives to negotiate with employers when a "substantial number" of workers ask it to do so.

The statement, which came from the American Iron and Steel Institute, trade organization of the industry, expressed sympathy with Section 7A, which grants employes the right to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing.

Objects to NRA Statement.

The institute statement took issue with "the published statement by the NRA to the effect that so-called company unions are operated by employes' representatives chosen by the employers rather than by the employes themselves" and labeled it "a flagrant misrepresentation of fact."

"It can indicate nothing other than an intention to accomplish a complete domination of all industry, affecting the lives of millions of people, by union organizations which represent less than 10 per cent of the industrial employes of the nation," the statement said.

The executive order was issued to clarify the board's authority in dealing with the Weirton steel dispute and a number of other differences which have arisen over company unions, including those of the E. G. Budd Manufacturing Co. of Philadelphia, the Philadelphia Rapid Transit System and the National Lock Co. of Rockford, Ill.

Steel Executives' Statement.

The statement by the steel executives says in part:

"The steel industry of the United States is co-operating whole-heartedly with the President in his efforts for national recovery and subscribes fully to the principle of collective bargaining as provided in Section 7A of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

"In accordance with this principle, employe representation plans are in operation throughout the steel industry. They are functioning effectively and are providing employes with representatives chosen by them in free and untrammeled elections.

"The employes' representation plan is a modern and effective method of collective bargaining. It operates in the best interest of all the workers and, by promoting peace and harmony in industrial relations, instead of strife and irritation, it benefits industry and the consuming public.

"We regard the analysis of the executive order which, according to the press, was issued by NRA as a direct threat against the peaceful industrial relations long prevailing in the steel industry. It threatens the whole national industrial recovery program. . . .

Call Board Biased.

"For elections to be ordered by the National Labor Board upon the request of a mere handful of employes in any plant would mean constant disturbance and confusion in the industry. We regard many of the decisions and acts of the board as clearly intended to encourage unionism and to impose it upon industry.

"Evidences of the bias of the board are found in the rules heretofore prescribed by it providing for nominations of candidates in employes' elections by petition instead of by the established American custom of secret ballots as practised in the primaries for the selection of candidates for public office. The petition plan permits

DORSEY, 3 OTHERS ARE CONVICTED OF MORTGAGE FRAUD

Two Men Are Found Not Guilty of $1,702,000 Conspiracy Against Insurance Companies.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Four defendants were convicted and two acquitted today for conspiracy to defraud the Security Life and Northern States Life Insurance Companies of $1,702,000 through the sale of mortgages on Waukegan property of little worth.

The two acquitted were John H. S. Lee, attorney and former law partner of former Senator Charles S. Deneen, and Bertram Day, who was president of the Northern States Co.

The jury specified fines of $1000 each for Dorsey and Hult in addition to a prison term left for the Judge to fix. The maximum would be one to five years on each of the 18 counts. In the cases of Johnson and Huttig the jury did not recommend the penalty. The maximum, said the prosecutor, would be a year in the county jail and a fine not to exceed $2000.

The guilty four are Machir Dorsey of Indianapolis, former president of the Security Life Insurance Co. and alleged head of the conspiracy; Harry W. Huttig, wealthy manufacturer of Muscatine, Ia., who was co-owner of the Waukegan 30 acres mortgaged to the insurance companies; C. Edwin Johnson, vice president of Security Life, and Edwin Hult, head of a company bearing his name.

All four were convicted on all 18 counts in the indictment.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 3.—A sharp earthquake was felt here at 10:07 p. m. yesterday. No damage was reported.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 3.—A strong earth shock was felt here shortly before noon yesterday, but it did no damage.

G. M. HITCHCOCK, EX-SENATOR, OF NEBRASKA, DIES

Omaha Newspaper Publisher Succumbs to Heart Disease in Washington at the Age of 74.

WILSON SUPPORTER IN FIGHT FOR TREATY

In Congress 18 Years; in Upper Chamber, 1911 to 1923—Head of Foreign Relations Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Former United States Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Democrat, of Nebraska, 74 years old, died of heart disease at his home here early today. He was publisher of the Omaha World-Herald.

A few months ago he came from Omaha to Washington to make his home. He was taken ill soon afterward. His condition became serious a week ago.

At the home at the time of death, in addition to Mrs. Hitchcock, were Mrs. Henry Doorly, a daughter; Gilbert Doorly and Mrs. Richard Young, grandchildren, and Mrs. Edmund Kauntze, a sister of Mr. Hitchcock. They had come here from Omaha this week.

In the Senate during the war, and chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee during the second Wilson administration, he bore the brunt of President Wilson's losing fight for ratification of the Versailles treaty and the Covenant of the League of Nations, in 1929 and 1920.

Mrs. Hitchcock was Miss Martha Harris of Memphis. She and the Senator were married in 1885. The Senator's first wife, who was Miss Jessie Crounse, daughter of a former Governor of Nebraska, died in 1883.

Brief funeral services will be held at the Hitchcock home here tomorrow afternoon with Dr. ZeBarney Phillips, chaplain of the Senate, officiating. Associates of Mr. Hitchcock during his senatorial service will be honorary pallbearers.

After the services here, Mrs. Hitchcock and members of the family will leave for Omaha, where funeral and burial services will be held.

Born in 1859; Educated for Law, Turned to Newspaper Work

GILBERT M. HITCHCOCK was born in Omaha Sept. 18, 1859, the son of United States Senator and Mrs. Phineas W. Hitchcock.

With three associates, he established the Omaha Evening World in 1885. After buying their interests, he purchased the morning Herald and established the Omaha World-Herald, which he published until his death.

Career in Congress.

He served three terms in the House and two in the Senate, 1911 to 1923. It was in 1898 that he began to develop as a political figure in Nebraska. That year he was defeated for Congress by David H. Mercer, Republican, by 800 votes. Four years later he turned the tables on Mercer and began his service in the Fifty-eighth Congress March 4, 1903. He was the only Democrat elected to the House from Nebraska.

Defeated in the Theodore Roosevelt landslide of 1904, he was returned to the House in 1906, again as the only Democrat from Nebraska, and was re-elected in 1908.

In 1910 he was given the Democratic nomination for Senator, opposing Senator Elmer J. Burkett, who was seeking re-election. He won by a popular vote of about 20,000, and the choice of the people was ratified by the Legislature. Six years later he was elected for a second term.

During the war, as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and as a member of the Committee on Military Affairs, the Senator helped materially in making the United States an effective fighting Power.

Steered Declaration of War.

When President Wilson recommended that Congress declare war on Germany in 1917, Senator Stone of Missouri, who was head of the Foreign Relations Committee opposed the declaration. Senator Hitchcock, as ranking Democratic member after Stone, handled the war declaration in the Senate. On Senator Stone's death in 1918 the Nebraskan became chairman in his place.

In 1920 the Senator received the preferential votes of Nebraska Democrats as a candidate for the presidency, but in the national convention withdrew in favor of James M. Cox of Ohio. Again in 1928 he was honored by the party of his state as its "favorite son" but the trend was to Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York.

In 1920 and 1928, he was Democratic candidate for re-election to the Senate, and was mentioned prominently last spring as a prospective appointee to fill the term of the late Senator Howell. Gov. Charles W. Bryan, however, named Senator Thompson, Democrat, to that post.

He declined to be a candidate for appointment to the Federal Reserve Board shortly after President Franklin D. Roosevelt was inaugurated, and said he would not be active in politics again.

An incident of his career as a publisher, which Senator Hitchcock took delight in recalling in later years, took place five years after he established his newspaper. One day he received in his office a young man who sought a job. The caller made an immediate favorable impression and was hired, later becoming editorial writer of the newspaper. He was the late William Jennings Bryan, who had just retired as Congressman from the First Nebraska district.

Bryan was on the World-Herald staff when he was nominated for the Presidency in 1896.

TRADE WITH RUSSIA SHOWS INCREASE FOR DECEMBER

Exports to France, Germany, Canada and United Kingdom Decline.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—United States exports and imports to and from Soviet Russia where shown by Department of Commerce figures today to have reversed their downward trend, December gaining over November and over December last year.

It was explained that Russian recognition, together with the general stimulation of world trade, probably accounted for the gain.

Exports to France, Germany, the United Kingdom and Canada declined, while exports to Japan increased in December as compared with November.

Imports from France and Canada increased in December over November, largely because of American purchases of liquor and wines. German imports also gained while those from the United Kingdom and Japan dropped.

names to be placed on the ballot for the employes' vote by only 10 signatures. We regard this as undemocratic and as opening the door to union intimidation of employes.

"To provide that an election shall be held when a 'substantial' number of employes shall demand it and to give to the National Labor Board the right to determine what constitutes a 'substantial' number of employes may force an election when only a handful of discontented workers, who might be only union organizers, demand it. This is bound to be a constant source of confusion.

Charge Violation of Law.

"To make the wish of a majority of the number who shall vote, although they may be only a small precentage of the whole number of employes, compulsory upon all the employes, is a direct violation of Section 7 (A) of the National Industrial Recovery Act, which gives to any number of employes the right to choose their own representatives for collective bargaining.

"The steel industry desires to define its position clearly and emphatically on this matter. While affirming complete confidence in the desire of the President to deal fairly in all matters affecting both labor and industry, it is convinced that the practical effect of this order would be unfair to both.

"The steel industry maintains that its employes representation plans meet every requirement of the National Industrial Recovery Act in respect of collective bargaining. It intends in every practical and lawful way to resist all attacks upon such plans."

HOUSE TO PASS BILL TO PENALIZE DEBT DEFAULTERS

Senate Amendments Make Measure Satisfactory to Administration — U. S. Corporations Exempt.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Without a roll call and after only brief discussion, the bill of Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, prohibiting new financial dealings with defaulting nations, was repassed yesterday and sent to the House. Amendments making the measure satisfactory to the administration were approved.

House sentiment was described by Democratic leaders as equal to the Senate in favor of the retaliatory proposal. Eighteen nations are wholly or partly in default.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic chieftain, said the measure would apply to all defaulters alike without distinction or discrimination, but that under one amendment suggested by the State Department and approved by the Senate, Government corporations like the Reconstruction Finance Agency could make loans to all defaulters, including Russia.

Russia owes the United States, as of Jan. 1, $337,000,000, representing borrowings during the war by the czaristic and Kerensky governments.

$10,000 Fine Provided.

As passed in amended form, the bill fixes a maximum penalty of $10,000 and five years' imprisonment for any person or private corporation who buys or sells any new issues of securities of defaulting countries or lends money to them or their political subdivisions.

Refunding issues replacing existing loans would be exempt and the restrictions would not apply to countries such as several in South America, which have defaulted only on private obligations.

Under the amendment exempting American Government corporations from the restrictions, the Treasury could carry on its currency stabilization operations under the new dollar devaluation act by purchasing or selling foreign exchange and securities.

Among the 18 Governments affected are France, which is in default of $82,000,000 of its approximately $4,000,000,000 war debt, and all the "token" payers, including Great Britain, which had $176,000,000 overdue against her last month on her debt of $4,600,000,000.

The total in default under the war debt fundings agreements on Jan 4 was $304,000,000. Unfunded indebtedness includes the $337,000,000 Russian debt, $20,000,000 from Armenia and $416,000 from Nicaragua.

Senator Robinson interpreted the bill as providing that any government which hereafter makes the payments due on her obligations to the United States would be permitted to float securities here or to receive private loans.

The measure originally passed the Senate Jan. 11, but Democratic leaders were absent from the floor, and upon learning of its approval, moved reconsideration. Since then conferences resulted in the modifying amendments.

Senator Hebert (Rep.), Rhode Island, asked the only question — whether the bill would "impinge on the rights of nations with whom we have treaty relations."

Johnson assured him it would not, adding the State Department itself had prepared the amendments.

TEXANS HUNT BARROW GANG

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 3. — The Barrow gang of outlaws was hunted today in the hilly cedar brake country west of Austin after Texas Rangers fired several shots in a futile attempt to capture a motorist they identified as Raymond Hamilton, associate of Clyde Barrow.

The latest crime of which the Barrow bang is suspected was the $24,000 holdup of the First Coleman National Bank yesterday.

WALLACE LICENSES CHICAGO MILK AREA

It Is First to Be Issued Under New Policy of Administration.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today issued a milk license for distributors in the Chicago area, effective Feb. 5.

The license is the first to be applied to a milk shed under the new policy of the Farm Administration and replaces the license and agreement in force in the Chicago area up to Jan. 3.

Frank C. Baker of the licensing and enforcement section was named market administrator to supervise the license in Chicago.

The license sets minimum prices to be paid to producers as follows: Fluid milk, $1.75 per 100 pounds, milk sold for cream, $1.25, and surplus milk a price 3½ times the average wholesale price per pound of 92 score butter on the Chicago market. All prices are based on milk testing 3.5 per cent butterfat. Adjustments for other milk will be made on the basis of 4 cents per 100 pounds. For each one-tenth of one per cent above or below 3.5. The license also provides for establishment of an adjustment pool through which milk purchases made by distributors will be equalized.

Kuman listed five rings set with foreign coins, a bracelet set with five French gold pieces, and thirteen $20 and thirty $4 Austrian gold coins and twenty-five $1 Turkish gold pieces.

NAZI ANTI-MONARCHIST MOVE

Hitler Sanctions Order to Suppress League's Societies.

(Copyright, 1934.)

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—Wilhelm Frick, Minister of Interior, with approval of Chancellor Hitler, yesterday ordered all state governments to suppress all Monarchist League societies throughout Germany.

PLAN BEING WORKED OUT FOR FEDERAL EXPORT BANK

R. F. C. to Finance Scheme to Build Up Trade With Russia and South America.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Inability of private banks to finance much needed American foreign trade may result in the Government forming a Federal export bank. The plan was disclosed by the President yesterday. The bank could be formed without special legislation and could be financed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Details are being worked out by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the corporation, and William Bullitt, American Ambassador to Russia.

Jones said the bank, if organized, would tend to stimulate trade not only with Soviet Russia but also South America, the Balkan nations and other countries.

If the plan goes through, the United States will become the sixteenth nation to undertake to build up Russian trade through similar means.

Great Britain, Germany, Sweden, Czecho-Slovakia, Austria, Japan, Latvia, Norway, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, Poland, Italy, the German State of Baden and the city of Vienna, Austria, have all enacted legislation providing for the guaranteeing of credits or providing insurance against losses through nonfulfillment of contracts for percentages of the total amounts involved.

URGES NON-PARTISAN BOARD TO CODIFY BANKING LAWS

Dr. H. Parker Willis of Columbia U. Makes Suggestion at Cincinnati.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 3.—Creation of a non-partisan commission of experts to codify the nation's banking laws is advocated by Dr. H. Parker Willis of New York.

Professor of banking at Columbia University and adviser to the Senate Committee on banking and currency under the Hoover administration, he offered his suggestion last night before a forum of professional and business men, sponsored by the University of Cincinnati.

Banking difficulties now besetting the country, he asserted, are "a cause rather than a mere symptom of the distress in which the country finds itself. They must, therefore, be eliminated if we are to get real recovery of business."

Measures needed, he said, include: Provision for more satisfactory banking facilities; improvement of personnel; installation of "something like the branch system with its corresponding centralization;" elimination of political influence and political control; "real stabilization of the currency;" and, "a change in the general jurisdiction over banks which would result in eliminating competition between states, and between the states on one hand and Congress on the other."

AMERICAN HELD IN SPY CASE SAID TO HAVE TRIED SUICIDE

Two Attempts to Kill Self Reported When R. E. Switz Is Arraigned Before French Judge.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Robert Gordon Switz, former aviator of East Orange, N. J., held here in connection with an alleged international spy ring, has attempted to commit suicide twice within the past week, it was reported today.

Switz' attempts became known when he was arraigned before Magistrate Benon for his third examination.

Switz and his wife, a Vassar College graduate, were arrested with a group of others in a series of raids by the Paris police more than six weeks ago. They have been in jail ever since.

DEFENSE RESTS IN ST. JOSEPH LYNCHING TRIAL

Man Accused of Part in Killing of Negro Attacker Is Not Placed on the Stand.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 3.—The defense rested at noon today in the murder trial of Walter Garton, charged with complicity in the lynching of Lloyd Warner, 19-year-old Negro, the night of Nov. 28, two days after Warner had been arrested on a charge of criminally assaulting a white girl.

Defense witnesses testified they did not see Garton in the mob and employes of a restaurant where Garton was a cook testified he did not leave the restaurant until 11:15 o'clock that night, just 15 minutes before Warner was hanged. The mob had been gathering about the jail before 7 o'clock in the evening.

State rebuttal witnesses testified that Garton was at the jail as early as 9 o'clock that night.

It was intimated by Judge J. V. Gaddy that instructions to the jury would cover first degree murder, second degree murder and manslaughter. This wide latitude was asked by State's counsel. Defense attorneys ask for first degree murder or acquittal, on the theory that the jury will not assess either the death penalty or life imprisonment and thus, if held to one of two courses, will acquit.

Arguments were to be made this afternoon and the case given to the jury late today.

William Orr Sawyers, Assistant Attorney-General, rested late yesterday without calling Carl (Cowboy) Fisher, regarded as the State's star witness. He conferred with County Prosecutor Frank Kirtley and then exhibited to the jury a section of rope identified as having figured in the hanging. Turning to Judge Gaddy, he then said:

"We have other witnesses but their testimony would merely be corroborative. The State closes in order to save time."

JOB INSURANCE MEASURE READY FOR INTRODUCTION

Systems Would Be Set Up in Every State Under Senator Wagner's Bill.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—A bill looking toward establishment of a job insurance plan in every state is ready for introduction in Congress.

Drawn by Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, in co-operation with Secretary of Labor Perkins, the measure would set up a Federal tax on all employers. Each, however, would be given exemptions for contributions to approved state unemployment insurance systems.

Miss Perkins, after a call with Wagner at the White House, said she was not authorized to announce that President Roosevelt would place the Administration behind the bill to push it through Congress but added that he was "profoundly interested."

Miss Perkins expressed the opinion that most past unemployment insurance methods have smacked of the "true dole and old-fashioned handout." What is needed, she described as:

"A technique for providing income for people who are laid off because of the great elemental changes that are bound to take place in industry."

ST. LOUIS MAN FOUND DEAD IN GAS-FILLED AUTOMOBILE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARTERVILLE, Ill., Feb. 3.—The body of John Bowen, 50-year-old unemployed trimmer, of 4229 Athlone avenue, St. Louis, was found in his automobile at the side of a road two miles south of here today. A hose, fastened to the exhaust pipe, had filled the closed machine with carbon monoxide.

The body was found after Mrs. Bowen, who had been left by her husband at a Marion hotel yesterday afternoon, became alarmed at his absence and asked that a search be made. She said he had been despondent because of the death of his sister a year ago and had threatened suicide during their drive from St. Louis yesterday.

Bowen's automobile was found about a mile from the cemetery in which his sister had been buried.

WOMAN TRIES TO SEE OUTLAW

Held for Failure to Pay Taxi Driver $23 for Her Trip.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—A young woman, who sought to interview John Dillinger, desperado, for "story writing experience," was questioned by police today. The Yellow Cab Co. obtains da warrant against her for failure to pay the cab driver $23 for her trip from Chicago to Crown Point, Ind., where the outlaw is in jail charged with murder.

The woman told Capt. John Stege she was a daughter of the late Harcourt Du Pre, who was vice-president of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. She said she was a graduate of Wellesley College.

FURTHER DRASTIC PROPOSALS IN WORLD WHEAT SITUATION

Advisory Commission Prepares Report for Submission at Rome April 5.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Twenty-one Governments that subscribed to a world wheat pact last fall were called on last night by their advisory commission to consider further drastic proposals to rehabilitate wheat.

Among the projects were plans to upset the temporary low-price barrier on exports and recommendations for abolishing or curbing subsidies and increasing consumption of the commodity, it was learned authoritatively.

The proposals were contained in a confidential report drawn up by delegates of 15 nations who are members of the International Wheat Advisory Commission. It includes the full reports of two subcommittees — a marketing group which met here in December, and a consumption group which assembled in Paris two weeks ago before the full commission studied the entire situation.

When the commission reassembles in Rome on April 5 the Governments are expected to have given full consideration to the proposals and be ready to act.

'ELEMENTS OF REVOLUTIONARY CRISIS GROWING EVERYWHERE'

Communist International So Informs the All-Union Party Congress.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Feb. 3.—Delegates to the All-Union Communist Party Congress cheered today when the Communist Internationale presented its report. It was believed by D. Z. Manuilsky, a member of the Executive Committee, who declared:

"The elements of a revolutionary crisis are growing everywhere, although somewhat irregularly.

"The forces of a proletarian revolution are increasing but a great majority of countries are not yet ripe for an immediate revolutionary overthrow of capitalism.

"Meanwhile, however, mass strikes, peasants' revolts, and military rebellions are lightning flashes in an electrified atmosphere heralding the coming revolutions.

"Feverish preparations for a new imperialist war by the world bourgeoise, its march toward Fascism, and an open terroristic dictatorship give witness of the bourgeoise inability to rule through 'normal and democratic' methods.

"The Communist parties of the Third International have attained uniformity in their ranks which now cannot be shaken by any Power. Communists in all countries have learned from Comrade Stalin how to fight and conquer."

WATCHMAN SHOOTS MAN AT CAFE DOOR

Victim Says He Returned to Place to Get Drink — Officer Suspended.

James Rossington, 29 years old, was shot and seriously wounded by Isaac Kelly, 63-year-old licensed private watchman, in an encounter in a yard in the rear of 4484 Delmar boulevard at 6 a. m. today.

Kelly reported that, going through the yard on his rounds, he saw Rossington knocking at the back door of a restaurant at the Delmar boulevard address and demanded to know what he was about. Rossington replied, he continued, that he wanted to get a drink.

Kelly then ordered Rossington away, telling him that the restaurant was closed. At that, he declarred, Rossington began to curse him. They grappled. Kelly said he fired when he saw Rossington reach for his hip pocket. After Rossington fell, it was found he was unarmed.

Rossington, who is a maintenance man for a petroleum company, told policemen he had been drinking beer at the restaurant and had left about 4:45 when the proprietor, James Bagley, announced it was time to close. He said he went to his rooming house at 521 North Newstead avenue to wash, then decided to return for another drink.

He declared that Kelly hailed him from the yard and shouted, "Get away from there or I'll burn you." He had known Kelly for about four months and had drunk beer with him earlier in the morning, he continued, so he disregarded the order. He said Kelly fired on him from a distance of about 30 feet, as he repeated to the watchman that he wanted to awake the proprietor and get another drink of beer.

Kelly was suspended and placed under arrest pending investigation of the shooting.

TWO-POINT INCREASE IN FARM PRICE INDEX

Charges Paid by Agriculture Unchanged for Month Ending Jan. 15.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—An increase of two points in the farm price index for Jan. 15 was reported today by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, bringing it to 70.

The increase, which covered the month ending that date, was caused by a general advance in local market prices of grain, meat animals, work animals, chickens and wool. Prices of dairy products and eggs made seasonal declines.

The index of purchasing power of farm products advanced one point to 60 per cent of the pre-war average compared with 50 per cent a year ago.

The thirty-fifth annual Lincoln day banquet will be held in St. Louis with Walter Metcalfe and Richard Coburn, both of St. Louis, in charge. Emory Smith, Monett, present treasurer, is slated for election to the presidency.

Mrs. Vallee's Suit Reinstated.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Supreme Court Justice Richard P. Lydon today reinstated Fay Webb Vallee's suit to restrain her husband, Rudy Vallee, orchestra leader, from seeking to divorce her in Mexico. Justice Lydon's opinion reprimanded Mrs. Vallee's counsel, Benjamin A. Hartstein, for inducing the court to sign an order Jan. 22 discontinuing the action without stating that she has an action for $7400 a month maintenance in California, and that very day Vallee had pending a motion to restrain her from suing him in California.

HAY TAKES ON ALL COMERS, DEFENDS CITY LIQUOR BILL

THEN TO BREWERS: PAY TAX AND LIKE IT

He Is "Not Going to Sit and Do Nothing to Get System to Take Place of Prohibition."

Charles M. Hay, City Counselor and one-time dry leader, made his final talk at the third City Hall public hearing on liquor control legislation yesterday afternoon. He began by declaring himself a wringing fan, and mentioning the fact that the hearing had been set forward several hours to avoid interference with last night's wrestling exhibition. Then he proceeded to take on all comers.

He first grappled with the ministerial group which had just made its protest against the return of the saloon, one of the ministers having said that majority sentiment in St. Louis would not support the saloon. Hay's verbal strangle hold on the ministers was:

"It is foolish to say that the people of St. Louis do not want places where drinks can be bought and consumed on the premises. When the Democratic platform said the saloon should not return, and our Legislature said no place should be run as a saloon, they meant that no place should be permitted to commit the abuses which made the name of the saloon a reproach. We are trying to make regulations to prevent these abuses."

Remarks to the Brewers.

A moment later, Hay went to those that with the brewing interests which have made a strong plea against the tax of 2 cents a gallon on 5 per cent beer, proposed in the Dickmann administration bill. Most of the saloon men, and the Chamber of Commerce, also oppose the gallonage tax, as do the wholesale liquor dealers, for whom a similar tax is proposed.

Hay charged, in effect, that the local brewing interests had been responsible for the form in which the State 3.2 per cent beer law was enacted, with a clause prohibiting the city from imposing a tax on the 3.2 product. Having done this, he told the brewers, they can now accept the gallonage tax and do the best to like it. He was willing to concede that the tax should not be imposed on beer made for shipment outside the State, but insisted that such a tax should remain on beer and other liquor made here for local consumption, and that imported beer and liquor should bear a like tax.

"It is very doubtful," Hay said, whether many persons will pay $300 or any other substantial sum for a city license to sell liquor by the drink, under the restrictions and with the additional charges of the State law, when anyone, for $10, can get a permit to sell 3.2 beer at all times and with no restrictions, and can cheat by selling hard liquor on the side. I am not saying how much of this cheating there would be, but previous speakers have said there would be a lot of it. (William M. Brandt, secretary of Central Trades and Labor Union, had just charged that "99 per cent of the 3.2 people will sell hard liquor, after hours and on Sundays, to everyone they know.")

Brewers and the Gallonage Tax.

"Mr. Huber (R. A. Huber, vice president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc.) came here last week and pleaded for the breweries, that we should not hurt them by the gallonage tax. When they went to the Legislature and had the 3.2 bill enacted, what did they do to the City of St. Louis? They had a clause placed in that which said that no county or municipality should impose any tax for the sale of 3.2. That clause of the 3.2 beer law has made it necessary for us to impose a gallonage tax on all beer over 3.2 per cent made in this State for consumption here.

"I admit that there is a sound argument against such a tax on export beer. But you will be unfair to the city if you do not impose it on beer made for sale here. You should also require transportation companies to report all shipments into the city, that the same tax may be imposed on the imported product.

"Mr. (Emil) Nathan of the Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association has made an adroit and misleading argument against the gallonage tax on hard liquor. He has said the gallonage tax would have to be passed on to the consumer, and has begged you to tax him directly, in a fixed sum. Why can't he pass that tax on, just as well? You have the same right and the same duty in this matter that Congress and the Legislature have, namely, to get a fair share of revenue for the branch of government that you represent."

Hay said that, for legal and health reasons, the gallonage tax should be designated as an inspection tax, and that the inspection should be under the Health Commissioner. He said the Louisiana

HAY TAKES ON ALL COMERS, DEFENDS CITY LIQUOR BILL

THEN TO BREWERS: PAY TAX AND LIKE IT

He Is "Not Going to Sulk and Do Nothing to Get System to Take Place of Prohibition."

Charles M. Hay, City Counselor and one-time dry leader, made the final talk at the third City Hall public hearing on liquor control legislation yesterday afternoon. He began by declaring himself a wrestling fan, and mentioning the fact that the hearing had been set forward several hours to avoid interference with last night's wrestling exhibition. Then he proceeded to take on all comers.

He first grappled with the ministerial group which had just made its protest against the return of the saloon, one of the ministers having said that majority sentiment in St. Louis would not support the saloon. Hay's verbal stranglehold on the ministers was:

"It is foolish to say that the people of St. Louis do not want places where drinks can be bought and consumed on the premises. When the Democratic platform said the saloon should not return, and our Legislature said no place should be run as a saloon, they meant that no place should be permitted to commit the abuses which made the name of the saloon a reproach. So we are trying to make regulations to prevent these abuses."

Remarks to the Brewers.

A moment later, Hay went to the mat with the brewing interests, which have made a strong plea against the tax of 2 cents a gallon on 5 per cent beer, proposed in the Dickmann administration bill. Most of the saloon men, and the Chamber of Commerce, also oppose the gallonage tax, as do the wholesale liquor dealers, for whom a similar tax is proposed.

Hay charged, in effect, that the local brewing interests had been responsible for the form in which the state 3.2 per cent beer law was enacted, with a clause prohibiting the city from imposing a tax on the 3.2 product. Having done this, he told the brewers, they can now accept the gallonage tax and do their best to like it. He was willing to concede that the tax should not be imposed on beer made for shipment outside the State, but insisted that such a tax should remain on beer and other liquor made here for local consumption, and that imported beer and liquor should bear a like tax.

"It is very doubtful," Hay said, whether many persons will pay $500 or any other substantial sum for a city license to sell liquor by the drink, under the restrictions and with the additional charges of the state law, when anyone, for $10, can get a permit to sell 3.2 beer at all hours and with no restrictions, and can cheat by selling hard liquor on the side. I am not saying how much of this cheating there would be, but previous speakers have said there would be a lot of it. (William M. Brandt, secretary of Central Trades and Labor Union, had just charged that "99 per cent of the 3.2 people will sell hard liquor, after hours and on Sundays, to everyone they know.")

Brewers and the Gallonage Tax.

"Mr. Huber (R. A. Huber, vice-president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc.) came here last week and pleaded for the breweries, that we should not hurt them by the gallonage tax. Then they went to the Legislature and had the 3.2 bill enacted, what did they do to the City of St. Louis? They had a clause placed in that bill which said that no county or municipality should impose any tax for the sale of 3.2. That clause of the 3.2 beer law has made it necessary for us to impose a gallonage tax on all beer over 3.2 per cent made in this State for consumption here.

"I admit that there is a sound argument against such a tax on exempt beer. But you will be unfair to the city if you do not impose it on beer made for sale here. You should also require transportation companies to report all shipments into the city, that the same tax may be imposed on the imported product.

"Mr. (Emil) Nuthan of the Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association has made an adroit and misleading argument against the gallonage tax on hard liquor. He has said the gallonage tax would have to be passed on to the consumer, and has begged you to tax them directly, in a fixed sum. Why don't he pass that tax on, just as I say. You have the same right and the same duty in this matter that Congress and the Legislature have, namely, to get a fair share of revenue for the branch of government that you represent."

Hay said that, for legal and health reasons, the gallonage tax should be designated as an inspection tax, and that the inspection should be under the Health Commissioner. He said the Louisiana State Health Commissioner had requested an inspection of St. Louis breweries which sell beer in that State.

Hay said he had altered his opinion as to the need for a high license fee, and believed the fee should not be more than the $500 fixed in the administration bill. As to his past record as a prohibition advocate, he said, "The people have repudiated the prohibition policy, and I am not going to sulk and say I will do nothing toward getting a system to take its place. I want to see a fair system, that will satisfy everybody as nearly as possible."

Preachers Don't Stay to Listen.

Hay was applauded by the liquor men, though most of them were against the gallonage tax. The ministers did not remain to hear him, and Hay remarked that it looked as if they, too, were in a hurry to get to the wrestling match.

The ministerial delegation, led by the Rev. Dr. A. H. Armstrong of the Church Federation, got the floor after several speakers had discussed the problem from the saloon keeper's viewpoint, or some position close thereto. One suggestion had been that instead of the word saloon, the by-the-drink establishment be officially termed a "licensed liquor dispensary," or an "alcobar."

"Keep the name saloon, if you are going to have the saloon," said the Rev. Dr. George A. Campbell of Union Avenue Christian Church. "What your party pledged was that there would be no return of the saloon. But I think it is coming back. That seems to be already decided. I only ask you, can we have the saloon and keep men from drinking to excess? Can we have the saloon, without causing suffering and privation to women and children? Can we have the saloon without ruining life? The financial problem does not stop with the question of taxation. We ministers go into homes, and we know that the man who spends too much in the saloon is not going to support his family. If you permit these conditions, all we ministers can do is to renew the fight, and seek a new cure."

Rabbi Isserman, Dr. MacIvor.

Rabbi F. M. Isserman of Temple Israel and the Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor of Second Presbyterian Church advocated a system of city-controlled liquor stores, to sell hard liquor in packages only, without private profit, and with the surplus going for relief. Rabbi Isserman, who outlined the plan, said wine and beer might be sold by private venders, under such conditions as the lawmakers saw fit to impose.

The speakers, both former citizens of Canada, cited the Ontario liquor law as a model, and Rabbi Isserman read testimonials to the workings of that law from several Canadian clergymen. Dr. Campbell, also a former Canadian, did not go into this proposal.

A few in the gathering having booed Dr. Campbell's speech, the Rev. Dr. William B. Lampe of West Presbyterian Church began with a vigorous assertion of his right to a hearing. Dr. Lampe said repeal of prohibition had been brought about partly by the assertion that drinking had increased under prohibition. "But here this afternoon," he said, "I hear the liquor men talk about their trade being ruined, about having to start at the beginning and build up gradually. How do you explain that?"

Dr. Lampe advocated such a system as that proposed by Rabbi Isserman and Dr. MacIvor. "The object of control," he said, "is that the man who is entitled to a drink can get it, and that the man whom drink makes a menace and a public charge cannot get it."

Dr. Armstrong indorsed the city liquor store plan. The Rev. Dr. C. Oscar Johnson of Third Baptist Church, who was not ready to indorse that plan, urged that other things than revenue and profits be considered by the lawmakers.

One New Argument.

The earlier speakers repeated the arguments made at the two City Hall hearings previously held. One new argument was offered by the Greater St. Louis Beer and Liquor Dealers' Association against the requirement for signatures of neighbors and adjoining property owners to a license petition.

"Before prohibition," the organization's spokesman, L. E. Scott, said, "it was the custom of those whose signatures were needed to insist that they obtain credit from the liquor dealer before signing. The result was a virtual donation of drinks to these signers."

The association asked that the license fee be made $200 for by-the-drink places, and the same for original package venders, as it was argued that many customers of the latter would insist on drinking on the premises.

Joseph J. Hauser of the Brewery Workers' Union, made a statistical argument against the gallonage tax on beer, charging that it would handicap the St. Louis breweries in getting an outside market, and would restrict employment. He said that before prohibition, 2,000,000 barrels of beer a year were made in St. Louis, and 65 per cent, or 1,300,000 barrels, shipped out of the city; and that annual wages of the brewery and allied industries here amounted to $3,380,000 a year. He told the aldermen that a vote for the gallonage tax provision would be "political suicide."

No Further Hearings Planned.

The Public Safety Committee, which conducted the hearing, does not plan further public hearings, and will hold meetings to consider the three bills now in its hands, the administration bill and the substitute measures of Aldermen Gummels and Brown. The Gummels bill, which is the easiest on the liquor dealers, has been indorsed by the Greater St. Louis Beer and Liquor Dealers' Association, and the State Liquor Dealers' Association, rival local bodies.

Alderman O'Toole presided at the hearing, which was attended by about 250 persons. One speaker, Rudolph Schneider, a lawyer, urged the committee, before reaching a decision, to make a tour of European countries and see how saloons should be conducted. The Rev. Dr. Armstrong replied to this by telling of drunkenness as viewed by him in England.

WERRENRATH AND WIFE HAVE SECOND WEDDING CEREMONY

Baritone Arranges "Reaffirmation" of Marriage to Supply Romance Which Bride Missed.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—A "reaffirmation of Marriage" last night supplied the romantic ceremony which the wedding of the former Verna True Neidig and Reinald Werrenrath, baritone, 6 years ago, lacked.

On the anniversary of their civil marriage Feb. 2, 1927, the couple again went through a ceremony before a robed minister. There was a wedding march and a display of orange blossoms to emphasize the atmosphere that Mrs. Werrenrath had lamented was missing when the Mayor of Weehawken, N. J., officiated at the first ceremony.

Werrenrath, who planned what he called the "reaffirmation of marriage—a reaffirmation of the happiest day of my life," did so as a surprise to the bride of two ceremonies. He explained: "My wife always looked so sad when she saw weddings in the movies. She felt like she was cheated on the orange blosoms."

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—University of Missouri Alumni held a dinner-dance last night in honor of Mrs. J. C. Jones of Washington, D. C., widow of a former president of the university. Approximately 100 persons attended.

Million Dollar Cinderella at Home

MRS. CONSTANCE GAVIN, wife of a bank clerk, is to receive soon about $1,200,000, or two-thirds of a two-ninths share of the estate of the late James L. Flood, mining king. Settlement of the estate will bring to a close one of the most celebrated civil suits in the history of California; a suit that has been in litigation since 1926. This domestic scene shows MR AND MRS. JOHN P. (CONSTANCE) GAVIN at the breakfast table in their home in Los Angeles.

47 PCT. PLEDGED, UNITED RELIEF DRIVE GOES ON

Intensive Effort Will Be Made to Reach Those Who Have Not Been Solicited in Campaign.

With $1,802,480 subscribed so far in the United Relief Campaign, workers during the coming week will make an intensive effort to reach those persons not yet solicited and to obtain increases where subscriptions already made are obviously inadequate.

The situation of the campaign at present was termed "decidedly encouraging" yesterday by Arnold G. Stifel, chairman, following the latest report of $192,928 in additional subscriptions. Stifel pointed out that with 47 per cent of the $3,700,000 goal subscribed, less than half the prospective givers in the city and county had been solicited and that many individuals and firms would be asked to increase gifts already made.

Through the efforts of the "Committee of 100," an increase of $75,000 over subscriptions originally made has been received from 30 corporations.

Audited totals following yesterday's report showed 60 larger gifts amounting to $25,000; $107,852 additional in the employes' division; $12,069 in the general division, and $3006 in the county division.

Reporting for 2800 employes of St. Louis public schools, Superintendent Gerling announced that, although solicitation was not completed, gifts totaled $51,193.

Employes of the Public Service Corporation, according to another report, subscribed $14,000, exceeding last year's subscription by $2000.

Ribbons for meritorious service were awarded to J. L. Sharp, captain in the downtown region; Philim O'Toole, chairman in the South Side region; Ralph Ellers, district chairman, northwest region; Joseph Catanzaro, district chairman, and Joseph A. Ottersbach, captain in the southwest region.

SHIP REACHES PORT AFTER 35-DAY FIGHT WITH STORM

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Feb. 3.—The S. S. Svartisen, which was reported "probably lost" two weeks ago, made port yesterday. It sailed from Grangemouth, Scotland, Dec. 30 and fought stubbornly against storms and ice 35 days before it reached this haven. Capt. T. Jentoft, middle-aged Scandinavian, brought the ship through.

The Svartisen, a 2000-ton collier, ordinarily makes the crossing in 16 days. The Svartisen ran into storms as soon as it sailed. Gales and head winds smashed seas against it day after day. Waves broke over the bridge. A steel shaft in the steering machine cracked apart. Then the hand gear went. The ship rolled helplessly. For four days the ship drifted.

The men fought their way through the cold water which swirled across the decks to lash heavy planks along the sides of the vessel. These helped to break the impact of the waves but gratings and deck fittings were carried away.

While the ship drifted, Capt. Jentoft and his men cut a shaft to replace the one broken from one of the ship's winches. It was too thick. So, with a hand file, they trimmed it down to the size of the shaft which had broken. The Svartisen got under way again.

10 PCT. REDUCTION ORDERED IN KIRKWOOD WATER RATES

Saving to Consumers of $8000 a Year Expected; Third Cut in Three Years.

Reduction of water rates in Kirkwood, amounting to 10 per cent, which is expected to save consumers $8000 a year, has been ordered, effective March 1. The suburb owns its waterworks.

For the first 25,000 gallons used per quarter the reduction will be from 54 to 46 cents a 1000 gallons, for the second 25,000 gallons from 50 to 42 cents a 1000, and a corresponding cut in the succeeding steps of the schedule, to a new minimum of 18 cents a 1000 for all water in excess of 300,000 gallons a quarter. This is the third rate reduction in three years, the saving to consumers in the aggregate being figured at $31,000 a year.

The City Council also has voted to refund about $700 collected last year for automobile drivers' licenses under an ordinance which it has been decided not to enforce.

Snow and Cold Wave in France.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—A cold wave swept most of France today after two days of wind and snowstorms. Temperatures were belo the freezing mark everywhere and from the Rhine to the sea thermometers registered eight to 10 degrees above zero Fahrenheit. A slight earthquake at Tarbes at 1:50 a. m. caused no damage but drove shivering hundreds into the streets. Deep snow covers the plains, impeding traffic.

JILTED MAN KILLS TEACHER AND SELF AT SCHOOLHOUSE

Twenty Children See Farmer Shoot Miss Margaret Graves, 23, and End Life Near Harlan, Ia.

By the Associated Press.

HARLAN, Ia., Feb. 2.—Miss Margaret Graves, 23 years old, teacher, was shot to death yesterday by Herman Sieck, a rejected suitor, who then killed himself. The murder and suicide took place at Monroe School No. 2, near here, during the last class of the day in the presence of 20 school children.

Sieck entered the school room with a shotgun. Miss Graves saw him and screamed as she crouched under her desk. Sieck shot her in the back.

She staggered to her feet screaming, "run for help," and made her way to the door. She fell dead on the steps.

The children, who had dodged behind their desks ran, Sieck went to the yard and shot himself.

Relatives said Miss Graves had attempted to break a year-long friendship with Sieck. Elmer Larson, at whose home she boarded, said Sieck had threatened to kill himself.

Coroner Bocken and County Attorney More said no inquest would be necessary.

Miss Graves was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Graves, farmers, near Harlan. Sieck lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sieck, near Avoca.

POLICEMAN CATCHES BURGLAR AS HE FLEES FROM SALOON

Prisoner Has $92 in Pocket and Says He Is Not Employed.

Interrupting a burglary at the saloon of George Martin, 2617 Gravois avenue, early today, Patrolman William Geisman captured a man who fled from the place.

Geisman was trying the front door when he heard a noise at the back. Going around the building, the officer saw a man run out the back way and down the alley. Geisman caught the fugitive within half a block.

The prisoner, who had $92 in his pockets, said he was 28 years old and unemployed but refused to make any other statement. The officer discovered that entrance to the saloon had been made by removing a sidewalk grating and forcing an inner door leading from the basement.

Martin said $92 was missing from the cash drawer. He identified the prisoner as a man he had seen in the saloon shortly before closing time last night.

RESTRICTIONS REMOVED FROM ST. CHARLES BANK

RFC Subscribes $100,000 Capital in Union Savings Depository.

The Union Savings Bank of St. Charles, which has been on a restricted basis since the banking holiday early last year, began operating today without restrictions, by authority of the State Finance Commissioner. The commissioner's office announced the bank would be under the Federal deposit insurance law.

Capital of the bank, formerly $100,000, now is $190,000, said Gus H. Wilke, cashier. He said the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had subscribed $100,000 of the capital and that some new money had been invested locally, but he did not disclose the amount of the latter. The bank has about $650,000 in deposits. J. F. Rauch is president.

NEGRO PREACHER-BARBER IS STABBED TO DEATH

Killed in Dispute With Two Youths Who Flee After Attack.

Homer Harris, Negro preacher and barber, was stabbed to death last night at his home, 1739A Division street, in a dispute with two young Negroes, who fled.

Casey McConnell, 19-year-old Negro, 1710A O'Fallon street, told police Harris was cutting his hair at 7:20 o'clock when two young Negroes, one of whom is known as "Sonny Boy," tried to force their way into the flat. Harris ordered them away and picked up a broken stove door. "Sonny Boy" drew a knife and stabbed the preacher in the chest, McConnell said. Harris, who was 33 years old, chased the assailant downstairs, and fell dead on the sidewalk.

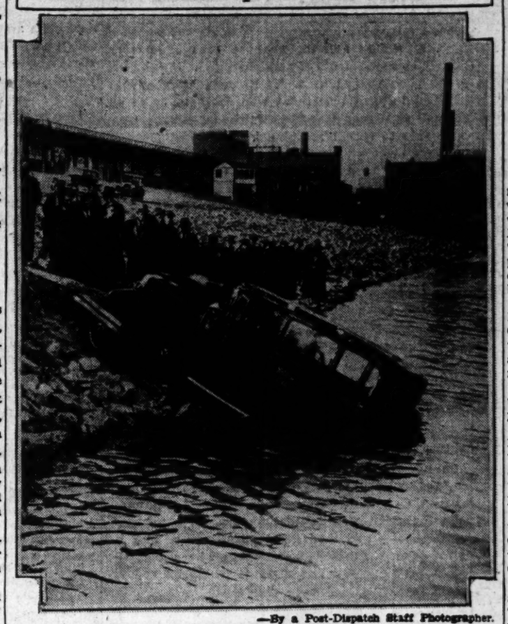

PIRATES LOOT MEXICAN BOAT

Board Vessel Between Tampico and Tuxpam, Get $2900.

TAMPICO, Mexico, Feb. 3.—Pirates took possession of a steam launch carrying passengers between here and Tuxpam yesterday, and stole loot valued by the vessel's captain at 10,000 pesos ($2900). One person was killed.

The captain said two members of the band boarded the vessel here as passengers and after a night aboard compelled him to stop at a convenient point of land where other members of the gang came aboard armed with rifles and ordered passengers to line up. A military boat was sent, and one of the passengers, thought to be an accomplice of the pirates, was killed by troops while attempting to flee.

River Yields Up Stolen Taxicab

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

WHILE Jess Ott of Kansas City was eating lunch last Monday three men pushed his car, which he had been operating here as a taxi, down to the levee near Fourth street and Washington avenue. The last shove sent it on its way down hill to the bed of the Mississippi. A Government boat located the car Friday and shortly after it was dragged back to the paved embankment.

ST. LOUIS POLICE DIDN'T RECOGNIZE DILLINGER

Widely Sought Outlaw Attended Auto Show and Bought Car Here.

John Dillinger, escaped convict who was caught last week in Tucson, Ariz., was in St. Louis the week of Jan. 14, and with no disguise except a pair of spectacles and an assumed name, came into contact with several policemen, none of whom recognized him.

While here, Dillinger bought an automobile, and for almost half an hour, he stood in the lobby of the Mart Building, where the Automobile Show was held, watching the bulldog of his woman traveling companion while she was inspecting cars.

At one time, the bulldog broke away from him, scampered down the hallway between two policemen, with Dillinger in hot pursuit. Near a third policeman, he caught the dog. After that he held the leash more tightly.

"Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sullivan."

While here Dillinger and his companion posed as Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sullivan. Dillinger purchased a Hudson sedan from the Hudson-Frampton Co., paying cash from a large roll of $20 bills, and then waited three days before he could get delivery of the car.

It was when he was deciding about the car Wednesday night, Jan. 17, that the dog ran away from him and between the policemen. He was accompanied by J. C. Jones, 2417 Goodale avenue, Overland, Hudson-Frampton salesman.

"Nobody here was suspicious of him," John W. Davis, salesmanger of the Frampton company, said. "He was a quiet, mannerly fellow and, we learned as he left, he carried a revolver. One of our service men saw it, in a shoulder holster under his arm, when he took delivery of the car. But even that didn't seem suspicious at the time. Many persons have permits to carry firearms.

"He certainly wasn't trying to hide very much. The car he picked out was conspicuous—two tones of brown, with twin horns, long-and-short wave radio, six wheels and all accessories. He was particularly interested in the radio. That short-wave part of it, of course, would be valuable to him. He could get police calls on it.

Angry at Having to Wait.

"He was angry when he discovered he couldn't have the car right away. It was part of our exhibit at the show, and it wasn't until Sunday morning, Jan. 21, when the show was over, that we let him have it.

"None of our dealers had cars at that time, and all of them were complaining. This man 'Sullivan' put us in bad with them. Going out southwest through the State, he was so proud of the car that he stopped at almost every garage along the way to show it off.

"When I persuaded him to wait until after the show I said he could go to a hotel and look our city over for a few days. He said, 'Well, all right, but I don't want too high-priced a hotel.' I suggested one just up the street from our salesrooms and they stayed there.

"He said he was putting the car in his wife's name and he wouldn't buy a license here because he was going to California to live and he'd get one there."

When Indiana officers brought Dillinger through St. Louis by airplane last Tuesday en route to Crown Point, Ind., where he is to be tried on a murder charge, he remarked that he had attended the automobile show and had bought a car here. Davis and Jones saw newspaper pictures of him and recognized the desperado as their former customer, "Sullivan."

ATTACK DISCLOSES EXTORTION DEMANDS

Woman's Screams Rout Man as He Attempts to Seize Her.

Attempts to extort money from Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Choisel, 5903 Michigan avenue, during the past two years, were disclosed last night when a man seized Mrs. Choisel by the arm as she and an 11-year-old daughter, Jane, were going up the steps to a dressmaker's house at 6012 Virginia avenue.

The man was frightened away when the mother and daughter screamed for help and the child rang the doorbell at the house.

Mrs. Choisel said she and the child were walking south on Virginia avnue at 6:15 o'clock, after shopping at a dry goods store, when they noticed two men following them. One carried a suitcase. The mother and daughter increased their pace and went into a grocery, making some purchases there. Mrs. Choisel said she saw one man, who grabbed her arm later, looking in the window of the store.

"We left our packages at the grocery and walked a few doors away to the dressmaker's," Mrs. Choisel said. "As we went up to the door, a man grabbed my arm from behind, pulled me down the steps and over an embankment. He didn't say anything and didn't grab my purse. Jane and I screamed and she ran to the door. The man let go and ran away."

Mrs. Choisel, who suffered torn ligaments in her left arm and a broken thumb, was treated by a physician at the dressmaker's house and later taken to her father-in-law's home, 5819 Michigan. The arm, injured in an automobile accident two years ago, had not completely healed.

Choisel, an insurance agent, was in Webster Groves on business at the time. Returning later, he said that demands for amounts ranging from $500 to $10,000 had been made during the last two years.

The husband and wife told a Post-Dispatch reporter that telephone calls were received as often as once a week at times from two men and a woman who said they would "get" Mrs. Choisel unless she followed orders. Choisel said the extortionists would talk only to his wife and would hang up if he answered the telephone.

Several months ago, according to Mrs. Choisel, a man came to the door when she and a relative were at the house and asked to be admitted to "talk about that $10,000." She said the man fled when she telephoned for police. Several days afterward, she related, she received a call directing her to take $500 to Broadway and Bowen street. Going to the scene in a police car, Mrs. Choisel said she and the officers saw two men run away as the police car approached.

Attempts to pry open windows and doors at the house led to the installation of a burglar alarm system, Choisel said. Neither he nor his wife would give any explanation of the assault and said they had no enemies. The wife said her assailant was dirty in appearance and had several days' growth of beard.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER SWALLOWS POISON

Did It to "Beat" Charge, Tailor Tells Officers When Arrested.

"I know why you're arresting me," James Murphy, former Edwardsville tailor, told detectives who took him into custody at 1389 Blackstone avenue early today. "It's my wife, with an old non-support charge against me. But it doesn't bother me. I've got that beat."

The officers, who had arrested Murphy at the request of M. Lester Geers, State's Attorney at Edwardsville, on a $47 embezzlement charge, asked what he meant by the statement he had the charge "beat."

"Certainly I've got it beat," the tailor repeated. "Just before I let you fellows in, I took poison."

He added that he had swallowed 14 tablets of a slow-acting poison which, physicians say, is more than sufficient for a fatal dose. The detectives rushed him to City Hospital.

The indictment charges Murphy with having embezzled from the Clayton Cleaning & Dyeing Co., Edwardsville, where he was employed, Geers told the Post-Dispatch.

"He went out to collect for a suit," the State's Attorney said, "and when he got the money, he went to California on it, deserting his wife and their four children. This was about two months ago. He just got back from there, and I found out yesterday that he was back.

"He shouldn't have taken the poison, though, because he might not have even been tried on this embezzlement charge, if he'd come back and gone to supporting his wife and children the way he should."

The wife, Mrs. Reba Murphy, is boarding at 1420 Mississippi avenue, with two of her four children. The others are with her parents at Hillsboro, Ill.

"I knew he was going to take poison," she said today. "He told me that he would if he was arrested. But he hadn't been taking care of us, so we have to live on the Provident Association and he had been threatening me. So I turned him in. I gave Mr. Geers the information he was back."

FOUR AMERICANS JAILED IN MALLORCA TO BE FREED

Section of Supreme Court Recommends Pardon for Lockwoods, Mead and Blodgett.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Feb. 3.—Ambassador Claude G. Bowers of the United States was informed semi-officially today that the four Americans held in jail at Palma, Mallorca, will be set free on the condition that they leave the Balearic Islands.

The Americans, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton B. Lockwood of West Springfield, Mass.; Roger F. Mead of New York, and Edmund A. Blodgett of Stamford, Conn., were jailed for assaulting a civil guard.

The six section of the Supreme Court has recommended a pardon to the full court which was expected to make its official decision shortly.

Movie Writer's Ex-Wife to Re-wed.

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 3.—Mrs. Felice Lewin Farrow, former wife of John Villiers Farrow, Australian movie writer, and E. E. Paramore Jr., a writer, will be married at Agua Caliente, Sunday, they said tonight. They will fly south. Mrs. Farrow divorced Farow in 1927 on ground of incompatibility. Farrow, who recently succeeded in adjusting difficulties over his entry into the United Sates is expected soon to marry Maureen O'Sullivan, actress.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Two Views of St. Louis Schools.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE educational situation in our country at present is deplorable. Our schools are in a state of siege. Yet, through all this turmoil, the St. Louis school system was pointed to, in the Sept. 30, 1933, issue of the Literary Digest, as the one bright spot on the educational map of the country. The city should be proud of that, and here are some of the reasons why and wherefore:

While the surrounding Missouri communities are receiving tax rates from $1.18 in St. Charles to $2.43 in Webster Groves, and while the largest cities are receiving from $1.11 in Cleveland to as high as $2.46 in Chicago, the City of St. Louis, with a tax rate of 85 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation, has not only carried on, but has, within the past 12 years, built 21 schools, built the public schools stadium, built additions to other schools, bought building sites for more schools, maintained and operated the school system, all from the 85-cent rate, with no need of bond issues.

All this has been done when the school enrollments have increased, due to increased population and return to school due to loss of employment. This has been done while two 10 per cent property valuations have reduced school revenues, causing drastic reductions everywhere.

The Board of Education, to a member, has proved its ability sanely and economically to handle the strings of our educational purse. We know that when the members made the appreciative gesture to increase Mr. Gerling's salary, they understood their superintendent well enough to know that that man, whom they have seen so capably handling the educational problems of our children, would understand it as what it was meant to be. And those persons who have watched most interestedly from the sidelines know that Mr. Gerling responded as we knew he would and only as one of his high caliber would have the strength to do.

W. B. McKEEMAN,
President, Federated Evening School Student Associations.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE Board of Education has consistently formed a sort of oligarchy or closed corporation, wherein the individual citizen or body of citizens has no chance for redress of grievances or even a chance to present them. I refer particularly to the Glasgow and Franklin school matters, when petitioners were turned away without being allowed to talk at a Board of Education meeting.

Contrast this attitude with the ordinary country, or any other city, Board of Education. Almost anyone who is interested can speak at a meeting, as the schools are considered the property of the public and not under the dominance of a few, as appears to be the case in St. Louis.

A protest against the top-heavy salaries for educators in St. Louis, while our children are herded in many high school centers, is in order. The money that we pay in taxes is not used for the benefit of our children, who have suffered many economies in the classroom, but to pad the salary checks of the faculty.

It is small wonder that an intensive drive is being made to retain the 85-cent tax by the board and the teachers. They have sent pledge cards to the parents through the children. They are using the same threats, as in other years, of closing the schools and other dire possibilities. If all this propaganda were in the interest of our children, then why the anxiety on the part of the board?

SCHOOL PATRON.

Gold As a Currency.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MANY specious reasons are offered by mono-metallists why gold should be adopted as the universal basis for all currency—resistance to erosion, divisibility, etc. Many other metals—silver, nickel, lead, zinc and others—could be utilized by like arguments.

For more than 100 years prior to 1914, the Bank of England purchased all gold offered for £3, 15 shillings and 7 pence per ounce. The credit of the Bank of England was good in all commercial Christendom.

So that the credit of that bank stabilized the price of gold instead of any inherent quality in the metal itself.

Proper Distribution of Income.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MAY I horn in on the discussion regarding the limiting of wealth to $1,000,000 per person?

It seems to me that this would not eliminate the evils of the production for profit system. The small factory owner can be and often is a worse exploiter of labor than the millionaire-owned $1,000,000,000 corporation.

The proper distribution of income is of more importance than the redistribution of wealth. If our present economic system is to continue, labor as a whole must receive a greater share of the value of that which it produces and the services it performs. If the New Dealers can devise a workable plan to bring this about, the country will again be made safe for the capitalists. I. H.

FOR SCIENTIFIC ASSESSMENT.

For the first time in years, a thoroughgoing re-assessment of St. Louis real estate is being made. Although all property theoretically is re-assessed each year, heretofore assessments have been based very largely on assessments of previous years. It has been a catch-as-catch-can method. Property owners with political influence, or those who chose to make an issue of what they deemed excessive assessment, have been able to obtain reductions. The great mass of property owners have simply paid the freight.

What has been the outcome? In a study made several years ago, the Bureau of Municipal Research discovered that all sorts of glaring inequalities have grown up. It found that St. Louis property is valued all the way from 17 to 99 per cent of real value. The re-assessment now being made, under Assessor Coale's order to disregard all prior assessments, confirms the bureau. It shows, for example, that in certain downtown and North Side districts, assessments are relatively large because depreciation in values has been greater than assessment reductions. In contrast, assessments are low in parts of northwest, southwest and west St. Louis, where marked industrial, business or residential development has occurred.

While much may be expected of the current re-assessment to iron out the inequalities, they will recur unless the city abandons the rule-of-thumb process of valuing property and adopts the modern scientific method, such as is employed in St. Paul, Cleveland, Detroit and other cities. Following the disclosures of the Bureau of Municipal Research, the Chamber of Commerce and Real Estate Exchange in 1929 invited John A. Zangerle, who introduced the scientific method in Cleveland, to come to St. Louis and explain it.

Mr. Zangerle's address showed that, in the matter of assessing real estate, St. Louis is woefully behind the march of progress. Under the Cleveland, or Zangerle plan, first are laid down certain standards of valuation, such as the unit foot plan, by which all deputy assessors must be guided. These standards, published in a manual, substitute formulas for guesswork. Assessors are instructed not only how to calculate the value of average lots, but are shown how to figure variations in value as presented by corner lots, inside lots and those of irregular contour. To adapt values to these standards, the opinions of bank appraisers, real estate men and property owners are sought, together with sale prices and other data. From this symposium of opinion and fact, a preliminary estimate of true value is deduced.

The next step is to draw outline maps of each tax district, showing the value that has been tentatively set for every parcel of property. These are displayed throughout the city, in neighborhood stores and elsewhere, to permit their study and discussion by taxpayers. This democratization of assessors' work has proved very effective. By demonstrating how assessments are figured, and by making public the assessment of every piece of property, subject to property owners' objection, a strong appeal is made to the taxpayers' judgment and sense of fair play. Even after assessment values are definitely fixed, maps and assessment manuals are available to the public at all times.

The Board of Aldermen, following Mr. Zangerle's exposition of scientific assessment, passed an ordinance directing the Assessor to establish such a system here, but lack of funds has thus far prevented its installation. Moreover, Assessor Coale's predecessor, Mr. Gehner, evinced hostility toward it and gave reluctant consent only after considerable agitation. There is reason to believe that Mr. Coale is sympathetic. As a matter of fact, 600 CWA workers, under his direction, are now compiling a card index of every parcel of real estate in the city. It is a fact-finding task and is the first step toward a scientific system.

We urge Assessor Coale to treat it as such. He can make his tenure of office a memorable one by ridding St. Louis of a condition which inevitably produces gross injustice. Incidentally, a scientific system of assessment, modeled on the lines of the St. Paul and Cleveland methods, is being applied by Assessor Neaf of St. Louis County, with the help of CWA workers, for which Mr. Neaf deserves and is receiving high commendation.

POETIC JUSTICE.

Heirs to the huge Wendel estate plan to ask the New York Legislature to pass a bill which would prevent its liquidation at present low prices for real estate, most of the Wendel fortune being so invested. For generations, it was the settled policy of the Wendel family to sell none of its property in New York City, on the correct theory that the development of the city would enhance the value of the Wendel holdings.

In other words, the Wendels were the beneficiaries of what the economists call unearned increment. Most of the fortune, estimated as high as $100,000,000, was earned for the Wendel family by the brains, labor and capital of those who have built up New York City. The estate is one of the most vicious examples of its kind, and we daresay there will be few tears shed if some of this unearned wealth is lost through liquidation at current prices. Those prices, depressed though they be, are infinitely higher than the prices the Wendels paid for most of their land.

IF CHARLIE HOWELL CHOOSES TO RUN.

If Charles M. Howell of Kansas City chooses to run for the Senate again, his fellow townsman, Thomas J. Pendergast, will be for him. Mr. Howell, it seems, has the matter under advisement, though he has not yet reached a conclusion. He is reported to be in the throes of indecision, which may very well be the case, we should think.

Look back on that 1932 race. In Jackson County, Mr. Howell ran like a bounding gazelle, like a frisky antelope, like winged Mercury, like chain lightning—in fact, like blazes. But elsewhere, he showed the velocity of a tortoise with water on the knee. And there is such a lot of elsewhere in Missouri, as both Mr. Pendergast and Mr. Howell ought to know.

The statistics tell it. They disclose that Mr. Howell got 173,000 votes, all told, and that Jackson County contributed 101,000 of them. From those figures, we are persuaded that Missouri, by and large, does not adore Mr. Howell and is not enamored of Mr. Pendergast—or didn't and wasn't, respectively, in the late contest.

Has anything happened in the meantime to endear Mr. Howell, or his patron, Mr. Pendergast, to Missourians? Not a thing. Has anything occurred to make Mr. Howell's second candidacy as forlorn a hope as ever stalked the hustings? Everything. Mr. Pendergast is about as far back of current political philosophy, let us say, as Darius, and Mr. Howell is about as modern as Agamemnon. Compared with either of them, Senator Roscoe Conkling Patterson talks with a Moscow accent. It is a good guess that, with Charlie Howell as his opponent, Mr. Patterson would—heaven forfend—be returned to the Senate.

WHAT THE CCC IS DOING.

Few remain of those doubters who, when the Civilian Conservation Corps project was launched last summer, ridiculed it as a futile and Utopian experiment. The CCC's solid accomplishments have established it as a highly useful agency, worthy of continuance through the recovery period, and of permanent establishment in modified form thereafter. The record of the CCC for its first six months, now available, is not required as an argument against skeptics, but is cited as statistical confirmation of what the corps has done in preserving the country's forest resources. The report includes the following pertinent record of accomplishment:

Tree and plant disease control operations over 1,675,000 acres.

Erosion control completed on 388,000 acres, and launched on 151,500 acres.

Tree planting completed on 25,750 acres and begun on 54,115 acres; total acreage of forest lands improved, 205,150.

Construction of 10,000 miles of truck trails, 5000 miles of telephone lines, more than 1000 lookout towers, tool houses, etc.

Healthful outdoor work furnished for more than 330,000 men, most of whose pay goes to their families.

Missouri's share in this useful enterprise will result in widespread developments in State parks that might have taken years to accomplish otherwise. On 40,000 acres of State lands, 4000 workers are busy clearing brush, diverting streams, constructing permanent buildings, preparing camp grounds, building bridle paths, fences, trails, telephone lines. The natural attractions of these State parks are being enhanced by this program, and the Missouri Ozarks soon will have recreation facilities to rival those of more widely publicised Eastern and Northern resort areas.

It is a wise program that combines conservation of natural assets with conservation of human assets. The men employed in this program have experienced gains in morale and health of incalculable value. Missouri is fortunate in having its dream of park development come true through the CCC program. Even more important is the salvaging of human beings from the despair and hopelessness of unemployment.

ART IN AMERICA.

A series of radio broadcasts which promises to afford a wealth of cultural information will begin at 7 o'clock tonight and continue every Saturday night through May 19. The general theme will be art in America to 1865. Tonight's broadcast, which will come over a coast-to-coast network through the facilities of the NBC, will be devoted to the little-known painter reporters of the New World—Joannes With, Le Moyne, Theodore de Bry and the few others who engraved or otherwise preserved in pictorial form what they saw in the American wilderness three centuries ago.

Succeeding programs are to deal with such subjects as the homes of early settlers, first American portraits, Colonial life as recorded in pictures, Copley, Peale and Stuart, the first sculptors and the difficulties which beset them, and the Hudson River school, whose members opened the way for their more famous heirs after the Civil War. The part of this section in the development of the nation's art will be brought out by descriptions of the work of pioneers like George Caleb Bingham, Chester Harding and Harriet Hosmer. Also of particular local interest should be the relation between the ornate interiors of the more palatial river craft and "steamboat Gothic" architecture, examples of which may still be seen along the river.

The initiator of the plan is the General Federation of Women's Clubs; the sponsor is the American Federation of Art. Doubtless their venture will have the wide audience which it deserves.

SUGGESTION TO THE MAYOR.

We note that the city has prepared applications for two Federal grants, totaling $468,000, to help finance construction of five new police stations and a new Armory. These are two of the projects set up in Mayor Dickmann's $16,300,000 bond issue propcsal.

Incidentally, has anyone seen the bond issue proposal recently? It is supposed to be pending in the Board of Aldermen, but pending is a very vague word. If the city is to get an opportunity to vote on it by May, the Board of Aldermen will have to act soon.

We suggest to Mayor Dickmann that he had better send out a searching party.

"NOT EVEN A BANKER."

He is "not even a banker," said Senator Carter Glass of the Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau. Well, if that is the degree of unfitness, others who have held the job, and did pretty well at it, were similarly disqualified.

Carter Glass, himself. When he resigned as a Representative in Congress to step into the shoes of William Gibbs McAdoo, any Senator could have said that the nominee is "not even a banker," but no Senator did.

Mr. McAdoo was "not even a banker."

Andrew W. Mellon? A banker, but only incidentally, who, if put to it, could sing:

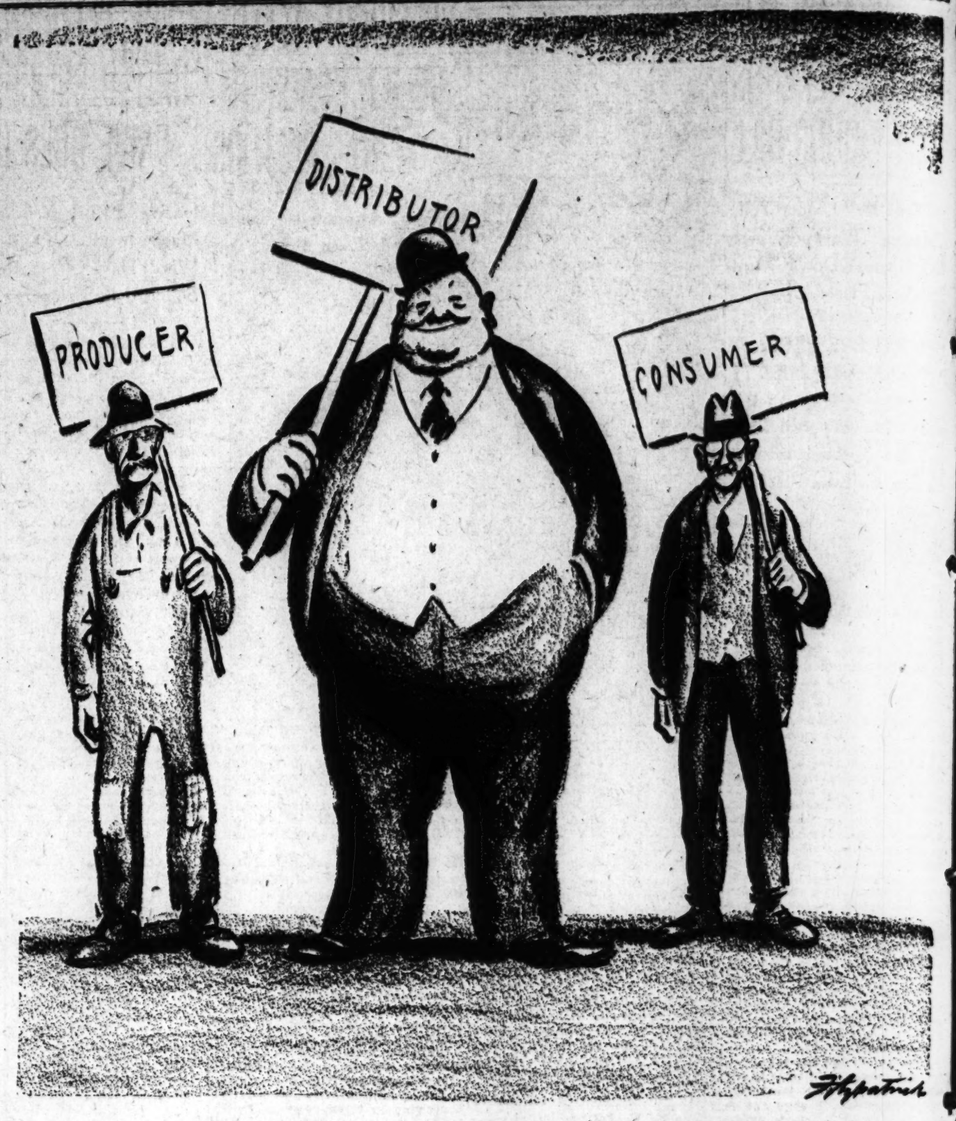

Oh, I am a cook and a captain bold,
And the mate of the Nancy brig,
And a bo'sun tight and a midshipmite
And the crew of the captain's gig.

Here was Caesar of commerce, to whom the country has long been rendering the things that are Caesar's. From aluminum to zinc runs the endless trail of tribute. Finally the monarch of possession surrendered the Treasury portfolio, which Mr. Hoover turned over to Ogden Mills—a gentleman of varied accomplishments and multiple interests, but, alas, "not even a banker."

There is yet another. Dashing warrior, brilliant pamphleteer, the young man wonderful of that ancient day, a magician who could strike the rock with Mosaic authority, yet he, also, must be shrouded with Carter Glass' interdict.

WHO GETS THE CREAM IN THE MILK BUSINESS?

TODAY and TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

The Devalued Dollar

THE President has now taken the step necessary to make effective the policy he promulgated on Oct. 21. It will be recalled that for the past three months the RFC has been announcing daily that gold was worth so many dollars and cents an ounce. But it never was. For a few days in November, gold was worth more than the RFC said it was. All the rest of the time, it was worth considerably less. Thus, for example, the RFC would declare in the morning, "Gold is worth $34.45 an ounce." But gold could be bought in London for, say, $33.80 an ounce.

Nobody in authority ever explained this mystery. But the explanation was obvious. The RFC would announce its high price, and then it would buy a little gold as cheaply as it could. The result was slightly ridiculous. For obviously, the only way to make the price of gold whatever the Government wanted it to be was to offer to buy all the gold that anyone chose to sell at that price.

But there were difficulties about this. For one thing, it was very doubtful whether the RFC had legal authority to buy gold at all, and so, instead of buying gold freely, it bought a little, presumably on the theory that a little sin was not a bad sin. For another, it would have looked bad for the United States Government to appear as the active purchaser of great quantities of gold in London and Paris.

* * *

The measures taken Wednesday afternoon get around all these difficulties. Instead of going abroad to buy gold, the Government is now letting anyone in the world (except American gold hoarders) sell it gold at $35 an ounce.

The difference is this: Instead of the Government's taking the initiative to buy gold abroad, it lets private bankers, exchange dealers, American and foreign, do the buying for it. They will now do what the RFC tried in vain to do. It is more polite and it is infinitely more effective. The price of gold will be what the Government says it should be, for the time being $35 an ounce, in every market in the world. For anyone anywhere who has an ounce of gold can now get 35 American dollars for it.

By this measure, the dollar is automatically stabilized in relation to gold. It, therefore, should be quite unnecessary for the Treasury to use any of the stabilization fund to hold the dollar at its new gold value. It will be held there by the fact that anyone can sell, and if necessary, buy gold at the new price.

* * *

What then remains for the great two-billion-dollar fund to do? That will not be known until we know what other countries do next. By fixing the gold value of the dollar definitely, though not finally or eternally, we have in effect invited them to fix the value of their currencies. Presumably, if they decide to devalue their currencies as much but not much more than we have done, we shall be content. That would mean a British pound worth $4.86 and a French franc reduced from its present value of 6 2-3 cents to not less than 4 cents. If, on the other hand, they sought to go under the old parity of exchange, presumably the American stabilization fund would resist them by buying their currencies and converting into gold or silver.

They are not likely to make a race in competitive depreciation. It is not to their interest to do so, and by taking the leadership in fixing our own currency in relation to gold, we have given the most convincing evidence that could possibly be offered that, so far as the international position of currencies is concerned, we desire stability and not a currency war.

That being the case, it would seem that externally the stabilization fund is now likely to be used simply to keep things in hand during the period of transition to a new valuation of the European currencies. What it may be desirable to do with it in relation to the Far Eastern exchanges, to Chinese silver and the excessively depreciated Japanese yen, is another and much more complicated story. What it may be desirable to use it for internally is another story.

Now, it is clear that the dollar is at the moment "under-valued." That is to say, a dollar will buy more goods in the United States than it will buy in Europe. This condition has to be corrected. It can be corrected by a rise in American prices, which would make the dollar buy less here, or by a fall in European prices or European currencies, which would make the dollar buy more there. If we did nothing to raise prices here, and Europe did nothing to change the buying power of the dollar over there, Europe would have to cut wages and would probably be thrown into general bankruptcy.

But, of course, it is our purpose to raise American prices somewhat, and Europe is free to increase the buying power of the dollar over there by revaluing European currencies. The two operations together should, in the end, make the purchasing power of the dollar approximately the same here and abroad.

* * *

The decision as to how much European currencies are to be revalued is for the European countries to make, and it is not for us to interfere, provided they do not depart substantially from the old parity of exchange. It is hard to see what better guess at the Anglo-American parity can be made than the $4.86 which prevailed for a century, and that is the only European exchange rate which really concerns us greatly. As for the French, the franc was almost certainly under-valued in 1928, and while it is now over-valued, there would not seem to be any good reason why the French should devalue as much as the British and ourselves. But the decision is theirs and not ours.

Our problem now is to expand the American currency in order to raise and sustain the American price level. We have not yet had that expansion. Though prices have risen, the actual volume of money, which means bank deposits chiefly, is no greater than a year ago. This makes the rise of prices, which we have had and are having, somewhat precarious, gratifying as it appears to be. For the rise is not supported yet by an adequate supply of purchasing power money.

To create that supply is now the chief task of the Treasury and the Federal Reserve System. The tools and the resources to do it have been created. There is gold in a virtually unlimited amount. There are central bank reserves in a virtually unlimited amount. The problem is to convert them rapidly, but under strict control, into money that buys goods and services.

There are two ways to do this. One is for the Government to borrow, not from investors, but from the banks, and for it to spend what it borrows. This is being done on a big scale through the budget deficit. The other way is for business men to borrow from the banks and spend in the form of capital investments. This is not yet being done.

But it has to be done. For the Government cannot borrow enough and spend enough to create all the new money needed to reflate prices and maintain them. The 10-billion-dollar deficit looks big on paper, but it is not big compared with the money which disappeared in the deflation. That is nearer to 20 billions, and the only way to recreate that money, without blowing the country out of the water, is to finance business through a credit expansion which creates bank deposits which are purchasing power money.

Anything which stands in the way of that credit expansion, be it the policy of the Federal Reserve System and the Treasury in keeping long-term money dear and short-term money cheap, or the liability provisions of the Securities Act, or the capital gains provision in the tax laws, or a too abrupt change, called for by the Banking Act, in the method of underwriting securities, is an obstacle to the success of the administration's program, and ought now to be reconsidered with an open mind from that point of view.

We have come a long way to the goal which the President set himself last spring, and with the same kind of intelligent audacity applied to the problems that remain we can now feel reasonably sure of reaching that goal.

Where Now, Samuel Insull?

From the Chicago Daily News.

YOU are a man without a country, Samuel Insull; a wanderer, harried and harassed, who in all the length and breadth of this great world can find no sure haven. But if, in fleeing from the law, you thought to escape punishment, you will have found by now what the ancients knew well, that for a man of your type there is no greater punishment than exile—to be eternally a stranger in a strange land, an idler, an onlooker, cut off from work, cut off from old associations, from friends, from family, from every normal human activity, alone with the past and the future, alone with regrets and with fears.

Why did you run away, Samuel Insull? It is incredible that you were merely afraid, you, a lifelong fighter. Did you think the storm would soon blow over? Did you miscalculate the forces of public opinion and of the law? Or was the need urgent, in order to shield others, that there be no trial, no new disclosures, and was flight dictated by misplaced loyalty to family or friends? What intricate skein underlies the slow, implacable tragedy? And when will be truth be known?

Where will you go now, Samuel Insull? Who wants you? What people, what city, is waiting to welcome you? What community will be proud to have you in its midst? In Egypt will you find rest, or in Abyssinia peace of mind?

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.

CLAUDE AUGUSTUS SWANSON, walrus-mustached Secretary of the Navy, probably will be the next Cabinet casualty of the New Deal. . . . Swanson is an ideal Naval Secretary as far as both Roosevelt and the Admirals are concerned. His life-long ambition has been to build up the fleet. But for years the ex-Senator from Virginia has been in poor health, once had to be carried out of a Senate hearing, and took the Navy post with the understanding that he would keep it only a short time. . . . Now he has been telling close friends that he may retire to his old home in Virginia.

Another probable casualty of the New Deal is "Chip" Robert, a member of the Little Cabinet. The genial Georgian has the best fund of stories in Washington and got along perfectly with Woodin. . . . But young Henry Morgenthau is suspicious of most Woodin appointees, is giving them little work to do, and Robert, thoroughly dissatisfied, probably will get out. . . . Roosevelt took time on his birthday to send greetings to Dave Salmon, efficient potentate of the State Department's confidential codes, whose birthday coincided with his.

Col. Carl Ristine, special attorney to prosecute the air mail frauds, was one of the great football players at Missouri University, but he is not popular with Missouri Congressmen. Scion of a wealthy Missouri family, he was put in over their heads by patronage-powerful Senator Bennett Clark. Ristine sees possibilities of the air mail frauds turning into another Teapot Dome.

Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, called in his bureau chiefs the other day and instructed them to be more polite and considerate to Senators and Congressmen. Nothing can check Honest Harold's passion for keeping politics out of Public Works, but he figured that some of his understudies could be more polite about it. Also the boys on Capitol Hill were beginning to blow off steam.

When Secretary Hull was in Buenos Aires he took occasion to tell President Justo of Argentina what a swell guy Ambassador Felipe Espil was despite the fact that Espil fights American economic policy more ferociously than any other member of the diplomatic corps.

The House Military Affairs Committee expects soon to begin investigating charges of fraud in the leasing of the Army base at Newark, N. J., to the Mercur Corporation under conditions first exposed in this column. Although the Government is paid on the basis of net profits, the Mercur Corporation is alleged to have charged up to its expenses such things as world series baseball tickets, theaters and airplane jaunts to Canada.

Yellow Man's Burden.

THE Japanese, not satisfied with commercial activities in Latin America, the Far East and India, now have their eyes on North Africa. . . . Prince Ridy Alaya of Abyssinia is reported ready to marry a Japanese wife. He is going to Tokio in the spring to select one of 10 Japanese beauties held in reserve for him.

Italy is provoked over Japanese penetration of Abyssinia, Britain has been bitter against Japanese goods in India, and now the Commerce Department has called attention to tremendous increases in Japanese trade with Latin America. . . . In Cuba, the Japanese Legation was active in Cuban politics, harbored several political refugees, escorted them safely aboard a boat.

Gen. Hayashi, the new Japanese War Minister, was the man who on the night Japan invaded Manchuria two years ago, ordered his troops to cross the Korean border without awaiting instructions from Tokio. After he had acted, he sent the orders to Tokio for signature.

President Roosevelt is seldom to be seen in a stiff collar. Usually he wears rather collegiate collars attached to his shirt and in sharp contrast to the bulging, barrel-like neckpieces of Hoover and Coolidge.

State Department officials shivered when George H. Earle III, American Minister to Austria, bluntly denounced Nazi terrorism, warned the Hitlerites to keep hands off Austria. . . . But when Earle visited the United States on a brief leave, Roosevelt gave Earle a triumphal welcome and his personal blessing.

Tammany members of the House are excitedly whispering in the cloakrooms about a coup to oust Boss John F. Curry from the inner wigwam. . . . They say only two votes are needed to make the blow effective. . . . They name as leader of the movement Eddie Ahearn, hard-boiled East Side district chief, who was Curry's leading opponent when the latter was chosen boss.

Tammany New Deal.

THE mere ousting of Curry, however, is not going to satisfy the Administration. . . . The President is demanding an entire New Deal in Tammany leadership. . . . Ahearn was told this bluntly when he put out a feeler as to how the Administration would react toward his assuming the Big Boss role. . . . He was told not only that he would not do, but that the same rule applied to all the other old district leaders.

Recognition of Soviet Russia has given a big impetus to Russian language courses in Washington universities. . . . Even Georgetown University, whose officers vigorously opposed recognition, is offering several Russian courses.

The CWA is costing the Government approximately $50,000,000 a week.

A survey of recent Power Trust activities just completed by the National Popular Government League charges that the extensive distribution of free beer was an important factor in assisting the interests in defeating a recent municipal light project in Portsmouth, Ohio.

Comptroller General McCarl, although a presidential appointee, can only be removed by Congress. . . . The term of the office is 15 years, and the incumbent cannot succeed himself. McCarl's term expires in 1936. He was appointed by Harding.

Representative Clarence Lea, dean of California's Democratic delegation in the House, gave a dinner to that group the other night which he and his wife won't soon forget. . . . The party, held in the Lea apartment, was proceeding pleasantly, when Representatives Hoeppel and Ford, both first-termers, got into a heated argument over patronage. . . . Hoeppel, known in the House as "Corporal Hoops-la" because of his raucous bellowing, charged Ford with truckling to the White House. . . . Ford in turn accused Hoeppel of disloyalty to the President. . . . Before anyone could intervene the two men had kicked back their chairs and were exchanging lusty blows. . . . Mrs. Lea, a small, slender woman, stepped between them.

Representative Dan Reed, upstate New York Republican, got a letter urging continuance of the CWA which he says takes all the prizes. . . . The missive demanded that he vote for additional funds for the CWA because a tap dance class now being financed by it would be disrupted if no more money is forthcoming. . . . Under the incorporation papers filed by the Electric Home and Farm Authority, newly created subsidiary of the Tennessee Valley Authority, it can finance cheap electrical appliances to consumers anywhere in the country.

Charley Chase and Wife Part.

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3.—The separation of Charley Chase, movie comedian, and his wife, the former Bebe Elting of the stage, after a married life of 20 years, was announced today. Living at a mountain resort, where she is recuperating from an illness, Mrs. Chase said she had given no thought to a divorce and said she did not wish to discuss their affairs. "Just lay it to the door of incompatibility," she said.

PRESIDENT TELLS RELIEF HEADS TO FIGHT POLITICS

"Be Absolutely Hard-Boiled, Even If You Hit the Biggest Boss in the United States."

ACTION HELD UP ON NEW FUND

Deferred When House Leaders Learn Some Insurgents Propose to Increase Sum to $1,500,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—State directors of the National Emergency Council were directed by President Roosevelt yesterday to keep politics out of the recovery program.

The President, referring directly to reports that some had tried to make "political advantage out of the relief of human needs," promised the backing of his administration with these words:

"Be absolutely hard-boiled . . . even if you hit the biggest political boss in the United States on the head in carrying out this program."

At the same time, he depicted the task of the state director as requiring "extraordinary patience and long hours—a smile at all times."

The state directors today planned to wind up the four days of "schooling" they have had with the heads off all the Federal emergency agencies.

House to Act Monday.

The talk was made by the President shortly after Administration leaders in the House had decided to withhold action on his request for $950,000,000 for relief and civil works until Monday and then proceed under riged rules to prevent too great an increase in the fund.

Although the House previously had granted unanimous consent for consideration of the appropriation yesterday, party leaders were apprised a few moments before the opening of the session that a bloc of insurgent's planned to propose continuation of Civil Works until after the November elections by increasing the appropriation to $1,500,000,000.

The $950,000,000 bill was approved today by the Senate Appropriations Committee, after Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator and Director of the CWA, told the committee in executive session that about $400,000,000 would be required to carry the civil works activities up to May 1, and the remainder would be used for unemployment relief grants to the states. He reiterated the administration plans to gradually cut down the CWA program and abandon it by May 1.

The Senate Committee struck out of the bill a provision approved by the House limiting expenditures through the Civil Works Administration. The House bill provided that no CWA funds could be used for projects approved by other government departments, which would virtually have limited the expenditures to state projects.

Text of Roosevelt's Statement.

I am glad you have undertaken this very great task. We have felt, as you know, for a long time that it was necessary to tie-in, in some way, the entire emergency program which, in its many ramifications, we have been undertaking from time to time. We feel also that this work of disseminating information and preventing the crossing of wires, had to be done through decentralization, and that is why you are here. You are the great decentralizers for the Federal Government and, in a sense, also, you are the coordinators between the Federal Government, the State and local governments. That being so, I think probably that the future success of this program is more in your hands than in the hands of any other group.

Frank Walker, as national director, has explained to you the various responsibilities you have. If you don't mind, I want to give you a few personal observations, based on certain experiences—four years in Albany, war work here during the Wilson administration, and a certain amount of experience in the last few months. They are:

One of the most difficult tasks that I know anything about is to get around and avoid the results of certain perfectly normal and natural human impulses—impulses based on selfishness and which take certain forms well known to most of us, either the purely personal form of trying to get special authority or special credit for individual applause or aggrandisement.

Work Not Partisan.

Another thing we run into is the idea, thought on the part of some people, of trying to make political capital out of relief work, out of the building up of what is in many ways a new theory of the relationship not only of government to citizen but also the relationship between employer and employe—the problem of taking care of human needs.

Where we have fallen down in these past months, I would say in about 60 per cent of the cases the falling down has been caused quite frankly by individuals who try to get either personal or political credit out of something that ought not to have either of these factors in the work in any shape, manner or form.

This work has nothing to do with partisan politics—nothing at all. A great many of you are Republicans, a good many are Democrats—quite a number do not belong regularly to one party or the other. We are not the least bit interested in the partisan side of this picture.

We do want you to be absolutely hard boiled if you find any local person within your own states who is trying to get political advantage out of the relief of human needs and you will have the backing of this administration 1000 per cent even if you hit the biggest political boss in the United States on the head, in carrying out this general program. I think it is awfully important for the country to realize that relief—the carrying out of the principles behind the national recovery act, the carrying out of public works and all of the other ramifications—is based on a conception that is far beyond local politics or the local building-up either of a political machine or a party or personal machine.

So that is one of the things you will have a hard time in fighting. I think you will be able to get the help and enthusiastic support of at least 90 per cent of the people within your own states if that idea can be thoroughly and completely gotten across at the very inception of your work.

People are going to rush to you with all their troubles. That will relieve us in Washington very greatly.

You will require extraordinary patience and long hours — a smile at all times—and the carrying out of the policy of not just the administration in a narrow sense, but the policy of what I think is the overwhelming policy of the American people today. We are all behind, with few exceptions, this broad program. We think it has done good. We believe we are on our way. We believe it is working out pretty well in all sections of the country.

Quotes Rail President.

I was interested in talking yesterday to the president of one of the greatest railroads of this country. I asked him how his road was doing. His reply was that while his road was carrying more freight and more passengers, the important fact was that the freight they were carrying revealed increases in every single classification of freight. That is the best illustration of the fact that we are building up economically in every section of the country, including practically all industries.

We know the human factor which enters so largely into this picture. We are trying to apply it to all groups needing aid and assistance and not merely just a few scattered or favored groups. That is why we want from you the kind of information and kind of reports that will keep us in touch with the broad picture—in every one of the 48 states.

I wish I could sit in with you in all the meetings you are having. When you return to your home states, you carry my very definite and distinct blessing. I hope you will not only keep Frank Walker informed, but through him, you will keep me in touch with the problems as you find them. Let us also have any suggestions you may have to make so we can give additional help from this end whenever necessary.

It has been fine to see you. Perhaps later in the spring, after you have been at work 5 or 6 months, we shall have another meeting in Washington.

U. S. CHILD WELFARE CHIEF SPEAKS HERE

MISS GRACE ABBOTT.

6,000,000 CHILDREN ON FEDERAL RELIEF

Although gains have been made in the child labor field, some phases of child welfare work have suffered seriously because of the depression, Miss Grace Abbott, head of the United States Children's Bureau, said at the annual dinner of the American Legion Child Welfare Conference at Hotel Statler last night.

The conference, which will close today, has delegates from 13 Midwestern states and is being attended by 350 Legion members, members of the Legion auxiliary, and social workers.

"We have lost ground in some ways in our welfare work," Miss Abbott said, "our slipping back in our mothers' pensions being one instance. Children always mean sacrifices and our best welfare programs are not those in our richest cities, but in those places where people are ready to plan and sacrifice."

Miss Abbott reminded her audience that there were now 6,000,000 children on Federal relief and said "it will take a long time for these children to get out of where they are—and not all of them will get out."

Miss Abbott has been head of the Children's Bureau, which is a division of the Department of Labor, since 1921. Before that she was an associate of Jane Addams at Hull House for 10 years.

Tom McConnell, legislative chairman of the Legion's child welfare committee, outlined a minimum child welfare program which contained recommended legislation for each state. Some of the points in the program, which he said should be made into State laws, were:

A family desertion and non-support law under which a deserting father can be extradited from another state; a widowed mothers' allowance law which will allow help to keep children in their own home, and a public health record for every child.

He also urged that each state set up a Children's Bureau which would appoint and advise county child welfare boards on the administration of laws in regard to dependent, defective and neglected children. He asked that the State Legion departments plan careful campaigns under intelligent leadership to obtain for their states proper child welfare legislation.

Miss Emma C. Puschner, national child welfare director of the Legion, also spoke at the dinner and reported that in 1933 the Legion aided 182,194 children of World War veterans at a cost of $724,537. In area D, which includes Missouri, 54,392 children were aided at a cost of $234,201.

JAPAN'S ENVOY, ON WAY TO U. S., SHOWS OPTIMISM

By the Associated Press.

"There is no real outstanding difficulty between the United States and Japan," he said. "It is absurd to say that Japan and America now or ever will be at loggerheads."

Saito called attention to expressions of opinion in America on the Manchurian problem, immigration and trade. These expressions, he said, indicated Americans are beginning to understand Japan's position in these matters.

"In Congress, in California and in other quarters it has been suggested that Japan should be placed on some basis of immigration quotas such as other countries. If such a thing occurs we should be very happy."

PETER W. GOEBEL DIES AT 75

Retired Kansas City Banker Once Headed National Body.

CARLSBAD, N. M., Feb. 3.—Peter W. Goebel, 75 years old, retired Kansas City banker who was President of the American Bankers' Association in 1917, died in a hospital yesterday of a heart attack.

In June, 1917, President Wilson appointed him a member of the United States section of the International High Commission. Born in Germany, in 1859, Mr. Goebel came to America alone when he was 14 years old and settled at Louisburg, Kan. He worked as a farm hand two years, purchased a drug store which he operated until 1882 and then sold it and entered banking. In 1923 he was chosen president of the board of the Liberty National Bank of Kansas City.

MISS PERKINS CALLS MEETING

Asks Governor to Send Representatives to Labor Conference.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Secretary of Labor Perkins yesterday called a conference of representatives of states and of workers to discuss formulation of a program of labor legislation on Feb. 14 and 15.

Miss Perkins said she had asked the Governors of all of the states to send representatives of their State Labor Departments and of wage earners. The need for legislation for unemployment reserves, child labor, old age pensions, and standards of hours and wages for women and the form such legislation should take will be discussed.

Archbishop to Preach Tomorrow.

SYMPHONY CONCERT OF REQUEST NUMBERS

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

THE annual request program was performed yesterday afternoon at the Odeon by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Vladimir Golschmann and will be repeated again tonight. It consisted of the prelude to Wagner's "Lohengrin," Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun," the waltzes from Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier" and the B Minor symphony by Tschaikowsky familiarly known as the "Pathetic."

Though not more than 20 per cent of the symphony subscribers sent in their ballots it is reasonable to assume that the numbers selected do present a fair cross section of the general taste. With that as a premise one may conclude that the musical public seems to be getting a little more conscious of less obvious musical values. Certainly the first half of the program could be presented, without apologies, on any occasion and for no other reason than its superior quality.

The performance of the orchestra was, in general, very good and in the particular instances of the Strauss waltzes and the Debussy prelude was quite up to its highest standard in the matters of precision and tone quality and was even more exceptional in the interpretive insight that it reflected. In the "Afternoon of a Faun" the effect of naive sensuality moving in the drugged atmosphere of a summer day was obtained by deftness in the blending of colors, the molding of phrases, the timing of accents and a special skill in relating the separate vocal strands to each other. The concluding measures had an emotional stress that has never been discernible in the performances of other conductors due to the momentary emergence of an inner voice.

At the close of the performance Mr. Golschmann paid a merited tribute to Mr. Torno, the first flute, by allowing him to take the first bow.

The "Rosenkavalier" waltzes epitomized the gayety and wit of the whole opera. The various tempi were irreproachable. The whole performance had a stimulating and authentic vitality. The Lohengrin overture, however, lost a singleness of effect by failing to achieve the necessary breadth at the climax.

In the Tschaikowsky symphony Mr. Golschmann was apparently trying to elevate the content of the music to a more dignified level. This was particularly noticeable in the Adagio Lamentoso, where he managed to convert the intolerable moaning of the second and most important theme into something a little more impersonal.

The playing of the orchestra was not as good in the Tschaikowsky work as it had been in the first half of the program. The first movement got away to a bad start when the bassoons entered mezzo-forte instead of pianissimo, the trumpets and trombones were in a general state of inexactitude in the Allegro molto vivace and the timpanist—in that same movement—struck bottom every time he saw a fortissimo staring him in the face. The metallic insistence of the brasses, however, would not have been so noticeable if the strings could have provided a little more volume. This numerical weakness of the strings is a problem to the conductor whenever massive tuttis are required by the score.

But with everything said and done it was still a successful concert in general and a distinguished one during the first half.

CARLO GUALDONI, FATHER OF PARTY LEADER, DIES

Carlo Gualdoni, 5326 Daggett avenue, father of L. J. Gualdoni, Twenty-fourth Ward Democratic leader and State Committeeman for the Twelfth District, died of paralysis yesterday after an illness of several months.

Mr. Gualdoni, who was 60 years old, was born in Cuggiono, Province of Milan, Italy, and came to this country in the eighties. He is survived by his widow, five sons and three daughters. Until tomorrow evening the body will be at the Calcaterra funeral home, 5142 Daggett avenue. Funeral services will be held at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday from the residence to St. Ambrose's Church, with interment in Old SS. Peter and Paul's Cemetery.

WALTER G. MOSER DIES

Executive of Construction Firm Sponsor of Amateur Sports.

Walter G. Moser, secretary-treasurer of the Moser-Shannon Construction Co and sponsor of amateur baseball teams died of heart disease yesterday at his home, 2321 Tennessee avenue, after an illness of three weeks. He was 41 years old.

Mr. Moser was born in Belleville, and came to St. Louis in 1916 as secretary of the Graner Construction Co. The Moser-Shannon firm was organized Feb. 1 last year. Once an enthusiastic ballplayer, he sponsored several teams in the Municipal League, and last year sponsored and managed a boys' team. He is survived by his widow and a daughter. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday at St. Luke's Evangelical Church, with interment in Walnut Hill Cemetery at Belleville.

CHANGES IN HIGH COMMAND OF THE NAVY ARE ANNOUNCED

Admiral J. M. Reeves Will Be Fleet Commander-in-Chief, Succeeding Admiral Sellers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Changes within the Naval high command both at sea and on shore to be effective late in the spring were announced yesterday by Henry L. Roosevelt, Acting Secretary of the Navy. Roosevelt described the changes as being in accordance with the Navy's policy of rotating fleet commands annually. They are usually announced at this time of the year.

Most important of the changes was the designation of Admiral J. M. Reeves, commander, battle force to be fleet commander-in-chief relieving Admiral David F. Sellers, who will become superintendent of the Naval Academy at Annapolis. The present superintendent, Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, after the close of the present academic year, will command cruiser Division Six, to be formed with new cruisers coming into commission shortly.

Vice Admiral Frank H. Brumby, now commander of the scouting force, will succeed Reeves as battle force commander. Brumby will be succeeded by Rear Admiral Edward Hale Campbell, the commandant of the thirteenth naval district, who assumes the rank of Vice Admiral.

Rear Admiral T. T. Craven, will become commander, battleships, battle force, with the rank of Vice Admiral, succeeding Vice Admiral Walton R. Sexton, who will become a member of the naval general board.

20 MORE TERRORISTS SENTENCED IN JAPAN

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Feb. 3.—Twenty men, the last of the participants in the terroristic attempt in 1932 to overthrow the civilian Government of Japan, which culminated in the assassination of Premier Inukai May 16 of that year, were sentenced to prison here today for terms ranging from three and one-half years to life.

Kozaburo Tachibana, leader of the "Love of the Homeland School" in Ibaraki prefecture from which many of Japan's direct-action nationalists have come, was given life—a sentence more severe than that imposed on the actual murderers of Premier Inukai. Many of those sentenced today were Tachibana's students.

Some time ago, 11 naval cadets were sentenced to four years for implication in the murder. Ten naval officers tried by courtmartial were sentenced to 10 to 15 years.

Home Owners' Loan Manager.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—With the gold rush from Europe to America apparently gaining momentum, stocks today turned up and more than regained their declines of the previous session. Rails and merchandising issues and specialties were in demand and advances of 1 to 2 or more points predominated. The close was firm. Transwers approximated 2,150,000 shares.

The dollar was an erratic mover in foreign exchange markets, dropping more than 6 cents at one time in terms of sterling, then recovering a portion of the loss. French francs also moved up with the pound and other European currencies followed suit.

Equities received their first encouragement from grains in several days. Wheat came back more than a cent a bushel before noon. Cotton was again moderately higher and other commodities displayed a steadier tone than recently.

Rail equipment stocks were given a play, American Locomotive advancing nearly three points while Baldwin Locomotive and American Car & Foundry were up 1 to 2 The more active carrier gainers of 1 to 2 included Union Pacific, N. Y. Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Santa Fe. Among others up as much were U. S. Steel, Du Pont, Chrysler, Case, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Auburn, Allied Chemical, Loew's, U. S. Pipe & Foundry, American Rolling Mill, American Commercial Alcohol and International Harvester. American Telephone was about unchanged and the aircrafts were still in supply.

Wheat closed ⅞ to 1⅛ cents a bushel higher, corn was up ¼ to ⅜ and oats gained ⅜ to ½. Rye advanced ¼ to ½ and barley firmed ⅝ to 1½. At Winnipeg wheat improved ⅛ to ¼ of a cent a bushel. Cotton finished with gains of 69 to 95 cents a bale. Bar silver was pushed up ⅜ of a cent an ounce to 44⅛ cents.

Sterling ended with a net gain of 5⅛ cents at $4.93⅛ and French francs recovered .10 of a cent at 6.33 cents. Dutch guilders rallied 1 cent at 64.60 cents and Belgian belgas and Swiss francs moved up .42 and .45 of a cent, respectively. Canadian dollars rallied 11-16 of a cent to 99.18⅜ cents.

News of the Day.

The turnover in stocks was about double that of last Saturday. Brokerage houses said there was an expansion of public participation, with considerable switching from long-held issues into more active shares. Only small buying, though, was reported from estate, trusts and investment trusts and some foreign account were said to have been taking profits.

Shares of some of the companies found new followings upon advices from Washington that the administration planned to establish a bank for the purpose of financing export trade, especially that to Russia and South America.

The bond market continued to attract both speculative and investment interest and many loans moved up to their highest levels in the past two years or more. Trading here was unusually active for a brief Saturday session.

Coincident with the early rally of the pound, bar gold in London declined 1 shilling, 3 pence to 138 shillings, 3 pence. Based on London's sterling opening, the dollar equivalent was $33.84 an ounce. This, of course, meant a difference between the British and American gold rates of $1.16 an ounce.

With bankers scrambling for gold in the world markets, it was assumed that the Government's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund would remain idle, at least for the time being, so far as operating in the exchange markets is concerned. Private buyers, it was felt, would account for all the metal available.

While some nervousness was evident regarding the possibility of France leaping off the gold standard, little fear of such imminent action was expressed by international bankers in close touch with the situation. A French gold embargo, it was thought, might only be instituted after a lengthy and severe drain on the republic's metallic resources.

WHEAT RANGES UP OVER CENT IN LOCAL TRADE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Feb. 3.—Wheat futures ranged up over a cent today, July, or new crop closing 1⅛c better, while May was ⅞c net higher at finish.

Winnipeg started out ¼c off to ⅛c up and early was ½c higher. The close was ⅛@¼c net higher.

Liverpool closed unchanged after opening ½d higher.

May wheat opened at 91, up ½c, and July wheat 89⅞c, up ⅜c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 33,000 bushels compared with 70,500 last week and 56,000 last year, included 5 cars local and 17 through. Corn receipts, which were 49,500 bushels compared with 84,000 last week and 88,200 last year, included 24 cars local and 9 through. Oats receipts, which were 18,000 bushels compared with 26,000 last week and 59,400 last year, included 8 cars local and 1 through. Hay receipts were 4 cars local.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Red wheat was 2¾c higher and hard 1½c higher. Corn was ½c higher and oats unchanged.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the exchange today were as follows:

WHEAT PRICE ADVANCES ON CHICAGO MARKET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Higher prices for grains today went hand in hand with mounting quotations of securities.

Some broadening of trade in wheat was evident, and a bullish construction was placed upon word that the grain exchange code would soon be approved. Increased buying of wheat resulted also from forecasts that drought in Southwest would continue next week.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅞@1¼ above yesterday's finish, corn ¼@½ up, oats ⅛@½ advanced, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents higher.

Increased attention was also given to announcement that the United States Government would find need for eliminating 5,000,000 acres more from wheat production. Opening ⅜ to 1 cent higher, wheat afterward rose further. Corn started unchanged to ¼ off, and subsequently advanced.

A rise of more than 1½ cent a bushel for wheat was soon scored. New crop deliveries of wheat showed a tendency to gain on May contracts, which stand for wheat already in bins. Commission house buying of July delivery was especially noticeable, and the undertone of the market was generally firm with traders closely watching the action of securities.

Wheat traders gave sharp attention also to evidence of a bull market in silver, with March silver up 70 points at one stage and May silver up 80 points. Another strengthening factor as to wheat was that millers were picking up cash offerings in the Chicago market.

Corn and oats moved up with wheat. Provisions sagged a little, as a result of absence of any aggressive demand.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The sweeping and unexpected advance of the dollar in terms of foreign currencies was finally reversed today, but it still held well above its new gold parity in terms of foreign currencies.

A fresh flurry of selling appeared in the French franc and other foreign currencies for a time in New York, after the dollar had declined in London and Paris, but this was soon absorbed. Exchange dealers in New York reported much speculative bear selling of French franc futures, which was regarded as a highly confusing factor. Foreign exchange departments of the New York banks were still in turmoil, with some maintaining constant telephone connection with London and Paris.

The French franc closed in New York at 6.33 cents, still .30 of one cent under its new parity, but .10 of a cent over yesterday's final level. The pound sterling finished at $4.93½, up 5⅛ cents.

In terms of the French franc, the dollar was still at a premium of nearly 5 per cent, and at a premium of more than 2 per cent over sterling, based on the London gold price, which declined moderately. The drop in the London gold market, however, was attributed largely to lack of fast steamship sailings for New York.

Further gold consignments to New York from Europe were announced, the largest being $5,750,000 consigned to the Lazard Freres, and $5,000,000 to the National City Bank. It was estimated that some $40,000,000 in gold had been consigned to New York from London and Paris this week.

BONDS ARE ACTIVE IN FURTHER RISE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Aggressive buying movement in the bond market which pushed prices up at a rapid pace during the week showed no abatement today. Further gains were scored in all sections of the list on a substantial volume of trading for a Saturday.

Certain issues continued to hold first place in the favor of buyers, but as happened in the last few sessions, top grade bonds of virtually all classifications, including U. S. Governments, moved in harmony with the upward trend.

Here and there in the low priced groups prices receded a bit at times as traders realized profits from the week's sharp upturn. The number of issues subject to such reactionary tendencies was small, however.

Gains of fractions to more than a point were shown at one time by some loans of the Allegheny Corporation, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Boston & Maine, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Utilities Power & Light, American & Foreign Power, Postal Telegraph, Cincinnati Gas & Electric, Detroit Edison, United Drug and others.

U. S. Governments edged forward from 1-32 to 14-32s of a point at one time and thus widened the week's gains to substantial proportions.

French and British issues were again under pressure in the foreign department at one time, yielding from 1 to 2 points.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Business on the Stock Exchange was generally quiet today. Gold mining shares were less buoyant because of the reaction of the price of bar gold but prices were appreciably higher nevertheless. Giltedged securities were dull, German bonds strong, transatlantic issues steady, and oil shares higher. The market closed irregular.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—Sustained public buying imparted an unusually cheerful tone to the Boerse today. Despite some irregular fluctuations, prices remained and closed generally firm.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Rentes were lower on the Bourse but domestic industrials held steady. Bank, chemical, metal, and international shares were stronger, particularly Suez, Oil, Royal Dutch, and Young plan issues. The closing was irregular.

DOLLAR IN FOREIGN MARKETS

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—The United States dollar was quoted at 2.60 marks (38.46 cents to the mark) on the foreign exchange market today as compared with 2.55 marks, 39.21 cents to the mark) yesterday.

Home Owners' Loan 4s.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Home Owners' Loan Corp. 4s, listed on the New York Produce Exchange, sold to the amount of $11,000 Saturday. The high was 98¼, low 97¾ and close 97⅞.

COTTON MARKET CLOSE 14 TO 19 POINTS HIGHER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Cotton futures opened steady, 1 to 4 higher on favorable textile statistics and trade buying.

March opened 11.46; May 11.64; July 11.79; Oct. 11.99; Dec. 12.10; Jan. 12.16.

Trading was moderately active at the opening. The erratic fluctuations in sterling probably led to some scattered selling or realizing, while there was further March liquidation. These offerings were readily absorbed by the demand from the trade or commission house sources, however, with May advancing to 11.67c during the early trading, or within 3 points of last Thursdays' high and 6 points net higher. The market was steady and within a point or or two of the best before session had gone far.

A little Southern selling was reported at the opening and there was some Liverpool selling here. Reports that sales of cotton goods during the first three weeks of January exceeded production by 60 per cent and that unfilled orders amounted to seven weeks' current production, were considered a factor in the early buying.

Cotton futures closed firm, 14 to 19 higher. March, 11.59-60; May, 11.78-79; July, 11.92-94; October, 12.10-12; December, 12.24; January, 12.34. Spot steady; middling, 11.95.

Smith & Davis Manufacturing Co. reports net loss for 1933 of $3353, compared with loss of $96,136 in 1932. Surplus at Dec. 31, 1933, was $17,374, gainst adjusted surplus May 1, 1933, of $20,728. Current assets were reported at $138,128 and current liabilities $7586. Cash was shown in the report at $12,851 and Government bonds, $20,195. Net sales for the period were $291,146.

In a letter to the stockholders W. E. Hoblitzelle, president, said that the volume of business booked in January, 1934, was more than twice the amount in any January the past four years, and that prices were better, due largely to NRA influence.

STERLING COMES BACK 6C IN EARLY MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Foreign exchanges rallied sharply in terms of the new American dollar at the opening of trading here today. The British pound sterling, which slumped to around $4.87 yesterday, came back for a gain of 6¾ cents at $4.94¾. The French franc also recovered .06½ of a cent at 6.32½ cents. Dutch guilders showed an early gain of .97 of a cent and other European currencies exhibited equal strength.

BAR GOLD AND SILVER, MONEY

The St. Louis Clearing House Association reported clearings for Feb. 3, 1934, $8,600,000; corresponding day last year, $6,600,000; this year, $306,500,000; corresponding period a year ago, $283,400,000. Report of debits for Feb. 2, 1934 were: Debits to individual accounts, $16,600,000; total to date, $480,700,000; debits to bank and bankers' accounts, $6,200,000; total to date, $199,400,000; combined debits to individual and bank and bankers' accounts, $22,800,000; total to date, $680,100,000.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — The position of the Treasury Feb. 1 was: Receipts, $2,816,920,587.20; expenditures, $80,501,465.79 (excess of credits); balance $4,434,713,155.18; customs receipts for the month, $1,308,913.96. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $4,495,124,459.16; expenditures, $3,521,407,521.96 (including $1,880,232,221.59 of emergency expenditures); excess of receipts, $973,716,937.20. Receipts for Feb. 1, 1933 (comparable date last year), $252,541,849.72; expenditures, $147,420,272.18; net balance, $463,604,430.41; custom receipts for the month, $496,267.94. Receipts for fiscal year, $6,094,791,978.27; expenditures, $2,367,110,505.88; excess of expenditures over receipts, $1,272,318,527.61, exclusive of $503,091,881.38 expended for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Three per cent rentes 64 francs 75 centimes; 4½ per cent rentes 80.25. Exchange on London, 77.15. The dollar was quoted at 15.72.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Bar gold declined 1 shilling 3 pence to 138s 3d. (U. S. equivalent $33.84 on basis of sterling opening at 4.89½).

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Bar silver strong, 11-16 higher at 19 15-16d.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Money, ½ per cent. Discount rates, short bills: 1; three-month bills 15-16-1 per cent.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Raw sugar was firm today, although spot prices remained unchanged at 3:30 with a sale of 30,000 bags of Puerto Rican afloat to a local refiner. However, this appeared to be the only sugar available at this level, with holders generally asking 3.33.

Futures were firmer and at new high levels for the movement under further covering and active buying by houses with Cuban connections. Final prices were 2 to 5 points net higher, March showing the maximum gain. Sales, 24,500 tons.

There was considerable realizing on the way up, but offerings were readily absorbed and final prices were the best of the day. March contracts sold up from 1.58 to 1.62 and September from 1.70 to 1.73.

Refined was unsettled. Previous announcements of an advance were all rescinded, the price remaining unchanged at 4.30 for fine granulated. However, one local refiner announced it would advance 5 points on Monday to 4.35.

LEAD, ZINC AND COPPER

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Metals nominally unchanged.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The St. Joseph Lead Co. reports that 400 tons of pig lead was sold from Southeast Missouri mines yesterday at $4 per hundred pounds New York and 50 tons at $3.90 per hundred pounds St. Louis.

BLANKET OPINION ON MEANING OF SALES TAX LAW

Attorney-General Gives Interpretation to State Auditor Who Has Charge of Enforcement.

FIRST PAYMENTS ARE DUE FEB. 15

McKittrick and Assistants Leave Constitutionality to Courts, but Explain the Different Sections.

BY BOYD F. CARROLL,
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3.—A blanket opinion interpreting the provisions of the new State sales tax law was issued today by Attorney-General Roy McKittrick to State Auditor Forrest Smith, who has charge of enforcement of the act.

The law, which imposes a tax of one-half of one per cent on retail sales of tangible personal property, and on the receipts from several specified services, has been in effect since Jan. 15.

It was passed, on recommendation of Gov. Park, to provide necessary funds to pay the State's share of the cost of unemployment relief, to provide additional funds for the public schools, and to aid in meeting a deficit in operation of the State Government, due to decreasing revenues. This deficit was nearly $2,000,000 for 1933.

First Payments Due Feb. 15.

The firts payment of the tax, for that part of January that the act was in force, is due on Feb. 15. The tax is payable monthly, and taxpayers will be required to make returns and pay the tax for a calendar month, by the fifteenth of the following month.

McKittrick and several assistants who aided him in preparation of the opinion did not pass on the question of its constitutionality, indicating that was a matter for the courts.

In passing on the various provisions they assumed each section was valid, McKittrick said.

The Attorney-General said the tax imposed was not actually a sales tax, but an occupation or privilege tax upon the privilege of selling tangible personal property at retail and furnishing the services which are subject to the levy.

In addition to retail sales of tangible personal property, the tax applies to sales of tickets or admission charges to places of amusement, games and athletic events, sales of electricity, gas, water and sewer service to domestic, industrial and commercial customers; telephone and telegraph service; newspaper advertising and newspaper service; commercial laundry, cleaning and dyeing service; transportation of passengers or freight for hire by railroad, express, bus, truck and all other transportation companies, billboards and other outdoor advertising services.

Many New Questions of Law.

McKittrick said many of the questions presented were new ones, which had not been passed upon by the courts in other states.

The question as to what constitutes "newspaper service" was not passed on. McKittrick said this would be left to the courts.

No explanation of what constitutes such service has been given. Sponsors of the bill and members of the joint conference committee of the two houses which drafted the bill in the form in which it finally was passed, did not agree on what it meant. One explanation was given that the classification had been copied from a sales tax act of another state, but what the service included was not defined.

McKittrick held all newspaper advertising in newspapers published within the State was subject to the tax, irrespective of the source of the advertising or where the contract was executed. He said the tax did not apply to the sale and delivery of newspapers, holding this did not constitute the business of selling tangible personal property at retail.

While commercial laundry, cleaning and dyeing service is subject to the tax, the Attorney-General held the receipts from pressing service were not subject to the tax, as this service is not included in the specific designations of taxable classifications. Under this ruling cleaners will have to segregate their receipts from cleaning and pressing, in making their tax returns.

Other Interpretations.

Among other rulings in the opinion are the following: The tax is on the privilege of selling tangible personal property at retail, and furnishing the services specified, and not on the privilege of using, buying or consuming, and the retailer therefore has no authority to collect the amount of the tax, as a tax, from the purchaser.

Food and sales of meals by restaurants, cafes and others are subject to the tax.

The "gross receipts" subject to the tax are defined as the entire operative income of a business, without any deductions. The sale price was defined as the amount received. The Attorney-General held that in the case of installment payment sales, the interest or financing charge for the extended credit was not to be deemed a part of the selling price.

While pointing out that there was some doubt as to whether municipally-owned utilities were subject to the tax, McKittrick recommended the State Auditor require them to pay the tax, until such time as the point could be passed upon by the courts.

Gasoline not used for motor vehicle fuel is subject to the tax. Gasoline used for motor vehicle fuel is exempt, under a constitutional provision that the present State tax of 2 cents a gallon shall not be increased until after 1938. All lubricating and fuel oil, and grease are subject to the tax.

Printing is included, except when the customer furnishes his own paper stock. This apparently will prevent collecttion of the tax on work done under the State printing contract, held by a Jefferson City company, as the State buys the paper used for its printing and furnishes it to the printer.

Burial Service Taxable.

Burial service is taxable to the extent of the casket and other personal property sold by an undertaker in connection with a funeral.

McKittrick held that sales of admission tickets by churches, public schools, fraternal organizations and similar groups, to amusements, games and athletic events, where the activity is not conducted as a regular business, were not taxable.

As to telephone and telegraph communication, and transportation of passengers or freight for hire, the Attorney-General held the tax applied to these services within the State, but not to interstate communication or transportation.

Receipts from goods sold to be shipped to a user outside the State are not taxable, but the act applies to sales in Missouri of goods shipped in from other states. McKittrick held the tax could not be levied on transactions strictly in interstate commerce.

Electricity generated outside Missouri and transmitted into the State by transmission lines with a voltage higher than that at which the current is sold to the user, was held to be taxable. Gas brought into the State by pipe lines also was held taxable, if the pressure at which it is delivered in the sale to the user, at his appliances, is different from the pressure at which the gas is sent through the interstate pipe line. Sales of water piped into the States in interstate commerce, and then redistributed to users, were declared taxable.

No definite estimate has been made by State officials on the amount of revenue the sales tax will produce annually. Estimates made by legislators varied from $4,000,000 to $7,000,000 a year.

McKittrick was assisted in preparation of the opinion by Gilbert Lamb, Harry G. Waltner Jr., Olliver W. Nolen and Edward H. Miller, of his staff.

Edwin Berry, 35-year-old chauffeur, was found dead in his beer delivery truck after the machine crashed into the rear of a street car at Broadway and President street at 4:30 p. m. yesterday.

The street car, southbound, had stopped to discharge passengers. The truck hit it and stopped. Berry was found dead on the floor of the cab. His chest was crushed when he was thrown against the steering wheel.

Berry lived at 3922 Parker avenue and was employed by C. A. Rowe, 6111 South Broadway, who has a hauling contract with the Central Brewery.

When her automobile stalled in the path of a freight train on the Wabash tracks at Bremen avenue at 6:45 o'clock last night, Mrs. Anna Shackleford, 2215 Illinois avenue, Granite City, got out and ran. The train, traveling at reduced speed, hit the machine, damaging it considerably.

ORGANIZED OPPOSITION TO TUGWELL DRUG BILL

Manufacturers Form Committee to Fight "Hasty and Bureaucratic" Legislation.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Organized opposition by members of the food, drug and cosmetic industries was given voice yesterday against the so-called Tugwell-Copeland pure food and drug bill now pending in the United States Senate.

Formation of a committee of leading manufacturers, said to represent the industries, was announced at a luncheon at which the proposed legislation was called "hasty," "bureaucratic" and threatening to the life of the business involved.

The group, termed the Joint Committee for Sound and Democratic Consumer Legislation, has the following membership: Lee H. Bristol, vice-president of Bristol-Myers, Inc.; S. B. Colgate, presiden, Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co.; K. F. Maclellan, president, United Biscuit Co. of America; Ellery W. Mann, president, Zonite Products, Inc.; Arthur R. Wendell, vice-president, Wheatena Corporation; Edward J. Noble, president, Life Savers, Inc.; Allyn McIntire, vice-president, Pepperell Manufacturing Co.

What They Contend.

Principal accusations made by the group spokesman were:

1. Restrictions on advertising.
2. "Bureaucratic control" by factory permit.
3. Seizure of goods without appeal.
4. Assumption of both legislative and judicial powers.
5. Too limited provisions for standardization and classification of products.
6. Unwarranted efforts to declare an emergency when none exists.

Bristol, as spokesman for the committee, said "we are in hearty accord with the intent of the bill—to protect the public and reputable manufacturers and dealers from fake nostrums, adulterated foods and harmful cosmetics."

Opposed to Form of Bill.

"But we are opposed to the form of the bill because it places bureaucratic control of three major industries—food, drugs and cosmetics—in the hands of an appointive employe and his subordinates. The bill is dangerous and un-American because of the unprecedented powers its places in the hands of the Secretary of Agriculture—any Secretary of Agriculture, no matter how competent or incompetent he may be."

Bristol said the manufacturers were in favor of continuing the Pure Food and Drug act of 1906 with the inclusion of cosmetics under its provisions. He declared any other necessary regulations should be worked out only after considered preparation.

Referring to alleged limitations on advertising, Bristol declared "advertising is the backbone of the industry and the cheapest way to success."

ORNITHOLOGIST KILLS HIMSELF

J. Hooper Bowles' Suicide Laid to Nervous Breakdown.

By the Associated Press.

TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 3.—J. Hooper Bowles, 59 years old, widely known throughout the Pacific Northwest as an ornithologist, shot and killed himself here last night.

Friends attributed the act to a nervous breakdown brought on by sleeplessness due to the incessant noise of pumps which the city had kept running near his apartment during the recent floods to carry off excess water.

COUNSELOR SAYS CITY CAN GO IN GAS BUSINESS

ASSERTS FRANCHISE IS NOT EXCLUSIVE

Believes Municipality Has Right to Set Up Own Plant in Spite of Perpetual Permit.

City Counselor Hay advocated entry of the city in the gas business, "the same as the water business," before the special Natural Gas Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday. He denounced rates of the Laclede Gas Light Co. as "extortionate," and declared the city could not obtain adequate reduction of these rates by regulatory measures.

"I have gone into the matter enough," he said, "to convince me that in order to assure just rates to the consumer and to aid in the solving of the smoke problem we should be in the gas business." Recently Hay obtained an order from the State Public Service Commission for a 3½ per cent reduction of Laclede Gas rates, but the company has obtained an injunction against this from Federal Court at Kansas City.

Alderman Scott, chairman of the committee, said it was particularly interested in the question of whether Laclede Gas has a perpetual franchise, as it says, and, if so, what the effect of this would be if the city entered the gas business. Hay promised to give the committee a formal opinion on the perpetual franchise question and on the city's right to condemn the mains and other property of Laclede Gas. The committee will meet again in about a week to receive this.

"No Exclusive Franchise."

"Whether or not Laclede Gas has a perpetual franchise, they do not have an exclusive franchise," Hay said. "The city, in my opinion, would have the right to set up a municipal plant in competiton with this or any other company. There is nothing to prevent the city from acquiring the property of Laclede Gas by either purchase or condemnation. We would have the right to condemn despite a perpetual franchise, if we saw fit."

Laclede Gas serves consumers with a mixture of manufactured gas and natural gas, buying the latter from the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation, which has a pipe line from the field at Monroe, La. Laclede has said it must keep up its gas manufacturing plants, not knowing how long the natural gas supply might last.

A report by Associated City Counselor Ferris on the availability of natural gas was given the aldermanic committee by Hay. It pointed out that the Monroe natural gas field was one of the largest in the country. The pipe line has a present capacity of 100,000,000 cubic feet daily, carrying gas of a heating value of 970 British thermal units. By increasing the number of compressor stations from five to nine, the report said, the capacity would be increased to 140,000,000 cubic feet daily.

"This is wholly practical from an engineering standpoint," the report went on, "but entirely unnecessary in order to supply enough straight natural gas to serve all of the consumers of Laclede Gas."

Facilities Near City.

The Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. has a line from the Texas Panhandle, carrying natural gas through Bowling Green and Louisiana, Mo., about 65 miles north of St. Louis. The report said a branch could be built here for perhaps less than $4,000,000, giving St. Louis a supply from a second great independent source. The two pipe lines, it was stated, serve many Missouri towns with natural gas; more than 100 Missouri cities have gas systems and of these only 10, outside St. Louis and St. Louis County, do not have straight natural gas. Mississippi River Fuel serves 14 industrial consumers here direct with natural gas and has contracted for the right to serve 13 others; in St. Louis County it supplies two industries and the St. Louis County Gas Co., which distributes a mixture of natural and artificial gas to consumers.

The report reminded the Aldermen that neither Laclede Gas, Mississippi River Fuel nor Missouri Industrial Gas Co., a subsidiary of Laclede, had been required to pay the city for the privilege of doing business. Other Missouri communities have much lower gas rates than St. Louis, the report continued, and in those places there is a greater use of gas for heating.

Retired Saloon Man Falls Dead.

William J. Wallace, 66 years old, retired saloonkeeper of 620 North Ninth street, East St. Louis, fell dead from heart disease yesterday at Ninth stret and Ohio avenue. The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning from the Burke undertaking establishment, 3300 State street, to Sacred Heart Church. Surviving are the widow and a sister, Mrs. Mary Nash.

CITY ELECTIONS WON'T AFFECT THOSE HELD ON LOCAL OPTION

Missouri Attorney-General Rules "General Election" Clause Applies to That of November.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3.—Attorney-General Roy McKittrick ruled today that city elections will not affect the holding of local option elections on whether to permit the sale of intoxicating liquor by the drink in municipalities between 500 and 20,000 population.

In the liquor control law recently enacted, holding to liquor elections are prohibited on or within 60 days of any general election.

"We conclude that a city election is not within the meaning of the Liquor Contral Act providing 'that no such election held under the provisions of this section shall take place on any general election or within 60 days of any election held under the constitution and laws of this state,'" the opinion held.

It was pointed out that the term "general election" referred only to the election required to be held on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday of November biennially.

Robert W. Hawkins, Caruthersville, prosecuting attorney of Pemiscot County, requested the opinion, which was written by Assistant Attorney-General John W. Hoffman Jr. McKittrick said many others had made similar inquiries.

Fourteen St. Louis County towns are eligible to hold local option elections on the sale of liquor by the drink. In some of these, officals believe, petitions for local option election may not be presented but they think elections may be called soon in others. A petition is being circulated in Clayton. Ladue, a village with 780 population, already has called an election for March 2, the trustees having received a petition signed by about half of the residents. Fred G. Zeibig, one of the trustees, said indications were that sentiment favored permitting the sale of liquor, but he does not anticipate any new establishments, in addition to the St. Louis Country, Log Cabin and Bogey Golf Clubs and Busch's Grove.

AIR MAIL SERVICE FROM GERMANY TO SOUTH AMERICA

First Plane Leaves Stuttgart on Regular Bi-Weekly Schedule.

By the Associated Press.

STUTTGART, Germany, Feb. 3.—A regular bi-weekly South American airmail service from Germany started at 8 a. m. today. A mail plane with an average speed of 200 miles an hour roared away southward on the first leg of a route which will reduce the mail carrying time from Germany to Brazil and Argentina by two-thirds, compared with the previous steamer service.

The 400 pounds of mail will be transferred at Seville, Spain, to another plane to go to Las Palmas, Azores.

There the mail will be transferred to a seaplane which will fly it to Bathurst, Gambia, on the West Coast of Africa. From there the mail will cross the South Atlantic by the flying boats of the Lufthansa airline, by way of the steamer Westfalen, the Mid-Atlantic floating base for the line.

The new airmail line brings Buenos Aires to within six or seven days distance from Berlin and places Rio de Janeiro within five or six days compared to the three weeks occupied by a steamer which only sails once every six weeks.

WOMAN GETS BEQUEST FROM "OTHER WIFE" OF HUSBAND

Both Married More Than 20 Years to the Same Man.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Jeanette Patterson Wallace of Philadelphia is to get the $1800 yearly income bequeathed to her by her late husband's "other wife," Mrs. Etta Mellier of New Haven, Conn.

Both were married more than 20 years to the same man. One knew him as Harold D. Wallace; the other, as A. A. Mellier. Not until his death did they learn of each other's existence and then they became close friends.

Assurance that Mrs. Wallace would receive Mrs. Mellier's legacy—and that her son, Jack Wallace, would get a $40,000 trust fund—came with the appointment of administrators by the register of wills, disallowing the contest filed by Mrs. Merhad H. Wilkinson, 100-year-old resident of Overlea, Md. Mrs. Mellier's estate is variously estimated between $300,000 and $500,000, with the largest part going to Temple University Hospital.

PROFESSOR BITTEN BY BROTHER OF STUDENT HE HAD FLUNKED

Anti-Tetanus Serum Administered to Educator in Puerto Rico.

By the Associated Press.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 3.—Anti-tetanus serum was administered yesterday to Prof. Theodore Parthenais, who flunked a student at the University of Puerto Rico in a course in business administration. The student's brother faces assault and battery charges for biting Prof. Parthenais.

Vidal Ramirez' family regards academic failure as a serious matter. Vidal failed in three subjects, and told his brother, Juan, about it.

852 Auto Deaths in Missouri.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3.—Automobile accidents in Missouri during 1933 caused the death of 852 persons, a survey by the State Highway Department shows. During the year, 372 persons were killed instantly and 480 died from injuries. The survey shows 7859 persons were injured during the year. Accidents were listed as follows: St. Louis, 690; Kansas City, 430; St. Joseph, 250; Jefferson City, 103; other towns, 1896; State highways, 3420; county roads, 337.

PINCHOT SAYS UTILITIES GOUGE $500,000,000 A YEAR

Pennsylvania Governor Gives Figure for General Overcharges to Consumers in U. S.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania declared today that public utilities in the United States have been overcharging the consumer $500,000,000 a year.

"Not all of them, but most of them have been pirates in the full sense of the word," he said. "It is high time the American people recognized that fact and took strong measures against any further robbery by these modern buccaneers."

Gov. Pinchot made these assertions in a radio address on the program of the Brotherhood of Edison Employes. He spoke to the brotherhood from his room in a New York sanitarium, where he is convalescing from shingles.

"When the Tennessee Valley authority was established, a new era began for the consumers of the nation. The Government has stepped in," he declared. If the utilities will not allow regulation to work, he added, "they will force the State and Federal Governments to take over the gigantic electric monopoly and serve the people."

TWO BROTHERS KILLED WHEN THEIR SLED IS HIT BY AUTO

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—Two brothers were killed last night and a third was seriously hurt when their sled was struck by an automobile. William Grill, 16 years old, and Harry Grill, 14, were killed. Robert, 12, suffered internal injuries and fractures of both legs. They were the sons of Harry J. Grill, road foreman of locomotives on the Reading Railroad's New York division.

A policeman detailed to guard sledders in another part of the city was injured seriously when struck twice by sleds. The patrolman, Edward O'Brien, was taken to a hospital after the sledders fled.

By the Associated Press.

YORK, Pa., Feb. 3.—One boy was killed and another hurt in a sledding accident at Felton yesterday. Eugene Graham, 14, and Claudie Stabley, 13, were taken to a hospital where young Graham died after an automobile hit them.

3 OF 4 CHARGES AGAINST KANSAS AUDITOR ARE DROPPED

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Feb. 2.—The State Senate sitting as court to try Will J. French, State Auditor, on impeachment charges, sustained today a defense demurrer to three of the four articles of impeachment, but overruled it as to the second article.

The second article involves the signing of warrant destruction certificates by the Auditor and his office.

This action meant the Senate would proceed with French's trial on but one article and French's attorneys were instructed to be ready immediately to present their evidence. A night session of the court also was planned.

PARIS TAXI STRIKE COMPLETE

Labor Minister Hears Troubles; Police Put Down Disorders.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Fear of violence made the Paris taxicab strike complete today while chauffeurs told their troubles to Minister of Labor Valadier. Garages were picketed and strikers watched all streets, while flying squads of police quashed a few minor disorders in the suburbs.

Today the drivers increased their grievances. In addition to their employers paying the additional 12½ cents gasoline tax, the chauffeurs now demand social insurance and better working conditions. Of the 40 cents that now goes for a gallon of gasoline, 21 cents is tax.

CHILDREN FIRE TWO CHURCHES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Two children confessed yesterday that they set fire to two Brooklyn churches within the past week, going inside to pray at the altars while the blazes they had started crackled in the vestibules. The children are Alice Grinnell, 8 years old, and her brother, William, 11.

One of the fires caused $10,000 damage to the church of Our Lady of Holy Rosary, but the other, at the Church of St. Benedict, was stamped out by the sexton before it could do much harm.

BREMER MISSING 18 DAYS

Still No Word From Kidnapers of St. Paul Banker.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 3.—Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, still was missing today, the eighteenth day since his kidnaping on Jan. 17. No word has been received from the gang which seized him for $200,000 ransom.

An unidentified man late last night related an incident he thought might have a bearing on the case. Little significance was attached to his story since authorities delayed until today their efforts to investigate it. The nature of the report was not disclosed.

Life for Holdup Murder.

By the Associated Press.

TALOGA, Ok., Feb. 3.—A District Court jury yesterday convicted Fred Streetman, 18-year-old escaped convict, of murder in the slaying of Henry Weiser, Fay storekeeper, slain with his wife and Tom Turnise, passerby, in an attempted holdup last December. District Judge E. L. Mitchell sentenced Streetman to life imprisonment.

Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., Weekly Tabloid Review of Business

Comment on Business.

BALTIMORE—Trend of trade still is upward. Department stores report gains of five to 20 per cent in sales over last January's; demand spreading to nearly all departments. Sales tickets showing larger purchases per customer than in many months. Gradual improvement in electrical supply trade. "Wonderful" is the word used by automobile distributors in describing current conditions. Wholesale jewelry business running 15 to 20 per cent above last year's.

ST. LOUIS—Further improvement in general business conditions. Coldest weather of winter stimulated buying. Shoe manufacturers, producers and ready-to-wear clothing, millinery, and knit goods received more orders than last week. Better operating rates maintained by steel industry, steady movement of drugs and heavy chemicals. Larger orders being received by wholesalers from small stores in cotton-growing states. Better prices for farm products.

CHICAGO.—Despite the zero weather, which kept many shoppers at home, retail sales were larger than last week; January volume up 20 per cent from year ago. Further improvement in wholesale orders, with road sales particularly heavy for wash apparel, accessories, and other spring items. Attendance at automobile show 60 per cent ahead of last year's. Rate of steel output higher; hide prices firm. Cold weather brought better demand for meat and lifted prices of livestock. Coal sales spurted sharply by zero wave.

CLEVELAND.—Retail sales continue above last January's, with outlook decidedly encouraging. Further expansion in wholesale buying. Improvement even more marked in manufacturing lines, with operations in some instances double those of a year ago. Steel operation 54 per cent of capacity, due to heavier demand for automobile industry. Paint manufacturers have booked more orders than during same period last year. Building material companies helped slightly by CWA orders.

DETROIT.—Helped by increasing employment, retail trade continues to gain, total sales for week ranging from four to 15 per cent above 1932 level. Low temperatures of the week gave a strong impetus to the movement of men's clothing. Reports from 34 county seats in Michigan indicate that business developments during the first quarter will be encouraging. Industrial activity, led by the automobile division, gaining strength each week. Automobile manufacturers have largest volume of unfilled orders in many years. Employment in automobile and allied industries the highest in two years.

INDIANAPOLIS.—Passing of first month of year finds general business in a stronger position than a year ago; special sales, together with extremely cold weather, helped retailers to move most of their remaining stocks of winter merchandise. Among major industries, substantial increases in orders and sales for machine tools in recent weeks are encouraging features.

KANSAS CITY.—Business continues to show steady gains. Wholesale orders broadening rapidly both for staple and spring goods. Moderate improvement in hog market, and some strengthening in cattle prices. Most grain quotations higher than last week. Largest increases in retail sales reported for groceries, hardware, electrical appliances, particularly washing machines.

LOUISVILLE.—Geenral business conditions gradually getting much better with marked improvement noted in industries operating under the code. Retail sales well above last year's level. Advance orders for sporting goods larger than last season; some stationers have orders 50 per cent in excess of a year ago. Manufacturers of foodstuffs, including cracker companies, and packers of salt closed the most profitable year in the last five; gains extended in January. Distributors of seeds encouraged by steady increase in orders; farm equipment sales retarded by unsettled conditions in the tobocco growing districts.

PITTSBURGH—Slight recession in both wholesale and retail volume because of the cold weather. Sales for January well above total for same month in 1933, sales in such items as dry goods, men's and women's wearing apparel, and shoes 20 to 30 per cent higher than in January a year ago. Wholesale orders substantially higher. Automobile sales rising rapidly; fair volume of business in tires and accessories. Industrial operations averaging 25 per cent higher than in January, 1933; operations of steel plants have been advanced to 34 per cent of capacity. Sharp increase in orders for safety glass from automobile manufacturers.

TOLEDO—Wide improvement in department store sales. Wholesale orders for drygoods and shoe bulk larger than in the previous week. Glass industry has resumed wider operations in the automobile, plate glass, and stemware divisions. Automobile manufacturers, foundry, and machine shop now running nearly at capacity; manufacturers of children's vehicles also have increased operating schedules. Many branches of the good industry operating 30 to 50 per cent above last year's rate.

YOUNGSTOWN—Sudden drop in temperature brought heavy demand for winter merchandise; stocks were depleted. Automobile dealers report steady increase in sales. Wholesalers report country orders nearly double last year's comparative figures. Rate of steel output rose to 40 per cent. Further advance expected next week as orders are beginning to pile in from the automobile trade. Orders for rail accessories and an increase in structural requirements are anticipated to widen industrial activity.

Note: Summary includes reports covering first day of week of issuance.

vision, gaining strength each week. Automobile manufacturers have largest volume of unfilled orders in many years. Employment in automobile and allied industries the highest in two years.

INDIANAPOLIS.—Passing of first month of year finds general business in a stronger position than a year ago; special sales together with extremely cold weather, helped retailers to move most of their remaining stocks of winter merchandise. Among major industries, substantial increases in orders and sales for machine tools in recent weeks are encouraging features.

KANSAS CITY.—Business continues to show steady gains. Wholesale orders broadening rapidly both for staple and spring goods. Moderate improvement in hog market, and some strengthening in cattle prices. Most grain quotations higher than last week. Largest increases in retail sales reported for groceries, hardware, electrical appliances, particularly washing machines.

LOUISVILLE.—General business conditions gradually getting much better with marked improvement noted in industries operating under the code. Retail sales well above last year's level. Advance orders for sporting goods larger than last season; some stationers have orders 50 per cent in excess of a year ago. Manufacturers of foodstuffs, including cracker companies, and packers of salt closed the most profitable year in the last five; gains extended in January. Distributors of seeds encouraged by steady increase in orders; farm equipment sales retarded by unsettled conditions in the tobacco growing districts.

PITTSBURGH.—Slight recession in both wholesale and retail volume because of the cold weather. Sales for January well above total for same month in 1933, sales in such items as dry goods, men's and women's wearing apparel, and shoes 20 to 30 per cent higher than in January a year ago. Wholesale orders substantially higher. Automobile sales rising rapidly; fair volume of business in tires and accessories. Industrial operations averaging 25 per cent higher than in January, 1933; operations of steel plants have been advanced to 34 per cent of capacity. Sharp increase in orders for safety glass from automobile manufacturers.

TOLEDO.—Wide improvement in department store sales. Wholesale orders for dry goods and shoe bulk larger than in the previous week. Glass industry has resumed wider operations in the automobile, plate glass, and stemware divisions. Automobile manufacturers, foundry, and machine shop now running nearly at capacity; manufacturers of children's vehicles also have increased operating schedules. Many branches of the good industry operating 30 to 50 per cent above last year's rate.

YOUNGSTOWN.—Sudden drop in temperature brought heavy demand for winter merchandise; stocks were depleted. Automobile dealers report steady increase in sales. Wholesalers report country orders nearly double last year's comparative figures. Rate of steel output rose to 40 per cent. Further advance expected next week as orders are beginning to pile in from the automobile trade. Orders for rail accessories and an increase in structural requirements are anticipated to widen industrial activity.

Note: Summary includes reports covering first day of week of issuance.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Mr. Joe Woodman Says:

"THERE'S a pretty good fighter coming out your way soon. I'm not handling him. Perhaps I wish I were. He is Hans Birkie, a German. I understand he is to fight Al Stillman in your city Feb. 7, and I thought you might like to know something about him," writes Joe Woodman, nationally known manager of fighters.

"Of course, he is a German. He ought therefore to go pretty well in your city. I think you saw him when you were in New York for the Schmeling fight, and possibly you remember him. His first bout in this country was with Steve Hamas, who, by the way, meets Schmeling soon. Birkie knocked out Hamas, but it was not official for the reason that it happened at the close of the tenth round and the bell rang while Hamas was being counted out.

STILLMAN

Despite the finish, the judges decided that Hamas had outpointed the man who had flattened him. I understand that Hamas has declined to box Birkie again. A few weeks ago Birkie easily defeated Retzlaff.

"He is a big game heavyweight who can hit and has never been knocked out. He defeated Les Kennedy here about two months ago and beat that big giant, Jose Santa. Two years ago, while he was still green, he fought Carnera and made a really fine showing. Primo received the verdict, but all the papers here said Birkie should at least have been credited with a draw."

* * *

Woodman, you will remember, was the manager of Sam Langford for many years and has since handled many famous fighters. Joe has had the respect of all the old-time handlers of boxers and his word is as good as his bond.

If Birkie is as good as described by Woodman, Al Stillman will have to be credited with a lot of nerve for taking him on.

Al, a conscientious workman, is after all only a light-heavyweight. He will be conceding considerable poundage to Birkie, who has faced some first class men in the heavyweight division, without suffering greatly.

* * *

Here's Another Viewpoint.

NOT all followers of boxing are pessimistic about the future of boxing. There's our old pal Harry Sharpe, probably the very best informed man in this or any other section of the country on what's what in the boxing world. A fighter himself, the winner of the longest fight in the history of the Marquis of Queensberry rules to be won on a knockout, Sharpe has been a keen observer and conscientious commentator on affairs of the ring for many years. In a letter to this writer Sharpe recently said:

"I still have hopes for the boxing game, for so long as the spirit of dare and conquest is in the breast of man there will always be sought an opportunity for its outflow. Natural laws are responsible for this but civilization has stepped in with laws that handicap the "killer" instinct and make it a sport. When these restraining regulations are ruthlessly set aside sport reverts to barbaric customs with which I have no sympathy.

"Boxing is a hard sport, a wicked one. It is the only sport I can think of where the man engaging in it is sure to be hurt. Your opponent aims punches at the head and body with the deliberate intent to cut, bruise and even disable. It takes courage to survive this and that is why

Londos Triumphs Over Gus; J. Cash Customer Almost Calls the Turn

By Damon Kerby.

John Cash Customer, the fellow who broke into print yesterday with the suggestion that Gus Sonnenberg would lose to Jimmy Londos through the method of missing a flying tackle and being counted out, was moanin' low this morning.

John C. C. saw a moral victory in his grasp when, peering over shoulders through the thick smoke haze, he watched Good Old Gus miss a tackle and go plowing through the ropes. Referee Rentrop started counting. At 15-16-17-18, Gus was still outside the ropes, but at "19" he was back in there, and Londos quickly polished him off with several forearm blows and a crotch hold and slam. The time was 38:10.

LONDOS

"I think I figured it out on the way home," explained John this morning. "There are three possible reasons why I lost out in my prediction by one single count.

"First, I forgot Good Old Gus was a former colleger, and that he would come back in the ring after a hard fall on his countenance for what the boys describe as one last good old college try.

That Funny Count.

"Second, I didn't realize that Referee Rentrop could count so slow. His count was at least a third slower than Harry Cook's, in an earlier bout, and Cook's looked about right. Besides that, Rentrop quit counting twice in order to shove Londos back. Sonnenberg was out of the ring a full 30 seconds.

"Third, perhaps I made a mistake in talking to a reporter and getting in the paper. It may be that those wrestlers can read."

John C. C. couldn't find much consolation in the fact that the bout actually ended by the No. 2 guess—the slam. Nor that except for the final fadeout, the great title epic, "for the championship of the world," had gone exactly according to Hoyle, with Londos on the defensive most of the way.

"No sir!" he said. "Or yes sir! I didn't think the time would come when I could miss calling the finish of one of Londos' bouts. Must be slipping."

Near-Record Crowd Attends.

If the victory was anticipated by the roaring crowd of 15,666 paying customers it was no less enjoyable. The addicts followed the squirm closely and chortled in appreciation when Good Old Gus brought misery upon Londos by tying up his arms in figure fours and putting on splits.

The champion's facial expressions could not be surpassed—even by a Zaharias—as he beat his hand and fist upon his own forehead and chest in stark, utter agony. Gad! What the man must have suffered!

Malcewicz Beats Doc Sarpolis.

The crowd was warmed up for the main event by two rousing preliminaries, followed by a rather colorless semifinal between Barefoot Joe Malcewicz and Karl Sarpolis. When he wants to Malcewicz can wrestle, but he isn't so good as a crowd-pleaser. He won his event by falling on Sarpolis after Karl had missed on an attempt at a flying scissors hold.

In the first of the blood and thunder preliminaries, Ernie Dusek subdued Solly Slagel, 230 pounds on the hoof, in 15:22 after some fancy ground and lofty tumbling that appeared to make the very rafters shake.

The event which followed between Abie Colman and Dick Raines was no less exciting to the crowd, which shelled out the not modest sum of $17,339.70 for its evening's entertainment. Raines was cast in the familiar role of villain, but he paid dearly before the script had run its course. At 21:14, Colman, long-armed, short-legged, nicknamed Tarzan for a very understandable reason, jumped feet first at Raines. Raines fell on the just and the unjust at ringside and was counted out.

NO BROADCASTS OF BALL GAMES TO BE ALLOWED HERE THIS YEAR

There will be no radio broadcast of baseball games from Sportsman's Park this year, according to an announcement made at both baseball headquarters this morning.

The announcement followed a conference between President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals and President Louis B. von Weise of the Browns.

No explanation accompanied the announcement. The advisability of continuing radio broadcast has been under debate in major league councils annually for several seasons, the leagues deciding at their last meetings to leave the broadcast question strictly up to each club owner.

Broadcasts have continued at Sportsman's Park since 1926. Originally three stations broadcast games here under permission from both clubs. The broadcasts were daily, including Sundays and holidays, and the stations were operating free of charge.

In the last two years the broadcast was paid for by the two stations operating, and their privilege confined to five week-day broadcasts only, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays being barred.

Owners in various parts of the country have questioned the value of the broadcast to baseball promotions. In some cities it is not permitted. In other cities, clubs permit broadcasts only when the teams are on the road.

GOODWIN AND STARK PLAY IN GOLF FINAL

By the Associated Press.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 3.—A hard-earned victory over Celeste Durand of Timber Point, L. I., at the thirty-seventh hole yesterday gave Bill Stark of Gainesville, Fla., the right to meet Tommy Goodwin of Monroe, N. Y., for the title in the national championship of club champions tournament.

Goodwin displayed a superb short game today in eliminating Howard Tryon of Elmira, N. Y., 4 and 3.

In the morning round Goodwin chipped in on both the fourteenth and seventeenth for birdies and finished with a four-stroke margin. Tryon steadied in the afternoon, but could not overtake the husky New Yorker.

Durand could not straighten out his tee shots today and lost the advantage he usually gains in driving.

Boys' Club Loses Meet.

The Boys' Club wrestling team lost its first meet in two years, last night, to the Kingdom House by a score of 18 to 13 points. In the feature match of the evening Jim Ehlert defeated Rodirguez by a fall in four minutes. Harry Doyle of the North Side "Y" refereed.

Billikens Tackle Kirksville Team In Game Tonight

Coach Mike Nyikos of St. Louis University is hoping that no further changes will be necessary in the Billikens' basketball schedule. A game booked early in the season with James Millikin had to be canceled and Nyikos, to keep his team busy, scheduled the Southern Illinois Teachers instead. The move didn't turn out so well, as the Little 19 team, at Carbondale, won a 39-37 victory over the Billikens.

However, a team that has won seven of 10 games and in those games has scored 337 points — 54 more than counted by the opposition—hasn't anything much to wail about and the general feeling around the St. Louis Gym is that scoring an eighth victory has merely been postponed until tonight, when the Kirksville Teachers will be met here.

The chances are Kirksville won't prove so difficult as the Illinois pedagogues were, as their record is not nearly so convincing as that of the Carbondale team.

Tonight's game will mark the cementing of relations between St. Louis and Kirksville, relations which will be continued this fall, when the football elevens of the two schools will meet here. Last season Kirksville was undefeated on the gridiron, and, with most of the 1933 team due to return to school in the fall, may have an important role in the battle for the State football championship of 1934.

As a preliminary to the varsity game tonight, the St. Louis U. freshmen will meet the strong Y. M. H. A. five. Play begins at 7:15.

BOB DUSSEAU OF ST. LOUIS IN TWO WESTERN SKATING FINALS

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Bob Dusseau, Missouri State champion, reached the final in the intermediate 880-yard race in the Western championships here this morning, when he finished second to Leo Freisinger, national champion, in one of the semifinal heats. Dusseau won his first qualifying heat by three yards.

Lucius More, the other St. Louis intermediate, was third in his first heat, but was eliminated in the semifinals.

Harry Furman was fourth in his heat in the 440 and failed to qualify. Truman Connell was second in the second heat of the men's 440, while John Bretz tied for first in his heat. Adolph Furman was 20 feet in front in his heat and was the third St. Louisan to qualify. Ed Weidler was third in his heat and also qualified. Lemar Ottsen was the victor in his heat and won easily by a 10-foot margin. Mel Dubinsky won his heat, which gave all the St. Louis skaters places in the semifinals except Harry Furman and Ted Young.

Ed Behring won his heat in the juvenile boys 440-yard event and qualified for the final. He was the only St. Louisan to qualify.

Bud Lewis was second in the junior boys' 880, while Buddy Bearman, the other St. Louisan, went out in a spill.

In the one-mile heats, in which three in each qualify for the semifinal, and also qualify for the two-mile final, Truman Connell, St. Louis class A star, won his heat, defeating Allen Potts and Ed Schroeder, the North American champion. Mel Dubinsky and Lamar Ottsen were other heat winners, while Bretz was second.

In the Class B women's 880 with three to qualify for the semifinal, Helen Wallace was third in her heat. Nina Larue was leading her heat when she fell on the last lap.

The referee ruled that she had been pushed and she was placed in the semifinal.

Bob Kiely qualified for the Class B. men's 880-yard final.

Vernon Goldstein was second in the Class AA men's 880, while Weber Ley was third and also qualified for the final.

Bud Lewis qualified for the final of the junior boys 880, although he fell while in the lead on the last lap. The judges ruled that he had been fouled.

Bob Dusseau was second in the first heat of the intermediate boys mile and qualified for the final.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS DEFEATS SHURTLEFF

CARBONDALE, Ill., Feb. 3.—The Southern Illinois Teachers, though listless after their 39-37 upset victory over St. Louis University, defeated Shurtleff, 31 to 22, in a Little Nineteen Conference basketball game last night.

Cunningham and Venzke to Renew Track Duel in Mile Race in New York Tonight

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The 27th annual Millrose A. A. games, featuring a renewal of the duel between Glenn Cunningham of Kansas and Gene Venzke of Penn, will be held in Madison Square Garden tonight with prospects for a capacity audience of 16,000. The 26-event program begins at 7:10 P. M. (St. Louis time.)

Despite the presence of Olympic stars, record-holders and national champions in many other events, the Rodman Wanamsker mile is the big magnet. The field will consist of Cunningham, Venzke, Glen Dawson of Oklahoma, Joe Mangan of Cornell and Frank Crowley of Manhattan, but it seems likely it will turn into a private fight between Cunningham and Venzke.

The Penn star easily whipped Dawson, Mangan and Crowley in the mile feature of the Prout Memorial games at Boston last week. In grand condition, Venzke ran his field into the boards and won as he pleased. He should give Cunningham a terrific battle tonight though the Kansan defeated him consistently over the eight-furlong route last season. The winner may have to get down close to Venzke's indoor standard of 4:10.

Among the other features are the 60-yard sprint featuring Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, national sprint champion, and Emmett Toppino of New Orleans; the Millrose 600, with Milton Sandler, national 600-meter champion, Ivan Fuqua of Indiana, Arnold Adams of Bates and Bernie McCafferty, formerly of Holy Cross; the high jump, with George Spitz and Walter Marty, indoor and outdoor record-holders respectively; the 1000-yard run with Charles Hornbostel of Indiana; the two mile, with Ray Sears of Butler, Joe McCluskey and John Follows; the hurdles, with Johnny Morriss of Louisiana, and the pole vault, with Keith Brown of Yale.

MINNESOTA TO PLAY OHIO STATE TONIGHT IN ONLY BIG TEN GAME

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Minnesota will make another try at attempting to win a game on a foreign floor tonight against Ohio State's battered crew at Columbus.

The game will be the only strictly Big Ten engagement on the program, and will have no effect on the conference race. Ohio State defeated the Gophers by four points at Minneapolis, but since their last meeting has lost Max Padlow, a regular forward, who dropped out of college. Minnesota has been tough on its own floor, but has yet to register away from home.

Chicago, minus its high scorer, Bill Haarlow, will meet Marquette at Milwaukee, and Iowa plays Bradley at Iowa City. Haarlow suffered a dislocated toe before the Minnesota game last Monday and will not be available for another week. Illinois may be without its best point-maker, Frank Forschauer, for the remainder of the campaign. Forschauer was reported ineligible last night, but may regain standing in time to play against Indiana next Saturday, by passing a special examination.

NICK CULLOP SIGNS COLUMBUS CONTRACT

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3.—Nick Cullop, one of the home run kings of the American Association, has signed his 1934 contract with the Columbus Red Birds and thus terminated rumors he was ready to retire from professional baseball.

He has been a beer salesman during the last winter. A right fielder, Cullop, batted .313 last season, hit 28 home runs, and drove 143 runs across the plate. His fielding mark was .980.

Terms were not announced but on Cullop's statement he was satisfied with the contract it was speculated he was at the top of the Red Bird payrol'

ROBERTSON IS ASTRIDE WINNER IN TWO RACES

Earl Porter Is Suspended For Three Days

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 3.

EARL PORTER, riding sensation of the winter with 47 victories up until today since Tropical Park opened Dec. 30, struck a temporary snag in his victorious march here this afternoon. The Illinois lad incurred the displeasure of Starter George Cassidy while lined up for the first race astride Regius, a colt owned by Mrs. S. H. Fairbanks and trained by her husband, Porter's contract employer. The Earl was given a three-day suspension for disobedience at the post.

Another apprentice, R. Merritt, received the same suspension for a similar offense.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 3.—Long shots had things all their own way in the first race, a six-furlong scramble replete with rough riding. Traffic Judge, paying $61.80, had clear sailing under Alfred Robertson and, taking the lead from Pana Franka after a quarter mile, the gelding drove home a length and a half clear. Fervid and Excitation, both closing very fast, accounted for the rest of the purse, a half length apart as named. Crazy Jane, the favorite, broke well, but dropped right out of contention.

Abner, an improving colt at home over the Nursery Course straightaway, took some of the best juveniles shown this winter into camp in the second event. The Dewey Bentham representative was lightly considered, despite his recent victory, and his backers collected $38.10. The son of The Porter caught up with No Saint and Alaric at the furlong pole and in a hard drive, won by a length from No Saint. Idle Victory closed well, losing the place by a length and heading Jim Crawford for third money. The time was :34 1-5.

Miney Hyerson, displaying rare gameness, was a driving winner of the third contest, a rather open betting affair. Strongly ridden by Allen Tipton, the $7.70 second choice beat Pot au Brooms by a length. The latter nosed out Terrier for the place, while Minton was only a head farther away. Miney Myerson ran Minton into defeat and held on all through the stretch to thwart his challengers. General A. was favorite and was outrun all the way.

S. W. Labrot's Springsteel, which drew a heavy play in the Hialeah Inaugural only to run a dismal last in the field of nine, was a different sort of animal in the fourth event today. The roan gelding ran the gray filly Coequel, lightly weighted choice, into the ground in the first half-mile and withstood a hard drive gamely to win by a length from Clotho. The latter had two lengths to spare over Evergold. Springsteel paid $8.30.

JUNIOR INDIVIDUAL FOIL CHAMPIONSHIP HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

The junior individual foil championship of the Mid-West will be decided at a tournament Tuesday night at the Fencers' Club, 39 Portland place. Only juniors affiliated with the Amateur Fencers' League of America are eligible to compete.

Competition in the junior division is restricted to fencers who have won prizes in the novice ranking, and the winner of the junior tournament automatically becomes a senior. At present only Conway Briscoe, four times winner of the Mississippi Valley junior foil tournament, is a senior in the Mid-West division.

Those who probably will compete Tuesday night include Briscoe, Ed Brigham, Robert Miller, Lon Hocker Jr., John Mutrux, Ted Leon, Walter Vesper, Lawrence Gregory and Otis Lynas.

120 DAYS OF RACING IN DETROIT THIS YEAR

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—There will be 120 days of racing at the Fairgrounds here this year as a result of alterations in the contract between the Detroit Racing Association and the State Administrative Board.

Horse racing was revived in Michigan in the fall of 1933 with a 31-day program. The association lost money during the first meeting, but not nearly as much as it had expected when the meeting was opened.

By Harold Tuthill.

Beaumont and Cleveland should get together and offer a vote of thanks to John Tudor, red-headed Central guard, because it was his 10 points that were instrumental in upsetting the leading Soldan five, 25 to 22, yesterday afternoon at Beaumont to precipitate the City High School League basketball race into a three-way tie between Beaumont, Cleveland and Soldan. The Blue Jackets won from McKinley, 28 to 17, at Emmaus in the other game of the afternoon.

Before Ralph Dorsey and Richard Douglas were lost to the Central squad, Tudor spent his time warming the Central bench. He was given his chance yesterday and he certainly came through in fine fashion with five field goals.

Tudor's performance was not the only outstanding one turned in, because, Central and Soldan battled all the way from a 2 to 2 tie to a 22 to 22 tie, with two minutes of play left. With the exception of the time when Soldan led, 22 to 18, neither team held more than a two-point vantage throughout, the scores at the quarters being, 6 to 6, 10 to 10 and 16 to 16, so it can be seen how close the battling was. There was only one free throw made in the whole contest and that was by Warren Becklen in the last 30 seconds of play. Soldan missed all five of its chances at the free throw line and Central made one in eight good.

Tudor Ties the Score

At the beginning of the final session, Tudor put the Mid-City five out in front, 18 to 16, with a field goal. In rapid order, Sam Kleg tied it up again. Then Ray January and Carl Steimnitz connected for Soldan to put the West Enders out in front, 22 to 18. The battling grew fierce as Soldan tried to protect its ma[illegible], but Tudor shoved his red head up twice and plopped in as many field goals to even matters at 22-all. Then with two minutes to play, Elmer Serb dribbled in for a short bank shot that decided the battle. With a half minute remaining, Becklen spoiled some kind of a record by tossing in a charity shot for point No. 25 for Central.

The victory missed by two points, being an exact reversal of the first meeting between the two schools, which Soldan won, 25 to 24.

Beaumont gained its edge over McKinley from the foul throw line, the North Siders making good on 12 free throws, whereas McKinley was able to convert but three. On field goals, McKinley trailed by only one, 8 to 7. Uhlemeyer, at forward, was the star for Beaumont. He counted three field goals and six free throws for a total of 12 points. The defending champions held a 12-to-5 lead at the end of the first half.

The standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Beaumont	5	2	.714
Cleveland	5	2	.714
Soldan	5	2	.714
Roosevelt	3	4	.429
Central	2	5	.286
McKinley	1	6	.143

NYIKOS TO REFEREE INTER-CITY GAME

Mike Nyikos, St. Louis University basketball coach, will referee the inter-city game between the Shaw-Stephens team of Maplewood and the Purol-Pep club of Dayton, claimants of the Ohio State girls' basketball title, at the Maplewood Senior High School gymnasium tomorrow afternoon. He also will be in charge of the preliminary between the Rock Church High five and the St. Edwards club.

In the preliminary, the St. Edwards quintet will oppose the Rock High girls' five. The latter team has won 14 of its 16 engagements, while the St. Edwards cagers have won six of their eight battles.

Murphy Selected As Referee for Stix-Malta Game

Robert "Ribby" Murphy, St. Louis soccer referee, has been selected to officiate in the Stix, Baer & Fuller-Sons of Malta second round match in the National Challenge cup competition tomorrow afternoon at Sportsman's Park. The kick-off is at 2:30 o'clock.

James Armstrong, secretary of the U. S. F. A., wired yesterday that the executive committee had approved the selection of Murphy. Jimmy Dunn and Oscar Mossman will be the linesmen.

The Sons of Malta will arrive tonight. The Detroit team is coming here with an unbeaten record. It has won 10 league games, a first round cup match and an inter-city match this season.

FOUR ST. LOUISANS ON OLYMPIC COMMITTEES

According to word received here today four St. Louisans have been appointed to serve on committees for the selection and training of athletes for the American team for the 1936 Olympic games to be held at Berlin.

John Drummond was appointed to serve on the wrestling committee; Dee Boeckman, on the women's track and field committee; Charles Gevecker, on the gymnastics committee, and Henry Kemper on the yachting committee.

Sunday School Quintets Urged To Submit Entries at Once in Post-Dispatch Basket Tourney

Roy Newsom, chairman of the committee in charge of the Greater St. Louis Church Basketball Tournament which, sponsored by the Post-Dispatch, will start play Feb. 12, has appointed his assistants and a meeting has been called for Feb. 8 at Maplewood.

The members of the committee are Tony Sestric, C. A. Neavels, Al Bofinger and Joe Muchow and, at the committee meeting, schedules will be arranged and pairings of teams for the preliminary games will be drawn. With only four more days for sending in entries—they close Feb. 7—the committee is urging teams desiring to compete to enter at once so arrangements may be simplified as much as possible.

Tourney at Pine Street "Y."

In connection with the tournament, a schedule also will be drawn up for members of Negro church teams. This tournament will be held at the Pine Street "Y" and James Cook of that "Y" will be in charge. All entries for this section must be mailed to Cook. The same eligibility rules laid down for the larger tourney will apply to the Negro competition.

The entry of the present Sunday School championship team—the Fourth Baptist five—has been assured. This team won the title after a hard contest last year and is anxious to add another title to its list. Many teams which have not yet entered are waiting until tomorrow to take team action. Many of the church fives play Sunday games and, before tomorrow's action, are expected to vote to enter.

It is hoped that this action will give the committee 100 to 120 teams to work with before the last day for entering arrives.

No Expense to Teams.

Remember, there is no expense attached to competition in the tournament; any number of teams may enter and the only rule of eligibility is that the pastor of each congregation shall certify that players are members of that church as of Jan. 1, 1934.

All entries should be sent to Roy Newsom, tournament chairman, care of the Sport Department, Post-Dispatch, and he may be reached for any further information by phoning CEntral 6400 or HIland 3584.

BOWLERS BEGIN COMPETITION IN SINGLES EVENT

The individual match game championship elimination for the St. Louis district will open tonight at 7 o'clock at four different bowling parlors. Four squads of 12 men each will take the drives at the Midtown, Cinderella, Grand-St. Louis and Century alleys.

Six games across six alleys will be rolled by the contenders, after which they will move to another group of alleys for six more games tomorrow at 2 p. m. The final six games of the bracket will be bowled tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

Twenty-four of the 48 bowlers competing in the tourney will be iliminated after the first round, in which total pins will count. Drawings for the second round will be made at a meeting of the Greater St. Louis Bowling Association Tuesday afternoon at Rogers Recreation.

An admission charge of 10 cents will be made at all preliminary matches.

MANCUSO SICK, MAY HAVE TYPHOID FEVER

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 3.—The star catcher of the Giants, Gus Mancuso, is ill here and may have typhoid fever. Dr. E. M. Armstrong said the first blood count showed no typhoid but that another count, to be made within the next two or three days, should prove more conclusive.

Charlie Dressen, also a member of the Giants, is in Memorial Hospital here, recuperating from an eight weeks' siege of typhoid.

Boken Signs Contract.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — Bob Boken, Washington's young utility infielder whose timely pinch hitting won eight games for the Nationals last season, signed his 1934 contract for $4000 yesterday after holding out a month.

PERRY GAINS HIS FOURTH VICTORY OVER CRAWFORD

By the Associated Press.

ADELAIDE, South Australia, Feb. 3.—Frederick J. Perry, English Davis Cup star and United States singles tennis champion, kept up his run of victories over Jack Crawford today, beating the Australian star in a two-net match, 6—4, 6—2.

Perry won the final of the Australian championship from Crawford at Sydney, Jan. 27.

Today's was the fifth meeting between the world's two ranking amateur players and the fourth victory for Perry.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 3.—After waging a courageous battle throughout the contest, the St. Louis Flyers lost a heartbreaking contest to the Kansas City Greyhounds when Pat Healey, Flashy Irish wing, scored on a sole dash in the second overtime period to give the local crew a 2 to 1 decision, here last night.

The victory extended the Greyhounds' string on home ice to 11 straight and left the Flyers still without a triumph here, although it seemed in the final period that the St. Louisans had achieved their goal.

Only eight minutes remained in the final stanza when Pete Palangio and Gordon Teel bore down on "Porky" Levine with the big Italian wing handling the puck. A pass to Teel and a quick shot shoved the disc past the Kansas City "goalie" and all the Flyers needed then was a tight defense.

Greyhounds Tie the Score.

Despite all their efforts, however, Artie Merrill and "Dry" Gordon teamed together with only two minutes remaining to score the tying goal with the former on the authoring end and the game went into extra periods.

The first overtime was unimportant although both goalies made spectacular stops to keep the contest going and it remained for Healey to put a thilling climax to the well-played affair.

The miraculous stops of "Goaler" Mickey Murray made the Flyer's cause a deserving one, for time and again the St. Louis net guardian warded off shots that would have been goals had an ordinary goalie been in the nets. For two and a half periods Murray was invincible and his saves had the Kansas City fans gasping, but negligence on the part of his teammates left him "vulnerable" at the crucial moment in the third period, and eventually cost his team the victory.

The defeat cost the St. Louis team a chance to advance in the standings and was unusually distasteful to the Flyers because of their record of not having scored a triumph here this season.

Kansas Defense Tight.

St. Louis forced the attack throughout and the Flyers were continually storming the Greyhound goal, but the Kansas City defense men aided its goalie splendidly and on only the one occasion did the Flyers manage to break through.

The Flyers were unfortunate in the third session when Paddy Paddon, their stellar wing, was helped from the ice after a hard body check by Gordon put him into the boards back of the goal. His injuries were not serious, however, and he returned to the ice for the overtime, although his knee was stiff and sore.

The Greyhounds played minus their playing coach, Mike Goodman, who is in the hospital here suffering from a severe head injury received in the game with Tulsa here this week. The Kansas City club was determined to win for their incapacitated mentor tonight and it was successful in its quest.

Fans Want Mayhem.

FEW persons who sit at ringside and complain because the action is slow, stop to put themselves in the place of the fighter up there in the ring. There is no ringside entente between the spectator and the fighter.

If one fighter doesn't flatten the other spectators today think they are malingering. As a matter of fact the man at ringside doesn't feel that he has had his money's worth unless visible damage has been done to one of the contestants in each bout on the program.

That's because the boxing of today has been sold to public on the expectation of damage to be done. Jack Dempsey, the killer. is the standard of measurement.

However, the knockout is far from being all there is to boxing. We can hark back a few years to the time when boxing was referred to as the "manly art of self-defense." In other words, it was to enable the average man to protect himself against physical assault. Of course, those were the days before automatics or even revolvers were carried. Even the highway robbers used physical force and not guns to subdue victims.

• • •

Abad Knows His Stuff.

TODAY, the idea of "defense" has been lost in ring encounters. About the only defense seen today is glove and arm-grabbing, whereas in the early days of boxing blocking, parrying, guarding, slipping, side-stepping and ducking were cultivated by all boxers. The defensive part of the game was 50 per cent of it.

About the only exponent of defensive boxing that at all approximates the old style employed today is by Davie Abad. And he'll give you an eyeful of how NOT to be hit, any time you watch him work. True, he has slowed up a bit. But he's still an artist.

Young Griffo, one of the great defensive artists of his day, although just a saloon bum, would lay his handkerchief on the sawdust, stand on it, clasp his hands behind his back, and bet you a drink you could not hit him in the head—and win every bet.

Unfortunately, appreciation of finesse has gone out of many sports. The knock-'em-dead idea prevails. Spectators don't want to pay to see skill, but to see destruction and victory. That goes for anything you can name, Bo.

MISSOURI HANDS OKLAHOMA FIVE ITS 1ST DEFEAT

By the Associated Press.

NORMAN, Ok., Feb. 3.—The Missouri Tigers handed Oklahoma its first cage defeat of the season last night, 31 to 28, in an exhibition contest. The two teams meet again tonight in a regular Big Six Conference game.

The Sooners played raggedly, only Bud Browning, veteran guard, showing the form that has marked the play of Hugh McDermott's five heretofore this season.

Missouri led, 11 to 10, after a slow first half.

As the second period got under way the Tigers rolled up a 24-15 advantage. Browing then engineered two solo rallies that each time brought Oklahoma within three points of the visitors.

Browning's 12 points in the second half, added to three free tosses in the opening period, gave him scoring honors with 15 points.

The defeat was the first Oklahoma has suffered from a conference team on the Sooner court since Missouri's invasion in 1931.

SHUQULAK, Miss., Feb. 3.—With the close of the third day's running of the Southland Endurance All-Age stake, no material change has been made in the standing of the dogs that have run thus far. Evergreen Jersey Mack, white and liver colored pointer, owned by L. D. Johnson of Evansville, Ind., still remains the high dog.

The running yesterday did not develope anything of such a high order that there is any likelihood that the Indiana pointer will be headed. The 26 dogs that have run their heats may develop the winner of second and third, but unless one of the four dogs that run today can beat Jersey's Mack's race, the chances are likely that he will take first place and the big share of the $1000 purse.

MAPLEWOOD FIVE GAINS 16TH STRAIGHT VICTORY

Maplewood High School kept its undefeated record for this season by defeating Normandy High 31—10 for its sixteenth victory.

It was also Maplewood's seventh league victory in the Suburban Division of the St. Louis County League.

Other league games in the Suburban Division resulted in victories for Webster Groves over Clayton 37—12, and Wellston's first triumph of the season, St. Charles losing 25—26 in the final seconds of play on a field goal by Bud Collett.

EAST SIDE FIVES IN BATTLE FOR LEAD TONIGHT

Collinsville remained in undisputed possession of first place in the Southwestern Illinois Conference basketball race defeating Wood River last night at Collinsville, 33 to 17. Granite City stayed in second place with a victory over East St. Louis, 42 to 27, while Belleville dropped to third place, losing to Madison, 30 to 17. Edwardsville defeated Alton in the fourth contest, 24 to 18.

Albert Musso, high scorer in the circuit last year, had his scoring eye last night against Wood River. The Collinsville captain collected six field goals and two foul goals for a total of 14 points.

Collinsville had an easy time with Wood River. The Kahoks led at the end of the first half by a 17 to 7 count. The victory was the seventh of the season in Southwestern Conference competition, against one defeat.

Granite City in winning over East St. Louis stamped itself as a serious challenger for the title. The five has won six contests and lost but two. Granite City can go into a tie with the leaders tonight when the two teams meet in the feature of the four-game card at Granite City.

Jateff and Beahler were the shining lights for Granite City in the victory over East St. Louis. Jateff collected 12 points, while Baehler had seven. Kurwoski was high scorer of the contest however as the East St. Louis captain registered six field goals and a free throw for 13 points.

Madison's defeat of Belleville dropped the Belleville team out of a tie for second place with Granite City, while it put Madison in a tie for third place with Belleville. Belleville led the Madison quintet, 12 to 8, at the half-way mark but could not withstand the Madison attack in the final half.

The Edwardsville-Alton contest proved to be Edwardsville's throughout. Paul Burris was high scorer in the contest as he collected 10 of the victors 24 points, while Osborne was high for the losers with secen points.

UNIVERSITY CITY HIGH QUINTET WINS FROM MEXICO (MO.) FIVE

MEXICO, Mo., Feb. 3.—The University City high Indians opened a two-game week-end basketball invasion here last night, defeating the Mexico High Bulldogs, Northeast Missouri Conference members, 16 to 8. Duchen and Margolus, visiting forward and center, led the scorers with five points apiece. University City meets the Missouri Military Academy quintet in a second game here this afternoon.

BRENTWOOD AND JENNINGS MEET IN BASKET FINAL

Brentwood and Jennings High Schools will play tonight in the finals of the second annual Ferguson High School invitation basketball tournament. The final will be played at 9 o'clock. A consolation game between Hancock and Ferguson will begin at 8 o'clock.

The Jennings-Brentwood game will probably be a repetition of last night's game, with a small fast team trying to overcome the handicap of Brentwood's tall five. The quintets have met once this season, Brentwood winning a close game on its floor by a 23-19 score.

Brentwood needed its height to defeat a fighting Ferguson team that constantly beat its opponent to the ball and was constantly trying to overcome the great difference in the size of the players. The score was: Brentwood, 33; Ferguson, 30.

Brentwood tallied on the first play of the game, and throughout the rest of the game kept a small lead. Ferguson tied the count at 12-12 three minutes after the second period started, but were unable to lead at any time.

After the third period began, Brentwood quickly sank four field goals to take a 10-point lead, but Ferguson kept attacking and a last-period rally gained nine points while holding Brentwood to two points, making the final score 33-30.

Ken Lyvers and Robert Baxter of Brentwood led the scorers with 13 and 12 points, respectively, while Charles "Piggy" Grimm scored 1[illegible] points for Ferguson.

Jennings had difficulty in the first half in stopping Hancock, holding a small 8-6 advantage at the half, but the second half saw Jennings score 13 points to Hancock's 5.

MARYLAND RA[illegible] TRACKS RAIS[illegible] MUTUEL TAKEOU[illegible] CUT "BREAKAG[illegible]

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 3.—Mary[illegible] racetrack operators, with the [illegible] proval of the State Racing C[illegible] mission, yesterday increased [illegible] track "take" on pari-mutuel o[illegible] talizator tickets from 5 per ce[illegible] with "breakage" to the dime—[illegible] per cent—with "breakage" to [illegible] nickel.

The actual increase, it was [illegible] mated, was from 6.81 to 7.85 [illegible] cent. Under the dime brea[illegible] plan in effect during the past [illegible] son, the purchaser of a winnin[illegible] ticket which figured to win [illegible] got $5.20. Under the nickel [illegible] he would get $5.25. The percen[illegible] "take" is subtracted from [illegible] amount bet before winnings [illegible] figured. The increase above [illegible] straight percentage comes from [illegible] pennies left over after the "br[illegible]

Despite the increase, the M[illegible] land take will remain the lowe[illegible] the country. It will include [illegible] 1 per cent emergency tax which [illegible] State now takes from track [illegible] ting.

BRENTWOOD AND JENNINGS MEET IN BASKET FINAL

Brentwood and Jennings High Schools will play tonight in the finals of the second annual Ferguson High School invitation basketball tournament. The final will be played at 9 o'clock. A consolation game between Hancock and Ferguson will begin at 8 o'clock.

The Jennings-Brentwood game will probably be a repetition of last night's game, with a small fast team trying to overcome the handicap of Brentwood's tall five. The quintets have met once this season, Brentwood winning a close game on its floor by a 23-19 score.

Brentwood needed its height to defeat a fighting Ferguson team that constantly beat its opponent to the ball and was constantly trying to overcome the great difference in the size of the players. The score was: Brentwood, 33; Ferguson, 30.

Brentwood tallied on the first play of the game, and throughout the rest of the game kept a small lead. Ferguson tied the count at 12-12 three minutes after the second period started, but were unable to lead at any time.

After the third period began, Brentwood quickly sank four field goals to take a 10-point lead, but Ferguson kept attacking and a last-period rally gained nine points while holding Brentwood to two points, making the final score 33-30.

Ken Lyvers and Robert Baxter of Brentwood led the scorers with 13 and 12 points, respectively, whi[le] Charles "Piggy" Grimm scored 10 points for Ferguson.

Jennings had difficulty in the first half in stopping Hancock, holding a small 8-6 advantage at the half, but the second half saw Jennings score 13 points to Hancock's 5.

MARYLAND RACE TRACKS RAISE MUTUEL TAKEOUT, CUT "BREAKAGE"

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 3.—Maryland racetrack operators, with the approval of the State Racing Commission, yesterday increased the track "take" on pari-mutuel or totalizator tickets from 5 per cent—with "breakage" to the dime—to 7 per cent—with "breakage" to the nickel.

The actual increase, it was estimated, was from 6.81 to 7.85 per cent. Under the dime breakage plan in effect during the past season, the purchaser of a winning $2 ticket which figured to win $5.27 got $5.20. Under the nickel plan he would get $5.25. The percentage "take" is subtracted from the amount bet before winnings are figured. The increase above the straight percentage comes from the pennies left over after the "break."

Despite the increase, the Maryland take will remain the lowest in the country. It will include the 1 per cent emergency tax which the State now takes from track betting.

SPRING.

Bowie, Monday, April 2, to Saturday, April 14—12 days.
Havre de Grace, Monday, April 16, to Saturday, April 28—12 days.
Pimlico, Monday, April 30 to Saturday, May 12—12 days.
Hagerstown, Tuesday, May 15 to Saturday, May 19—five days (tentative).

BUSH PICKS CUBS TO WIN N. L. PENNANT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 3.—Guy Bush, Chicago Cub pitcher, in an interview here yesterday, picked his team to win the National League pennant.

"The acquisition of Chuck Klein, batting champion of the National League, provided the power needed by the Cubs to finish first, Bush said. He also picked the Giants, Cardinals, Pirates and Braves as contenders.

Bush was here en route to Tupelo, Miss., to participate in a basketball program.

TABLE TENNIS TITLE TOURNEY BEGINS TODAY

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Headed by Jimmy Jacobson, holder of the individual championship, the New York table tennis team was favored today to win the National Intercity Title Tournament.

The first session was scheduled for this afternoon, with another tonight and the final tomorrow afternoon. Chicago, led by Coleman Clark, a former national champion, and Indianapolis, ranked as threats to the Easterners in the title battle. Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland, and Dayton, O., also had teams in the tournament.

CANZONERI IN SECOND VICTORY OVER LOCATELLI

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Tony Canzoneri had demonstrated his fistic superiority over Cleto Locatelli for the second time in six weeks today though it took a recount to get it into the record books.

A small crowd of 5000 saw the former lightweight champion give Locatelli another fine going-over in 12 rounds at Madison Square Garden last night, then listened in amazement when Joe Humphries announced the decision as a draw.

But it turned out to be all a big mistake in the scoring of the judges, Abe Goldberg and Leach Cross, the draw verdict was canceled and Canzoneri given a well merited decision.

Both judges actually had voted for Canzoneri instead of splitting their ballots, but when the decision was put up to Referee Willie Lewis he called it a draw. While the crowd was roaring its disapproval, Boxing Commissioners Bill Brown and Gen. John J. Phelan investigated, discovered the mistake and the decision in Canzoneri's favor was announced.

Cross' score sheet credited Canzoneri with nine rounds, Locatelli with only three, which accurately represented the viewpoint of ringside experts.

Goldberg voted 5-5-2, wrote "draw" but added "Canzoneri did superior work." Under commission rules, that last phrase constituted a decision for Canzoneri and the question never should have been referred to Lewis, whose ballot gave three rounds to each fighter and called six even.

Canzoneri won by a wide margin, ringsiders thought, outslugging and outboxing the invader, who holds the European lightweight title, and flooring him twice for "one-counts," in the second and third rounds. Locatelli gave another grand exhibition of courage but he was definitely beaten just the same.

PROCESSING TAX ON SUGAR PLANNED BY ADMINISTRATION

Program Includes Making It Basic Agricultural Commodity.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—A sugar program which includes making the sweet a basic agricultural commodity and a new stabilization pact to put the producing interests supplying the United States on a quota basis was drawn yesterday at a White House conference.

After the conference with the President, in which State Department and Farm Adjustment Administration officials participated, it was said that details were to be worked out in the next few days. An announcement by Mr. Roosevelt is expected then.

The idea of making sugar a basic agricultural commodity and the revival of the stabilization pact which failed last year is in accord with plans drawn by the Farm Administration's sugar section, headed by A. J. S. Weaver.

The program includes a processing tax on the sugar to raise the benefit payment funds. A half cent a pound levy on both domestic sugar and imports has been suggested.

EARL SHELTON HELD FOR HAVING WRONG AUTO PLATES

East Side Gangster Locked Up at Belleville Pending Application for Warrant.

Earl Shelton, East Side gangster, was arrested at Nashville, Ill., yesterday by a highway patrolman for having improper license plates on his automobile.

He was placed in jail at Belleville pending application for a warrant charging him with using license plates issued for a different make of car than that which he was driving. A young woman riding with him was not held.

Shelton, 38 years old, is on appeal bond under sentence of 18 months in Federal prison following conviction in Florida in a liquor conspiracy. In a similar case in Georgia, he was sentenced to 18 months and fined $5000, but a new trial was ordered by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

EDWARD MEYER WILL CONTEST

Son John Alleges Undue Influence by Brother and Sister.

Suit to set aside the will of Edward Meyer, market master of the old French Market, who died last March 15, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by his son, John H. Meyer. The petition alleges undue influence on the part of the plaintiff's brother, Edward C. Meyer, and a sister, Mrs. Anna C. Boll, who were named as executors.

It is provided in the will that John Meyer is to receive the income from a $5000 trust estate, which would go to his brother and sister at his death. The estate is valued at $23,000.

NEW FEDERAL REFORMATORY

It Will Be Opened Next Wednesday at El Reno, Ok.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Plans for opening of a new United States reformatory at El Reno, Ok., Feb. 8, to take care of the congestion at the reformatory at Chillicothe O., was announced yesterday by the Department of Justice.

The institution will take care of about 600 of the more tractable type of Federal prisoners.

GRAIN EXCHANGE CODE VIRTUALLY COMPLETED

As Drawn, It Would Abolish Practice of "Bids" and "Offers."

(Copyright, 1934.)
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—A code for the grain exchanges which abolishes some of the practices blamed for last summer's grain debacle and other periods of violent fluctuation today had reached virtually final form at the Farm Administration and was expected to go into effect soon.

Officials said that the code had not been passed on formally by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, but that few and unimportant modifications were expected before it went through.

Although many suggestions about the code have been made by farm officials, Wallace takes the view that the responsibility for it rests primarily on the grain exchanges themselves. These have sought advice from the administration in an effort to draft an agreement that would meet with its approval and head off legislation on the subject.

Bids and Offers Abolished.

Among other important changes, the code would permanently abolish the use of so-called weekly and daily privileges, known also as "bids" and "offers."

Theoretically, these are used, like the ordinary hedging transactions, as a form of price insurance, but both government and exchange officials assert this form of trading has frequently been a speculative weapon.

Other code points include:

Requirements for all speculators in grain to put up a 10 per cent margin until their holdings reach 2,000,000 bushels. After that an additional 15 per cent is required.

Each exchange is to name a supervisor who will be a non-exchange member, to police market and other code requirements.

Adequate Representation.

The exchanges are to give adequate representation to all interests directly concerned, the charge having been made that in some instances floor traders have had too much control.

A representative of the Secretary of Agriculture will sit in at meetings of the business conduct committees on the exchanges. He, however, will have no vote.

Generally speaking, the exchanges will regulate themselves through the code authority to be named, but most matters involving complaints of code violation are to be placed before the secretary for review.

The suggestion has been made frequently that the exchanges place a limit on the volume of speculative holdings which an individual might acquire. This plan was suggested in view of the business conduct committee's right to limit speculative transactions if they feel it necessary.

PASTOR DENIES HUEY LONG HIT REPORTER WITH CANE

Letter Written by Associate of "Kingfish" Is Presented to Senate.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — The striking of a newspaper man who attempted to interview him Thursday was denied yesterday in letters presented to the Senate by Huey P. Long of Louisiana. One letter was written by a Louisiana minister who said he had been mistaken for a bodyguard of Long.

The minister, the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith of Shreveport, La., a Louisiana labor leader, wrote that he was in Long's company and that "no motion of anyone to strike anyone else in any manner or particular was made." The reporter, Ray Moulden of the Washington News, said he attempted to interrogate Long as he entered an automobile at his hotel and that he was pushed by the Senator and struck on the arm with his cane. He said the blow was not painful.

The Rev. Mr. Smith filed suit in District of Columbia Supreme Court today against the Washington Times Co., publisher of the Washington Herald, seeking $150,000 damages for publication of a story allegedly representing him to be a bodyguard of Senator Long. The petition also denied that Smith made statements attributed to him relative to Long's having "tried to get a fight out of" Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans.

JURY TRYING TOUHY FAILS TO AGREE, IS DISCHARGED

Last Ballot 8 to 4 for Conviction in Factor Kidnaping Case; Retrial Feb. 13.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Unable to agree on a verdict after more than 25 hours of deliberation, the jury trying Gangster Roger Touhy and two associates for the kidnaping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor was discharged last night by Judge Michael Feinberg. The jurors' final ballot was eight to four in favor of conviction.

"I'm sorry they didn't bring in a verdict," said Touhy. "It would have been a verdict of not guilty."

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney announced his intention to obtain the permission of the British Government for Factor to remain in Chicago to testify at the next trial, which was set for Feb. 13.

Factor was under instructions to surrender in Federal Court today on a warrant holding him for extradition to England, where he is wanted for an alleged $7,000,000 stock swindle.

CONVICTED OF HOLDUP OF ACTRESS MAE WEST

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 3.—Edward Friedman was convicted by a jury early today of the robbery of Mae West, movie star, in September, 1932. He was ordered to appear Tuesday for sentence.

Friedman, convicted of second-degree robbery, faces a sentence of not less than one year on each of two counts.

The actress lost $17,000 in jewels and $3400 cash in the holdup.

Judge Harry Sewell today issued a warrant for the arrest of William J. Clark, Friedman's lawyer, who had been found in contempt during the course of the trial for remarks on Judge Sewell's rulings. Clark had been ordered to pay a $200 fine or serve 100 days in jail.

District Attorney's investigators were told that a plot was afoot to mar the features of Miss West with acid, but the investigators scoffed at the story.

NEW DOLLAR VALUE OF GOLD IN TREASURY $7,018,263,925

Profit to Government on Devaluation Placed at Near $3,000,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The Treasury today announced the new dollar value of its gold supply at $7,018,263,925.70.

The profit on the gold was paid into the general fund of the Treasury and put the net cash balance at a record figure of $4,434,713,155.18.

At this rate the profit on the gold by President Roosevelt's dollar devaluation order approached $3,000,000,000, and may reach this figure as more gold trickles into the banks. Gold in the general fund of the Treasury was carried at $3,132,484,053, as compared with yesterday's figure on the basis of the old dollar of $140,728,518.

The Treasury statement showed no separate breakdown for the huge $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund, but simply carried it lumped in with the total gold in the general fund.

Secretary Morgenthau has stated repeatedly that he plans to meet recovery cost by orthodox borrowing methods, but all the gold profit above the $2,000,000,000 fund was available for spending should the Treasury adopt this policy.

The profit to the Government on devaluation was given today by the Treasury as $2,805,512,060.

This tremendous sum, paid into the "general fund," wiped out the Federal deficit which stood yesterday at $1,922,598,173 and gave a surplus on the year's expenditures to date of $973,716,937.

CHECKS SENT TO DEPOSITORS OF TWO CLOSED BANKS

Payments Made From RFC Loans to Creditors of Chouteau Trust and Sarah-Olive.

Checks for about $245,000 were mailed today to 3600 creditors of the Chouteau Trust Co. and the Sarah-Olive Bank by Creighton B. Calfee, Special Deputy State Finance Commissioner in charge of the closed depositories.

The payments were the first since the banks were closed and were made possible by Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans on assets. Most of those receiving checks were depositors.

The Chouteau Trust Co., granted a $186,000 loan, paid 2600 creditors 25 per cent.

Checks representing a 30 per cent payment were sent to 1000 creditors of the Sarah-Olive Bank, which received a $59,000 RFC loan.

FOUR DENY KNOWLEDGE OF MURDER, BURNING OF BODY

Two Women and Two Men Held for Questioning at Bloomfield, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMFIELD, Mo., Feb. 3.—Two men and two women, held for questioning in connection with the murder of Arthur Robinson, 26 years old, today stoutly maintained their innocence.

Earl Wisemen, Mr. and Mrs. George Shanks and a sister of Mrs. Shanks, were taken into custody following discovery of portions of the body of Robinson on a huge funeral pyre in Stoddard County, not far from the cabin in which the victim had lived. He had been killed with an ax.

Sheriff George Barham said much of Robinson's furniture and clothing was found in Wisemen's cabin in Butler County.

SOLDAN WINS DEBATE TITLE

Soldan High School, defeating Roosevelt High School in city championship debate last night at the Roosevelt auditorium, won the right to enter the district finals, the winner of which will take part in the State tournament next spring at the University of Missouri.

The proposition was, "Resolved, that the United States should adopt the essential features of the British broadcasting system." Aaron Hotchner and Elmer Price, with Henry Kohn as alternate in rebuttal, represented Soldan. Richard Schulherr and Northcutt Coil were the Roosevelt team.

TWO BUSINESS MEN KILLED WHEN THEIR PLANE CRASHES

They Apparently Became Lost in West Virginia Snowstorm and Ran Out of Gasoline.

By the Associated Press.

RICHWOOD, W. Va., Feb. 3.—Dr. George H. Liebel, Cincinnati business man and a former associate, Edward B. Taylor of Chicago, were killed yesterday in an airplane crash five miles northeast of Richwood.

They apparently had become lost in the snowstorm which swept this area for 12 hours and ran out of gasoline. They were on the way to Cincinnati.

Although both wore parachutes, they apparently had not believed their situation perilous enough to use them.

Mrs. Henry Spencer, who lives nearby, said she saw the plane fall. She said Dr. Liebel was hurtled from the ship. His body fell on a rock and he died as she reached the wrecked plane, she said. Taylor was killed instantly.

CWA PAYROLL FOR WEEK $476,759 IN CITY, COUNTY

Decrease Due to Reduction in Number of Hours Men Are Working.

Payrolls of the CWA in St. Louis and St. Louis County for this week aggregate $476,759, or about 15 per cent less than last week, when the total was $559,427. The decrease was due to the recent reduction of working hours from 30 to 24 a week, to conserve CWA funds until Congress appropriates more money.

In the city this week there was a payroll of $378,707 for 24,327 workers, compared with $439,027 last week for about the same number. In the county the payment was $98,052 for 8811 men, compared with $120,400 last week.

Total payrolls since the CWA was created amount to $3,075,096 in the city and $894,954 in the county, an aggregate of $3,970,050.

LARGER PWA FUND LIKELY

Additional Appropriation of $1,700,000,000 Indicated, Byrns Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—President Roosevelt has intimated to House leaders that he will ask for an increase in public works funds.

Indications are that the present fund of $3,300,000,000 will be supplemented by an appropriation probably as large as $1,700,000,000, Representative Byrns of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, said.

NEW YORK STATE OFFICIAL QUESTIONS AAA MILK CONTROL

Attorney-General Thinks Courts Will Not Sustain Such Federal Authority.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Attorney-General John J. Bennett Jr. last night challenged the licensing powers of the Federal Agricultural Adjustment Administration when he stated his opinion that Federal authority over the dairy industry in intrastate transactions "is wholly unwarranted under any reasonable interpretation of the commerce clause of the Constitution."

"I cannot believe," he said, "that the courts are ready to sustain the exercise of any such power by a Federal administrative official whose only warrant of authority is the delegation of what might appear to be a regulatory power over interstate transactions granted by the Congress of the United States."

At the same time he held that "the desired result of uniformity in regulating the marketing of fluid milk in the metropolitan area can be achieved by a compact between the States of New York, New Jersey and possibly Pennsylvania."

The constitutional limits of both States and Federal action are thus preserved, he said.

Attorney-General Bennett's statement was made at the request of Henry S. Manley, counsel to the New York State Milk Control Board.

16 PCT. INCREASE FOR MONTH IN STREET CAR PASSENGERS

Gain Over January, 1933, Attributed to Rise in Employment and CWA.

Sixteen per cent more passengers were carried by the Public Service Co. in January than in the same month last year. This was the first time since March, 1930, that traffic showed an increase over the corresponding month of the preceding year. Company executives attribute last month's showing to increased public employment, including CWA activities.

There were 12,163,520 revenue passengers last month. Gross revenue was about $999,000, or 5.6 per cent more than in January, 1933. Figures for last month do not include business of the People's Motor Bus Co., recently absorbed by the Public Service Co.

Today

Man, in the Future.
Lost Life, Not Glory.
It Is a Thick Fog.
Canada Puts One Over.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1934.)

ONE of those deep, learned Germans, Prof. Papp, world authority on evolution, tells what man will be like in the distant future, and young ladies will not like the description. "Ten feet high, head massive and hairless, no teeth, lips thin and pale, brain able to transmit and receive electro-magnetic waves like a radio, X-ray eyes able to see through solid objects."

Nobody can predict what men will be like in future, when the hardest work will be pressing a button, with poverty and hunger unknown, disease conquered, population necessarily restricted by law, or, more probably, by nature's processes.

Dr. Papp's suggestion that "the human race will eventually be destroyed by giant insects that will inherit the earth," is a poor guess.

Any entomologist can tell him that their very structure makes it impossible for insects to attain any great size. And any chemist can prove that chemistry will always conquer insect life, unless insects should develop chemists abler than human chemists, which seems improbable.

The courageous Russian scientists who lost their lives exploring the upper regions of the air, did not, fortunately, lose the glory to which they were entitled. Nearly all their instruments were smashed when the gas-bag crashed, but the barograph, showing how high the balloon rose, survived the fall. The three young Russians reached a height of 72,178 feet, more than 13½ miles, far above the record.

Americans are now planning to go up 15 miles.

Lloyd George, in an important article, says that all Europe, as regards probable war, is like a ship in a fog: "You hear foghorns sounding all around you, but have NO idea whether they are ahead or to stern, to port or to starboard."

This country is in a similar fog as regards money. Just what we are doing, and why, and whither we are going, is guess work. But we got nothing by standing still, and this country hopes that when the fog lifts, the bright, clear waters of prosperity will be just ahead, and not an iceberg.

An able Canadian newspaper, the Toronto Mail and Empire, lets several interesting cats and kittens out of the bag in connection with the building of the St. Lawrence waterway. Many Americans will be interested in these facts, mentioned by the Canadian newspaper:

"The cost of the undertaking will be borne mainly by the United States.

"The United States abandons its ancient contention that Lake Michigan is an American lake.

"The treaty puts an end to Chicago's ambition to drain the Great Lakes, for the benefit of the Mississippi Valley.

"Lake Michigan belongs to the watershed of the St. Lawrence, instead of to the Mississippi watershed.

"No feature of the treaty is more surprising than the low cost to Canada at which the undertaking is to be carried out."

Americans will be especially interested in this statement: "Canada is to obtain 4,000,000 horsepower and the United States 1,000,000 horsepower out of the whole St. Lawrence waterway development."

The Canadian Minister to Washington is congratulated by the Canadian newspaper, because: "HE HAS OBTAINED A TREATY WHICH PLACES THE BULK OF THE COST UPON THE UNITED STATES," in addition to all the other advantages.

Somebody seems to have been asleep on our side of the border when that treaty was made, if facts are as stated by the CANADIAN newspaper.

The United States Senate will have a chance to say what it thinks about this, although just now it is not good form for the United States Senate to think, much less say what it thinks, if anything.

It would be a good idea perhaps, to say to our good Canadian friends:

"Many thanks, we shall not trouble you, we shall build a canal from the Great Lakes to the ocean all the way through American territory, bear ALL the expense, and keep ALL of the power developed."

Can you imagine our British friends making with any other nation such a treaty as the United States is alleged to have made with them?

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

by MARTHA CARR

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WOULD a masculine comment in answer to your advice to young people to accept a number of attentions of young men, be acceptable? This attitude you have reiterated many times in your column. Do the simple fundamental virtues of honesty, kindness, sincerity, loyalty and harmonious communion have no place in the conduct of young people as they associate together? Is the age, during which we find our life's companion merely devoted to a game?

Those who truly love, and want life-long contentment are unhappy with promiscuous dating which you advocate.

Surely the average man is not such an imbecile as to require a stimulus to his interest and the constant threat of the loss of his loved one. If so, it is not surprising that so many marriages fail. I have been married five years to the sweetest girl I have ever met. She used none of this subterfuge either during (or since) our courtship days. My one aim in life is to make her happy in return for her gift of love.

I will admit there are men who consider all girls their legitimate playthings and tire of a girl as soon as she is won. But how any woman can expect happiness from one capable of this cruelty is hard to imagine. Therefore, what is the good of keeping alive the interest of men of such unstable emotions?

L. L. H.

Unquestionably, your ideals are right. If all appeals came from persons so serious minded as yourself, these affairs might be kept on a lofty plane. But, after all, the uncertainty, the heart burns, even the faithlessness which causes so much sadness and disillusionment, makes of love a whirlwind sort of game that intrigues those who suffer most.

There is a French proverb which says, "Le premier soupir de l'amour a le dernier de la sagesse"; interpreted, "The first sigh of love is the last of wisdom."

I might quote the great "Bard of Avon" and a host of minds clearer much than mine or this subject who concede, more or less unwillingly, that those we love are not always the ones who love us—and the game is to see who wins: "Then fly betimes, for only they conquer love, that run away" (Thomas Carewe).

There is evidence, too, every day, in my correspondence, that our great cynic, George Bernard Shaw, uses his stiletto accurately in tracing the masculine viewpoint for many: "The fickleness of the women I love is only equaled by the infernal constancy of the women who love me."

There are girls and boys who imagine, after seeing each other twice, that they are hopelessly in love. Will I please tell them how to win? Or: "I love the boy and he said he loved me, but he dated me twice and now, he dates another girl; how can I win him back?"

"In the circs," as Mr. Wodehouse would say, what can you expect?

Dear Mrs. Carr:

MINE is a problem somewhat different from those you have been solving. I am a girl 17 years old, and have been attending Hadley Vocational School for the last two and a half years, taking a business course. Ever since last June I have been looking for work, but to no avail. The reason—no experience.

I would be willing to take anything, as my mother is a widow and there are six others at home, with only one working. How would you suggest I get experience, if they won't give me a chance?

INEXPERIENCED.

If, by experience, is meant working in an office, you would better offer your services somewhere, for a little while without pay. Probably you are perfectly well-trained for a job, maybe better than those whose "experience" is counted by months or years in the office.

• • •

Dear Mrs. Carr:

ARE Mexico, Mo., marriage licenses published in the St. Louis newspapers? J. L. H.

No, they are not published here, and neither is a notice of the marriage likely to be used unless persons marrying are very well known.

• • •

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM 14 years old. I am in the eighth grade in school and many boys have asked me to go out with them. My mother thinks I am too young to make any dates with them. Will you please advise me? DOT.

Your mother thinks you need all your wits for your lessons. If you have a group on Saturdays and Sundays for a little party that would be all right.

• • •

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I FEEL rather backward in writing, as it is all about a girl I love very dearly. Both of us are 30 years old. I met her in high school in 1918, so you see I'm writing in all sincerity and know my own mind. I had intended to propose marriage only after I had about $10,000 saved up, so I could give her a nice home. But she, evidently not caring for anybody else, not knowing my plans and not realizing how much I loved her, went into a convent. She takes her vows immediately.

There is no way for me to see or to talk to her and I will never see her again in all probability, because I never told her how much I really loved her and of my plans.

Having a good lifetime Government position, I had looked forward to a happy home, and I turned away from everything else because I knew this girl was straight and decent.

What advice can you give me—to go on and forget?

A HEAVY HEART.

This seems to be an illustration of the manner in which the "slow and sure" method works in matters of love. Next time try the "whirlwind" method; one is as good a guess as the other. But inarticulate love seems a little out of date.

• • •

My Dear Mrs. Carr:

I WOULD like to know which son of Theodore Roosevelt was killed in the war while flying. And, I should also like to know if "Archie" is still living, and if so, where. U. N.

Quentin was the one killed in the war, in the aviation service, and was buried where he fell. Archie lives in New York City.

• • •

My dear Mrs. Carr:

IN your column I read of a girl who asks your advice about marrying a man two years her junior. And I would like to relate my experience in marrying a man younger. My husband is seven years younger than I. And I can sincerely say that I have never regretted my marriage one minute. I have been married almost 15 years to one of the sweetest men in the world. He is always considering my comfort and happiness.

While I am older than he, nobody ever suspicions it, as my husband is rather settled for his age. He never cared for dance halls, therefore he was rather unlike boys of his age. As for telling him, I did not, before our marriage, but told him when we had been married about 12 years. It did not make any difference at all in our case. I must admit that my husband was reared with good principles and is very broadminded.

I cannot see how the difference in age can deprive this girl of happiness. I can say that my marriage is a complete success. MRS. F.

EVERYDAY RELIGION

WHY DOUBLE THE LOAD?

By THE REV. JOSEPH FORT NEWTON

MUCH of our misery is due to wasted worry about things over which we have no control.

In every situation there are two sets of facts. One we can manage, and the other we cannot. If we assume responsibility for both we double our load, and break our backs.

If I sit down to make a sermon, there are some things about it for which I can be held to account. For one thing, it ought to have an idea in it—one, at least! Otherwise I cannot make others see and feel it.

By every art at my command I must try to make the truth I am setting forth simple, vivid, real. The sermon must be rewritten, if need be, more than once, persuasively, as one heart speaks to another. Else it will float over the heads of people and fall dead.

For so much I am responsible, and can be blamed if I shirk, or skimp, or fail in my work. But there my duty ends, however passionately I may desire to go further. Alas, I cannot make anyone come to hear my sermon. If people do come, I cannot make them listen to it.

Their minds may wander. One man may be thinking of a trade he is going to make tomorrow. A woman may be thinking of a dress she saw in a store-window, or about some catty thing someone said about her. Nor can I make anyone believe my sermon, if they do listen to it. Still less can I make them practice it, however earnestly I may urge them to do so.

Here, then, are two sets of facts—one within my control, the other beyond it. If I fail to draw a distinction between the things I am responsible for and the things I am not, I pile on myself a load too heavy to bear. The sense of strain is increased, and by worry over what is beyond my power I may unfit myself for my work.

The same is true in your life, whatever your work may be. Our business is to do our job with our best skill—do it faithfully—and trust God for the rest. Why double the load of life?

SEEN in THE STORES

By SYLVIA

SPRING may not be the season for men to buy new derbies, but it is the season for women to buy them. Paris is credited with starting the craze of these feminine versions of the stiff hat which some men like and some abhor. The ones the women are wearing have the brims dipping at the front and turned up sharply at the sides. Most crowns are round but an occasional crown has a sat-upon look to the top.

• • •

One of those new "baffle bracelets" will be a boon if a party becomes quite dull. A girl can take hers off of her wrist and spend the rest of the time figuring out how to get it back on. These clever accessories are made of composition combining contrasting colors or white with a color. They are fashioned in two curved sections, one of which slips through the other.

• • •

Few shoppers can get past the neckwear counters. So many fascinating collars and vestees are on display. The irresistible type includes a striking effect made up of organdie and lace. The organdie is shirred to form a heart shaped yoke. Tiny Val edging is gathered full and arranged in straight crosswise rows. Around the entire yoke or bib goes a wide box pleated frill of the organdie. The collar is a small tailored one for which the organdie is doubled.

• • •

The natural looking gardenias that smart girls are wearing in their hair do not wither because they came from the accessory counter. A comb or a couple of combs attached to the back explain why they stay in place. Besides the popular white gardenias arranged in rows or clusters there are some striking colored flowers in vivid shades.

• • •

A bag and a belt are the heavenly twins when it comes to providing the bright notes that a dark costume needs. Get them of matching patent leather if you want to be up-to-the-minute. Bright red is by far the most impressive, especially if your costume happens to be black or blue. The bags that look best with such an ensemble are made without adornment and are very tailored of line.

• • •

Have you seen the newest cocktail jackets? If you have, you may have mistaken them for old-fashioned dressing sacques. Flowered seersucker organdie is the classiest of the materials. The most sensational color scheme consists of red and blue flowers on a black background. Necklines are frilled and waistlines are fitted to give a basque effect.

• • •

A patchwork scarf is guaranteed to attract plenty of attention, especially if you choose it in a blending of black and white. One of these scarfs is of white silk crepe with black sections here and there. Square, oblong and triangular pieces are applied at the ends and also in the middle—in fact, wherever the most contrast can be assured.

• • •

A one-sided bib of white shirred chiffon is the reason why a black crepe afternoon frock looks so unusual. For fear someone might think the bib is awry, the designer has obtained some big square black buttons and fastened it in place. Cuffs of the same sheer material have a point where you would least expect it, thereby carrying on the theme started at the neckline.

• • •

Not all of the organdie flowers in the shops are white. Some of them are a delicate blue and others are a very festive pink. Drawn-work designs add to the sheerness of the material as do cross-barred effects. Three-flower clusters predominate because of the recent vogue of high square necklines.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 2.

WITH the help of Damon Runyon, the blistering Captain Flagg and the more elegant but equally quarrelsome Sergeant Quirt with Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe will live again on the screen. The contract, signed in New York between Mr. Runyon and the Fox company, may bring the internationally known sports writer to Hollywood. If not, he will write his Flagg-Quirt opus in New York.

Now it's Veree Teasdale, tall, statuesque blonde, who will play Josephine in Edward Robinson's "Napoleon." Two French roles in a row are considered one too many for Kay Francis by Jack Warner, who plans to star her in "Du Barry."

• • •

Edward Small has a plan that includes John Barrymore as the "Count of Monte Cristo," and Sam Woods as the director. But Mr. Small is holding these big ideas in abeyance until Will H. Hays gives a decision on Universal's right to use the title of "Countess of Monte Cristo." The small organization, releasing through United Artists, maintains "Countess of Monte Cristo" interferes with their prior right to Dumas' classic.

• • •

You may be sure Ray Long didn't come back empty-handed from New York. Commissioned by Winfield Sheehan to buy stories for Fox he purchased six or seven books or serials, among them the most important being "Work of Art," Sinclair Lewis' very new book, and "Impersonation of a Lady" now running serially in the Ladies' Home Journal. The author of the latter is anonymous but Ray says he knows who it is and maybe a little later he will tell us.

Henry Walthall's important role in Marion Davies' picture, "Operator 13," reminds us of the excellent work that he did in "Birth of a Nation." That was also a Civil War picture and up to now holds the record. Charles Lederer, a nephew of Miss Davies and son of Reine Davies, is back from New York. Charlie is one of the ablest young dialogue writers and while he was in New York he wrote the best part of a play which will undoubtedly be produced.

Southern Omelet

Varied ways of preparing omelet help out on the Lenten menus. Cook together one-half cup chopped bacon, ½ cup tomatoes, one tablespoon chopped onion and one-half cup chopped apple until the bacon and onion are browned lightly. Add to a six-egg omelet and proceed as for plain omelet. A chopped pimento may be substituted for the onion if desired.

BRIDGE

by P. HAL SIMS

It Is So Much Safer to Count the Losers in a Big Hand

THE New York Herald Tribune's bridge section, "The Bridge Table," an excellent daily feature conducted by Robert Neville, publishes many interesting hands. Sometimes the real point of the hand seems to me to be other than that raised in the correspondent's remarks, or even those of Mr. Neville himself. Here is a recent one:

HAL SIMS

	♠A ♥AJ109 ♦AKJ84 ♣AKJ
♠Q1095 ♥8732 ♦762 ♣83	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠K62 ♥KQ4 ♦953 ♣Q1074
	♠J8743 ♥65 ♦Q10 ♣9652

N. (Dealer) Two diamonds.
S. Two no trumps.
N. Three hearts.
S. Three spades.
N. Three no trumps.
S. Pass.

The two of hearts is led. Dummy plays low; East wins (I suppose with the king) and returns a small spade. The Declarer is lured into taking a risk in order to play for overtricks, and finesses the heart. He has to do this, if at all, before taking in nine tricks, as diamonds are his only entries to Dummy. Thus he is set, losing two hearts and three spades. The point stressed is that though this would be unpardonable in rubber play, there is much to be said for it under match point scoring. This is true in itself; I am in no position to criticise chance-taking plays for extra tricks. However, on this hand, my opinion is that the North-South partnership started to wreck the hand by the opening bid. The situation might still have been rectified had South responded with two natural spades instead of two artificial trumps; but once the no-trump declaration was placed in the South hand, all strategy had vanished. The big hand is exposed when it is not strong enough to stand exposure, and the defense is given an open book of instructions.

Sims Bidding.

Those who accept my views on forcing opening bids would bid two no trumps with the North hand—an "abnormal" two no-trump bid which "takes the strain off" the opening forcing bids. The hand has four losers, possibly five. If partner bids any suit but spades, you will slam in his suit. South's reply is the natural one—three spades. He has a five-card major suit and a Q, J and ten. Three no trumps by North, pass. Now, East, not having yet seen the weakness of South's spades, and knowing nothing specific about North's hand, will, if he is a good player, lead a diamond. This is the one lead which will not harm his hand, or, as far as he can know, facilitate the Declarer's task. A textbook player might lead the four of clubs. Anyhow, North has every chance of making four no trumps now without a risk of being set. Seeing the South hand and not the North hand, East will have to guess instead of merely to look at Dummy in order to punch spades at him when next on lead. North has tenaces everywhere except in spades. To bid so as virtually to force the no trump declaration on South is really pitiful. South must not be maneuvered into being the declarer unless it is in a slam contract in one of the suits other than spades. In that event, the timing factor will have been superseded by South's distribution and his ability to ruff out an off suit. Note also that North's 13 cards are not to themselves a game entity. Unless South can respond to two no trumps, showing a queen and a jack, or else a five or six card suit, the hand should not be bid to game.

THE BRIDGE PLAYERS' FORUM

Conducted by HELEN ULMAN

DOES BOLD BIDDING PAY?

	♠4 ♥K3 ♦AK1076542 ♣85
♠KJ1087 ♥Q104 ♦QJ9 ♣107	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠A6532 ♥AJ2 ♦void ♣AQ643
	♠Q9 ♥98765 ♦83 ♣KJ92

East was the dealer and East and West vulnerable.

East bid 1 Sp. South passed, and in the majority of cases West bid two Sp. in some cases however West bid 3 Sp.

North in all but one instance overcalled in Di. with but the amount necessary to hold the bid. This gave East a wonderful chance to show her partner she was without a losing Di. later when East shows the 3 aces, West holding the trump support bids the slam.

However over the 3 Sp. bid, in the instance I am telling you about, North boldly bid 5 Di. This apparently took the wind out of East's sails. There seemed nothing for her to do but double the Di bid. The contract was defeated two tricks, for a complete top on the board, as the players who did not bid the slam made 6 which netted them 680 while the Di. bidder lost but 250 points.

You see the point if the Di are bid slowly East and West will continue to overcall until they reach the 6 Sp. contract.

The hand was also played very well by the North hand to be defeated but 2 tricks.

The A Sp was lead and North trumped the second round of Sp. North then led the K Di. and the Di. situation showed at once. He next led a low Cl. and East won the trick with the A. Cl. With 9 Cl. in sight East knew either her partner or the declarer was short C. and so felt she better capture her A. while she had the chance.

East returned the Cl. hoping for a trump from her partner. In any event it is her only lead as she must keep her Hts. over a possible honor in the declarer's hand, and to lead a Sp. would mean a trump and discard.

North boldly took the Cl. finesse and won, he next led the K. Cl. and when West trumped he discarded a losing Ht. (The fact that East led a Cl. rather than a Ht. led North to believe the Ht. menace was over the K.) West is always going to make a trump trick and as soon as she is in the lead the obvious play is through the K. Ht. so to shed a losing card in such an instance is just a trick gained. The second instance where the player were thrown completely off guard, was with the following hand.

	♠AQJ9652 ♥K ♦AQ5 ♣J8

South in the majority of cases opened the bidding with 3 Sp. and likewise in the majority of cases, West overcalled with 4 Di. Then when the 4 Sp. came in on the 2nd round, West has shown his suit, and East must know he has some outside strength, so West makes a forcing pass. This means simply that it is now up to East to make a decision, with his holding whether to double or bid 5 Di. Naturally East doubles and the 4 Sp. contract was defeated, 2 and in many instances 3 tricks.

One player, however, felt his hand offered a better chance for an original 4 Sp. bid, as the hand contained very little defensive value, and he was afraid of the Hts. being bid by the opponents.

When the 4 Spds. were bid, West overcalled with 5 Di. which South promptly doubled and East was defeated 4 tricks, or 700 points.

I do not particularly advocate the 5 Di. bid in this instance, I think personally a business double, with this particular hand was the correct thing. Nevertheless the fact remains that they did bid 5 Di. and were set 700, all because South put in a fearless bid.

QUESTION.

QUES. (1) What is the most scientific and usual manner of scoring, in party bridge, where there are two or three or more tables?

(2) What is the trick value of 5 trumps headed by the 9-10 or J, in the supporting hand?

ANSWER.

(1) I think I prefer the players to be vulnerable only after they have made a game, rather than the most usual method of their being arbitrarily vulnerable on certain hands.

When using the latter method, on the first deal, neither side is vulnerable, on the second deal, the dealer is vulnerable. The third deal, the dealer is vulnerable and on the last deal both sides are vulnerable.

Add 300 for non vulnerable games bid and made, and 500 for vulnerable games bid and made. Also add 50 for all part scores bid and made.

At the end of the round add the points your side has made and deduct the point made by your opponents, and carry the difference; so that one side is plus, and another side is minus after each set of deals.

Mr. Kaiser has a very nice system, that he runs on Monday nights, at the M. A. A. Instead of playing a certain number of hands, you play a certain length of time. When the whistle blows, everyone finishes the hand they are playing, the scores are added and deducted, and the winners move and play another 20 minutes in the same manner.

I have a complete set of "Round Robins," that is, every player plays with every other player, through the evening, that I will be glad to send you if you will send a self-addressed and stamped envelope.

(2) Mr. Culbertson seems to give no additional value to J or 10-9 at the head of 5 trumps, as he does at the top of 4. Count just as though they were any 5 trumps with a plus value, that is, one trick plus.

QUESTION.

Please help me out with this hand. Both sides vulnerable. North and South never bid. Partner opens with 2 Cl. Culbertson system, my hand contains: Sp. J, 10, 7, 6; Ht. A, J. 10, 2; Di. Q, 10, 6; Cl. 10, 2.

The way we bid was as follows:

Partner.	My bid.
2 CL.	2 Ht.
6 Cl.

I bid 4 N. T. not to show 2 A & a K, but over a minor bid. Partner claims he was justified to go to 7 Cl. as one cannot bid 4 N. T. without 2 A. & a K. and I should have bid 4 Sp.

QUESTION

After an original 2 bid the 4 N. T. carries a different meaning. It does not guarantee 2 A. and a K but does show 2½ to 3 honor tricks. Your hand was a little light for the 4 N. T. I should have bid 4 or perhaps 5 Sp. depending upon my partner. That is to say if partner was a conservative bidder AND AN EXCELLENT PLAYER, I might try 5 Sp. as one must suppose her to have some honor in Di. (your weak suit) to make the 2 bid originally. The re-bid of the Cl. suit would indicate a 6 card suit. Then, if she fails to have any additional values, she can let the 5 bid drop, at least you have told her of additional values in support of a Sp. bid.

QUESTION

	♠QJxx ♥AQJ10xx ♦A ♣xx
	♠AK104 ♥5 ♦KQ109xx ♣AK

ANSWER

North—1st round, 1Ht; East—Pass; South—3 Di (1); West—Pass; North 2nd round, 4 Ht. (2); East—Pass; South—4 N. T. (3); West—Pass; North—3rd round 5 N. T. (4); East—Pass; South—7 Di. (5); West—Pass; North—Pass; East—Pass.

The way we bid was as follows:

Partner.	My bid.
1st round	1 Ht.
2nd round	3 Sp. (3)
3rd round	4 N. T. (5)
South	North
4th round	5 Ht. (7)
	6 or 7 Ht. (8)

(1) A forcing bid. Shows 3½ or more honor tricks, or unusual distribution. Partner must keep the bidding open until game is reached.

(2) A jump re-bid in the same suit shows a 6-card or longer suit, containing not more than 1 loser, in the suit, assuming, of course, unfavorable but not extremely freakish distribution.

(3) Shows 2 A and a K in one of the bid suits.

(4) Shows the other 2 A.

(5) Because of the distribution of the hand 7 Di. is a better bid than 7 N. T. You know your partner has a long, solid suit of Ht. but they may have 1 loser. You can trump out the K Ht. and discard your losing Sp. for at this time you know nothing about the fit in Sp.

Your partner has told you she has the Di. This gives you 3 leads to pick them up and at the worst the long Di. suit is the only thing that can defeat the hand.

The main point of your reaching the 7 bid is your partner telling you of her long Ht. and then the 4 and 5 N. T. route.

QUESTION.

Will you please tell me how the following hand should be bid in rubber contract?

	(North) ♠J10xx ♥Kxxx ♦xx ♣AKx
	(South) ♠AKxx ♥AQJx ♦void ♣QJxxx

South the dealer. Neither side vulnerable.

South	North
1st round 1 Cl. (1)	2 N. T. (2)
2nd round 3 Sp. (3)	4 Sp. (4)
3rd round 4 N. T. (5)	5 Cl. (6)
4th round 5 Ht. (7)	6 or 7 Ht. (8)

(1) Always bid a 5 card biddable suit before showing your 4 card suit.

(2) Shows 2½ to 3 honor tricks and is a semi-forcing bid.

(3) Shows now a shorter suit than the Cls. but some top strength.

(4) Shows support for the Sp. bid, knowing it to be a possibly 4 card suit.

(5) Shows 2 A and a K in 1 of the bid suits and asks for a slam. The hand contains you will note 4 honor tricks, with good distribution. If partner's 2 N. T. was made with 3 honor tricks, the slam is in sight.

(6) Failing 2 A partner signs off by bidding the lower ranking suit.

(7) After the fit in Sp. South always wants to play the hand in 6 or 7 Sp. therefore he can show his 4 card Ht. suit at no additional cost at this time and thereby find the best playable suit in the 2 hands.

(8) North can now read the distribution of the South hand, to bid Q high, he obviously had 5 cards of the suit. Then he has shown 4 Sp. and 4 Ht. which make 13 and therefore South must be without Di. I think the 7 bid something of a gamble but from all the bidding South has done it looks as though at the worst it hinged on a Sp. finesse.

It Is So Much Safer to Count the Losers in a Big Hand

THE New York Herald Tribune's bridge section, "The Bridge Table," an excellent daily feature conducted by Robert Neville, publishes many interesting hands. Sometimes the real point of the hand seems to me to be other than that raised in the correspondent's remarks, or even those of Mr. Neville himself. Here is a recent one:

HAL SIMS

	♠A ♥AJ109 ♦AKJ84 ♣AKJ
♠Q1095 ♥8732 ♦762 ♣83	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠K62 ♥KQ4 ♦953 ♣Q1074
	♠J8743 ♥65 ♦Q10 ♣9652

N. (Dealer) Two diamonds.
S. Two no trumps.
N. Three hearts.
S. Three spades.
N. Three no trumps.
S. Pass.

The two of hearts is led. Dummy plays low; East wins (I suppose with the king) and returns a small spade. The Declarer is lured into taking a risk in order to play for overtricks, and finesses the heart. He has to do this, if at all, before taking in nine tricks, as diamonds are his only entries to Dummy. Thus he is set, losing two hearts and three spades. The point stressed is that though this would be unpardonable in rubber play, there is much to be said for it under match point scoring. This is true in itself; I am in no position to criticise chance-taking plays for extra tricks. However, on this hand, my opinion is that the North-South partnership started to wreck the hand by the opening bid. The situation might still have been rectified had South responded with two natural spades instead of two artificial no trumps; but once the no-trump declaration was placed in the South hand, all strategy had vanished. Engagement Etiquette Stamp News and Issues

GOOD TASTE
By EMILY POST

Announcing the Engagement

A VERY amusing letter from a man asks: "Why are you so temperamental in your replies to your readers? One reader finds you amiable to the point of saying, 'Do just whatever you like best!' Then to the next, the one this morning for instance, who asked, 'How shall the engraved announcement of our engagement be worded?' you stood the poor girl (or was it the man?) as a target and shot eight words at her as though they were arrows: 'YOU MUST NOT SEND ENGRAVED ANNOUNCEMENTS AT ALL!' Sometimes I wonder, Mrs. Post, whether you assume these varying moods, soft or hard, to create interest, or are your answers tempered by your moods? The reason I am writing you is that my fiancee and I would like to announce our engagement. So will you tell us why you are so down on a card with engraving on it?"

In answer let me say—no, I'm not moody!—really not—but I can't approve of engagement announcement cards, because engraved messages, of whatever sort, are essentially formal; in other words, prescribed by traditional precepts, and according to these precepts engagements are not announced that way.

It really doesn't matter so much how you may choose to announce an engagement. The point is that the wrong use of an engraved form is evidence of worldly inexperience, which you may not want to proclaim. Or, on the other hand, you may not care a bit. If you don't care, then send out what you please. If you do care, then it is best to follow convention.

Conventionally, the news of an engagement is first told privately by the girl to her nearest relatives and most intimate friends, and by the man to his family and best friends. Usually these first people are either told or written to, a week or less before the public announcement is to be made, and they are asked to tell no one until that date.

The public announcement is made by telephoning the society editors of the daily papers, and saying that Mr. and Mrs. John Jones of 90 Park avenue are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Mildred, to Mr. George Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Brown of New Orleans. If the families concerned are prominent, a photograph of the fiancee will probably be asked for. If she would like to have her picture appear, she should have one ready, but it is not good taste to send a photograph unless one is asked for by the editor.

In the smart world of New York the engagement is usually announced in the papers and the engagement party (if any) is given the evening of the same day. But in many other communities it is customary to give a party and announce the engagement as a surprise. For this last there is literally no restriction further than that of personal taste. Usually the announcement is made at supper at a big evening party, or when the table is cleared just before dessert is a dinner. Directions should already have been given the butler (or the waitress) to fill all of the glasses as soon as the salad plates have been removed. The host, noting the filled glasses, then rises and striking his own glass, says, "I want to propose a standing toast to the future happiness of two young people whom I am sure you all wish well" (he waits a moment for everyone to stand), and then adds, "To Mildred and George." Everyone takes a swallow of champagne and then wishes Mildred happiness and congratulates George—who is inevitably called upon for a speech. He merely says a word or two about being luckier than he deserves, or something of the sort, and that is all.

Speaking of an announcement party: Twelve years ago when I wrote my book, "Etiquette," I made the father announce the engagement by saying, "To my Mary, and her Jim." I had never heard anyone use those words; I wrote them when I came to that part of the chapter. Since then this toast has been so repeatedly quoted it has evidently been considered a fixed one, like the phrase, "How do you do." But it is not. I am often asked for toasts which I can't give because a really good toast should be spontaneous—especially on intimate friendly occasions when personal sentiment is to be expressed. And now we come to those countless letters that have asked for novel ideas in announcing engagements. Modern New Yorkers are very partial to names on balloons, or a sash tying the left arm of the girl to the right arm of the boy! And yet there is really no logical objection to whatever may please those most closely concerned. But when I am asked to invent something new I am left helpless! Novelty must have surprise, or it is not novelty. In other words, even if I had the imagination to devise something both attractive and original, it would be flat as a conundrum to which every one knows the answer, by the time every reader of this column sees it in print. Therefore, whether you let a cat out of a bag with your names written on a ribbo around its neck, or whether you distribute bouquets and boutonnieres tagged with both names, or whethe the guests receive the glad tidings in telegrams used as place cards, there is not a rule in the world to hamper the complete freedom of your own imagination. You can literally give any variety of party you choose, invite whom you choose and serve whatever you choose.

Certain questions constantly asked me and that HAVE definite answers, include the following: It is not necessary that a girl have an engagement ring in order to announce her engagement. An engagement ring is not the same as a wedding ring—which is essential because actually required in the marriage service.

A troublesome convention, which is concerned with the announcement of an engagement, is that correctly the mother, father, sisters, brothers, aunts and cousins of the bridegroom-to-be should go at once and call upo the bride and her family. If they do not live in the same city then letters should be written. Much unhappiness—or at least awkwardness—has resulted in not being sure of this convention. However, it is much better that a girl be ready to accept the attitude of her future family (whatever it may be) than it is to stand upon her own rights. After all, the only thing that counts is the happy relationship between herself and her future in-laws.

Cocoanut Cream Pie

One-half cup sugar,
One-third cup flour,
One-eighth teaspoon salt,
One and a half cups milk,
Three egg yolks,
One-half cup cocoanut,
One teaspoon vanilla;
One-half teaspoon lemon extract,
Two tablespoons butter.

Blend sugar, flour and salt. Add milk and yolks. Cook in double boiler until thick and creamy. Add rest of ingredients and beat well. Pour into pie shell, spread with meringue of:

Three egg whites,
Four tablespoons sugar,
One-third cup cocoanut,
One-eighth teaspoon salt,

Beat whites until stiff. Add sugar, beat until creamy. Add remaining ingredients. Roughly spread on filling. Bake 12 minutes in slow oven. Cool and serve.

GERSHWIN on AMERICAN MUSIC

THE sad music of "Rhapsody in Blue," the homesick melodies of "An American in Paris," and the rowdy strains of Tin Pan Alley—all these are a part of George Gershwin, the boy who came from the Ghetto of New York to the concert stage of Carnegie Hall.

Many things are expected of this 35-year-old jazz master. However, he is an unknown quantity and there is no telling what he will do next. But no. While in St. Louis this week with his symphonic jazz orchestra, Gershwin did 'explain what he is going to do with his next 10 months. They will be devoted to the writing of a thoroughly American opera based on Du Boise Heywood's unforgettable "Porgy." Ira Gershwin (George's elder brother) and Heywood will write the lyrics and libretto; George the music—and you can bet it will be sensational and unusual.

It is hard to tell you what Gershwin is like, for so much of the man is hidden. He doesn't believe in throwing his confidence to the winds, or broadcasting his innermost desires. He gives an impression of utter sophistication, of having been places and having done things.

Perhaps this accounts for the intensity that is shown in his every movement. He is vitally alive with the high voltage power of a successful American. And he is quite young to have become the world's foremost jazz composer. Not content with this, he is entering the lists of classical composition in order to make his jazz melodies more than a passing fancy.

Pacing the room with leashed energy Gershwin explained just what he wanted to do with his new expressions of syncopation. "I want to preserve American music," he said, " . . . the jazz themes that are ours alone . . . into a more lasting and enduring form—that of symphonic arrangement. I want to jot down Americana in music, to develop a nationalistic style. That's what the great composers did with their native folk music." And Gershwin can point with well-known pride to his composition "Rhapsody in Blue," written 10 years ago this month, and still as popular and in demand as when Paul Whiteman's orchestra played it the first time. He wrote the music in a mere three weeks, with the same impetuous virtuosity with which he composed his piano concerto in F in 30 days.

He might be called Gershwin the indefatigable. On this tour he is giving 28 concerts in 28 days with no let-up or chance for rest. Before he is through (St. Louis is his seventeenth concert) he will have played in all the important cities in the United States. This means a lot of fast traveling. "I didn't get much sleep last night," he admitted, "or the night before." Yet he is always poised and considerate, kind and quiet-mannered—as though he were going through an ordinary routine.

GEORGE GERSHWIN

Some musicians visualize their music as they compose, but that is not Gershwin's way. "My music comes almost entirely from my emotional centers. And it is seldom that I have a melody in my mind before I sit down at the piano. The only time I have any set hours for my work is when I am orchestrating. Did you ever think of orchestration as being the closest thing to painting in music? I have, often. For instance, each instrument is a certain color . . . and I can paint my music as surely as an artist daubs color on a canvas." His voice has a warmth of feeling and his yellow-brown eyes are direct in their gaze.

He confessed, with a charming grin, that he could spend most of his time playing golf, or loafing, or collecting pictures. Oil paintings they are (modern French and American), and he has 80 or 90 of them. Crowded for wall space in his home, he's afraid he'll have to move into a bigger place. His collection was recently shown at the Art Club in Chicago, and he is very proud of that. "Collecting pictures may change the whole course of my life," he said.

Consistently a "lucky" person, Gershwin has done as he pleased all his life. Born in Brooklyn, he was a tough little kid, swiping fruit out of the push-carts and taunting the outraged owners. He went to school when he felt like it. He hated anything that was "sissyfied." So when his father bought a small upright piano, it was Ira who took the 50-cent lessons. However, Ira's heart wasn't in it, and George—to their surprise—climbed on the stool one day and played for them. It wasn't but a couple of months before the "lady teacher" was at the end of her rope. Her pupil had caught up with her. Next, George went to an old Dutchman, a bandmaster. He knew as much about teaching the piano as a drum-major would. George managed to plug along until he got a heaven-sent chance to study two years with a real teacher, Charles Hambitzer.

AS an almost predestined course of events, Gershwin got a job plugging songs in a music store. He was only 17, but he had a way with him when he sat down at the piano. Ten hours a day, salary $15 a week, and nothing but rag-time in his ears—few musicians survive this ordeal. There was little energy or nerves left in the evenings to compose—but he did. And he remembered the instructions of his teacher; he studied harmony and musical history. He combined the two-step jazz rhythms and broken syncopation with the Beethoven and Schubert of his piano lessons.

"There has been nothing set in my life," said Gershwin. "Things have just happened." But the rest of the story is one of sudden rise from hammering out tunes in a music store. While playing for the rehearsals of a Broadway show, a song of his became popular and he was immediately signed up by a publishing house. His first big success, when he was 19, was called "La, La, Lucille," and since then he has written all or some music for 25 shows.

He writes his music high up in a sound-proof studio in a penthouse on Riverside drive. And he will play for hours if he thinks anyone really wants to hear him. Frequently he tires of the penthouse and visits the turbulent, colorful section of Brooklyn where he grew up. Perhaps he remembers the penny arcade, not far from his old home, where he stood for hours, fascinated by his favorite melody—Rubinstein's "Melody in F"—as it blared out into the street. And now, due to his humorous, luscious melodies in "Of Thee I Sing" he has become a Pulitzer prize winner.

"My best advice to young composers,"—again he was moving about the room—"is to study the history of music—for history repeats itself in music as in everything else. And don't become too technical . . . because good music combines the two—emotion and technique."

News for STAMP Collectors

New Stamps for France.

IT has been decided to change the designs of French postage stamps. The two most used stamps, 50c and 1f.50, will have allegorical pictures. The 50c value which is used for domestic postage will show a crowing rooster. The 1f.50 value will picture a dove carrying an olive branch. All other values will make use of landscapes.

On the 40c will be pictured the famous Eiffel Tower in Paris and on the 1f.75 will be portrayed another familiar Paris landmark, the Invalides. On the 2f will be a Brittany river scene and on the 3f, one of the finest examples of Romanesque architecture in France, the cloister of the beautiful Cathedral of St. Trophime, will be pictured.

The medevial walled city of Carcassonne will be pictured on the 5f value and on the 10f value will be pictured the Ile de la Cite in Paris, with the Pont Neuf and Notre Dame in the background, in the style of an old wood cut. The last value which has been announced so far, the 20f, will portray a group of Roman ruins near St. Remy.

The first Postmaster to use postmarks in Boston was Tuttle Hubbard, a stepson of Benjamin Franklin's brother, John Franklin. Tuttle Hubbard was the last of the Crown Postmasters in Boston; he was appointed to the office in 1756 and left it when the British lost Boston to the Revolutionary forces on March 17, 1776. The postmark was first used in June, 1772, and consisted of the word "Boston" in large capitals.

New Issues.

BELGIUM—A complete new airmail set consisting of nine values is being prepared and will be issued within the very near future. The values are 50c, 1f, 1f.50, 2f, 3f.50, 5f, 15f, 30f and 50f. The designs have not been announced.

Slight changes have been made in Scotts type A36, 10c on 70c orange brown, which has just been released.

BRAZIL—Another value has been added to those recently listed in this column which were issued in commemoration of the visit to Brazil of the President of the Argentine Republic. It is a 1000 rais printed in mauve.

BULGARIA.—Because of recent changes in the postage rates of this country, a large stock of 3 leva stamps printed a short time ago are useless. It is proposed to overprint this 3 leva stamp with a new value.

CHINA.—A new value in the current Dr. Sun Yat Sen series, Type 2, is a 15c carmine rose.

ECUADOR.—Due to an unexpected delay in the arrival of the new 5c and 10c stamps which were announced a few weeks ago in this column, it has been found necessary to overprint these values on two values of the current series, as follows: 5c on 6c carmine and orange and 10c on 16c carmine and green.

EGYPT.—The 4m yellow green which was recently replaced by a 4m brown has again been placed in circulation.

ERITREA.—The commemorative series announced in this column a few weeks ago, consisting of 10 values, with eight different designs, has been released and placed in use.

INDIA. — Cochin — Two values have been added to the current regular postage series. They are in the Maharajah Type A9. They are 1a tangerine and 6a copper red.

JUGO-SLAVIA.—The new airmail series will consist of five values as follows: 50 para, 1, 2, 3 and 10 dinar.

Because of recent changes in the postage rates of this country, two new values have been added to the current series. They are 1.75 dinar and 3.50 dinar for foreign postal cards and foreign letters respectively.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—One value of the current postage series has been issued in rotary printing on paper watermarked Springbok inverted. It is the 5sh deep green and black, Scotts Type A19 and A20.

THUMBNAIL REVIEWS OF THE NEW MOTION PICTURES
By NIE

BY CANDLELIGHT—A bright, broad and sophisticated French farce about a butler and a lady's maid who masqueraded as nobility. So delightfully played by Paul Lukas and Elissa Landi that it is one of the most entertaining pictures in several seasons. At the AMBASSADOR.

HOLD THAT GIRL—Jimmy Dunn and Claire Trevor in a typical Dunn and Trevor flip comedy of a fly cop and a sob sister. "The Last Round Up" is a dandy Western if you like the rootin', tootin' kind of horse operas. At the FOX.

CROSS COUNTRY CRUISE—A Grand Hotel in a trans-continental bus but a long way after "Grand Hotel." Pretty silly and stupid for most of the journey. "The Big Shakedown" has Ricardo Cortez, Bette Davis and Charles Farrell mixed up in a new gangster racket. Not so hot either. At the MISSOURI.

THIS SIDE OF HEAVEN—Lionel Barrymore doing some fine work as the father of an extravagant and thoughtless family. The old man pretty nearly goes to jail before his wife and kids realize how much he means to them. At LOEW'S.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE
» by WYNN «

For Sunday, Feb. 4.

MAKE the most of opportunities with women and their affairs; also good for dealing with those younger than you are. Don't let the earlier hours bother you with worries—at the same time, don't add to your obligations.

Being Liked.

When I speak of "selling" in connection with intellect and put quotes around it, I am trying to get across to you much more than the idea of getting money for your abilities in the well known market place. What I mean is that subtle process of having other people understand you, like you and want you as a friend, helper, playmate, associate in business and in all ways create harmony between you and those about you. When such relationships are established, mere money takes care of itself. A real friend can produce money for you, but money alone can never produce a real friend for you. Astrology is the true method of living, teaching us the way of success when we really want to learn. "Selling" is something we all must do, all the time.

Your Year Ahead.

Yours is a year that will be according to how much responsibility you let yourself in for and also on how you take it, if today is your anniversary. Don't take it hard and you'll get through best. Be tactful with those above you. Accent on the personal performance all the way. Make your experience pay. Travel if you can. Avoid danger; not till 22; May 7-June 15; Sept. 9-Nov. 11.

For Monday, February 5.

IF the start of this day doesn't look good, it doesn't mean a thing. The finish is strong for those who can see both ends of a square deal. Be tactful with superiors in business and society until after Wednesday, at least.

Love.

What is love? Is there such a thing as selfish love? The other day a woman told me she wanted to marry her fiance because she loved him. I asked her a few leading questions and obtained some very interesting information. "Why do you love him?" I inquired. "Because he is so good to me; he always thinks of me, does nice little things, brings me candy, takes me to dances and wants to make a home for me." She said it all in such a that's-the-way-it-ought-to-be manner that I almost had to pinch myself to see if I was really hearing her. She didn't know the difference between love and wanting to BE loved. Love is not selfish. Love is the desire to share with another, or with others. What she described was a desire to receive attention.

Your Year Ahead.

Natives of this date can make their best progress during the coming 12 months by expanding their viewpoint in travel or study. Control emotions in legal, partnership and matrimonial matters. Highly romantic from mid-June till mid-October. Settle financial matters April 26-June 11. Improve new ideas and inventions. Danger: Now till 23d; May 9-June 17; Sept. 11-Nov. 13.

Tomorrow.

Electrically Cleaned

One woman found a way of changing the atmosphere of her clothes closet by setting her electric fan in the bottom and running it for about 10 minutes, of course, keeping it away from any clothes that may be hanging therein. This method dispels odors and gives the moths no chance to settle in the garments.

MY Beauty Hint

(Screen Actress.)

LILIAN HARVEY

MY "beauty hint" concerns the hair. The simplest way to obtain soft, lustrous locks is to stroke the hair briskly, 100 times a day.

Even the dryest, most brittle hair will respond to this treatment, the natural oil of the hair thus being spread, and there is nothing more invigorating to a dormant scalp.

I divide this treatment, stroking the hair 50 times upon arising in the morning and the remainder just before retiring.

AT THE MARKETS

THE housewife of today with an eye to economy buys the carrots without tops which California is sending us, rather than those with leaves from other states, because of the lower price. But, no matter what the price, carrots shorn of their plumage would have been a drug on the market in England during the reign of James I, for, in those days, carrot tops were in more demand as hair ornaments than the carrot itself was as a vegetable. The ladies of the court adorned their hair with its leaves, which were light, graceful, and a good substitute for the traditional feathers.

* * *

Cauliflower is still a very good buy and celery remains very cheap. The California celery season, however, is just about over, the prices are expected to advance. The celery hearts now on the market are an Indiana product. Celery root, noted for its health properties, is somewhat cheaper.

* * *

Lettuce is showing an upward price tendency and cucumbers are still rather high, with some Florida field-grown being added to the hot-house cucumbers which have been in the market.

* * *

New cabbage is over-plentiful and the price has been going down. Old cabbage, preferred by some for slaw and other purposes, is slightly higher, due both to a short crop in the North and the nearing of the end of the season.

* * *

A recipe called Farmers' Cabbage will afford an excellent opportunity to take advantage of low cabbage prices and at the same time make a pleasing dish out of an unpromising left-over.

* * *

Farmers' Cabbage.

One cup cold meat.
One cup cooked cabbage.
One cup cooked tomatoes.
One cup bread crumbs.
Salt and pepper.

Chop the meat into small pieces; likewise the cabbage. Put a layer of meat in the bottom of a baking dish; then a layer of cabbage; then a layer of tomatoes. Continue until the entire quantity has been used, seasoning each layer as you go. Cover all with bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until brown. A little grated cheese may be added to the top if desired.

* * *

* * *

Radishes are still high and the supply is less plentiful this week. Spinach is coming from Texas and there is some home-grown in the market which tends to hold down prices.

* * *

Tiny pickled ears of corn, much smaller than your little finger, are guaranteed to excite any appetite. They are offered in glass jars and will be a novel tidbit for your hors d'oeuvres spread.

* * *

New potatoes from Florida have arrived. They are of the Triumph variety and there are still some new Texas potatoes in the market. Sweet potatoes have shown some advance in price.

* * *

Both avocados and strawberries are cheaper than last week and the price of grapefruit remains reasonable.

LISTEN, WORLD!
by Elsie Robinson

Why Do They Sneer?

SHE'S furious. Last night as she swept, lace-gowned, from her car to the theater lobby, a ragged man sneered at her—mumbled insultingly.

"It has destroyed the last shred of my patience with the so-called 'underdog,'" she storms.

ELSIE ROBINSON

"I was always in sympathy with the working classes, because I was one of them—and still am. The car, which aroused that tramp's anger, I paid for myself, every dollar of it. I earned the dress I was wearing, and the ticket that took me into that show.

"I've earned these things by years of drudgery, discipline and sacrifice, such as that loafer would never have endured. Every line of his weak face and shambling body told his story. But just because I love the fine things of life, and have been willing to work for them, he and his kind treat me like a criminal.

"And it's happening everywhere. In spite of our better times and tremendous effort to give everyone a better deal, there has never been so much class hatred. You hear it on all sides—from whining and grumbling to open threats. And nine times out of ten, the unfortunate people who are threatened are workers, like themselves.

"Where is the justice in that? And how can you openly sympathize—as you do—with the attitude of such people?"

How can I sympathize with them? Because once I was one of them, my dear. Once I, too, stood in the shadows, ragged and desperate, and watched the lacegowned fortunates sweep by—and the bitterness that filled that man's heart last night, filled mine.

I didn't call names, as he did. I didn't threaten. But that was due to no saintliness in me. It was simply due to the fact that life gave me a healthier body and viewpoint than it gave him. And so, bitter though I was, I saw the reason for it all.

I saw that the thing that put me in the shadows, and them in the light, wasn't the work of any one person. IT WAS A CONSEQUENCE OF A SYSTEM. SOME COULD PROFIT BY THAT SYSTEM — SOME COULDN'T.

You, for example, have profited by it. I have profited by it now—when it's too late to save the thing I loved best on earth. And you think we're being rewarded for our individual efforts. But we're not!

WE'RE SITTING PRETTY BECAUSE THINGS BROKE RIGHT FOR US—AND BECAUSE OUR EFFORTS CLICKED WITH THE STATUS QUO.

Millions of others worked as hard as we did, sacrificed as greatly, endured as bravely—yet were unable to make the grade. It wasn't their fault. They were doomed to failure by birth, environment or tragic circumstances. The cards were stacked against them.

Why did that man sneer? That's why. He wasn't sneering at you, as an individual.

HE WAS SNEERING AT A SYSTEM WHICH IMPOSES SUCH INJUSTICE AS THAT.

Democracy? It's a noble theory—and some day, with God's help, we'll achieve it. But the simple truth is, we haven't achieved it. We haven't even sincerely tried to achieve it yet.

All men are NOT "born equal" in America, or given an equal chance after they are born. This is NOT the "land of the free and the home of the brave." It is the home of the privileged—and the land of frantic, bewildered millions who must take the leavings.

That isn't because America is a bad country. America, I profoundly believe, is the greatest country on earth—the country with the finest vision. And it's making the most sane and sincere effort to express that vision.

But Americans, like all other human beings, are still 75 per cent savages—with far more respect for jungle mumbo-jumbo than for the Golden Rule.

So don't be angry when they sneer from out of the shadows.

COMMISERATE YOURSELF, RATHER, BECAUSE IN A LAND OF SUNSHINE, SOME MUST LIVE IN SHADOWS?

AND USE THE ENERGY WHICH MADE YOU AN INDIVIDUAL SUCCESS INTO WIPING OUT THE SHADOWS FOR THOSE WHO WEREN'T SO FORTUNATE!

A good white soap for dishwashing not only benefits your hands, but your fine china and glassware as well.

An American Composer Visiting the Markets

The Lone WOLF'S Son

—By—

LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE.

"IS it really necessary," he wondered aloud, "for each of your American financial institutions to maintain a private army for the protection of treasure in transit?"

"I guess so," Fenno replied. "Anyway, they all seem to do it."

Maurice had a dim smile. If he was to consider this military stalwart at all a fair criterion of the provisions for the security of the jewels that he would have to cope with, it wasn't going to be so simple to make the boast good that La Boyce last night had taunted him into uttering—that he would have bagged the lot, undetected and unaided, within the week.

"If you don't, your old man will." Maurice could still hear the woman twitting him. "Of course, if you want to believe his story, that's your business. But believe it or not, it's just like I'm telling you: all this gab about reformation is plain elocution. I'll have to hand it to the old boy, at that; he's clever—he props his bluff up with such a straight face that he's put it over on an awful lot of people that ought to know better. Take this dick Crane, for instance: he's one wise guy, but your papa's got him kidded so hard he'll never get cured. But not little me, and not the push I train with at home—not those old-timers, for one little minute, nor anybody else that's on the inside looking out. We can tell the world the Lone Wolf still pulls a prowl every time the feeling comes over him that it's better to be restless than rusty. What he gets away with is simply murder."

* * *

BUT what a weird amusing creature! And what luck, to have fallen in with her—if for nothing else because he would otherwise have been handicapped by such ignorance of American slang that he could hardly hope to make himself understood on landing, much less get the sense of what was said to him!

Impossibility to take her seriously, of course. He meant, as a woman. Making every allowance for the fact that any man with Fenno in mind must inevitably see most other women out of drawing, the Boyce was none the less a curio—handsome as you please, but outrageous altogether. . . . But even more impossible to dispute her arguments, which dovetailed so nicely with his unconfessed convictions. Hadn't he been from the first a helpless skeptic in respect of his father's pretensions, at heart persuaded that the spirit of the old Lone Wolf still walked in Michael Lanyard, like a ghost persevering to pursue his awful occasions in a tenement all made over and modernized, refurnished and refurbished, especially to discourage him?

And now this woman turned up with her allegations that chimed so truly with the counsels of experience:

"Don't take my word for it, Morrie, boy; wait till we get ashore and I fix it for you to listen in on the Underground and hear what it knows about the Lone Wolf and the soft-shoe act he pulls backstage, behind that beautiful false front of M. Lanyard, art-expert extraordinary, of Delibes et Cie., Paris."

"But I do not understand. How should your American underworld know so much about what goes on in ours?"

"That just shows what an innocent it is! Listen, baby: What you call the underworld isn't any national institution—it's international. Stands to reason it's got to be. If the swell mobs all over didn't keep in touch and more or less pull together, they'd be loony. Suppose some New York crook, now, makes a big haul: How's he going to get all his out of it if he can only do business with local fences that the cops are all the time keeping cases on? His only show to get a break is to have things fixed so he can ship the junk abroad to be sold piecemeal in Paris and London and Berlin—all over. Or say he's been spotted or squealed on, and has to take it on the lam; how's he going to find a safe hideaway on the other side without there's somebody been cabled to be on hand when he lands and look out for him?"

SYNOPSIS

Aboard the S. S. "Navarre," bound for New York, Michael Lanyard, reformed "Lone Wolf" and underworld celebrity, is reunited with his son whom he thought dead. The boy, "Maurice Parry," has followed in the "Lone Wolf's" footsteps, but Lanyard hopes his son's interest in Fenno Crosier, lovely daughter of the wealthy Mrs. Fay Crosier, will prove a good influence. Maurice steals Mrs. Crosier's Habsburg emeralds. Lanyard retrieves them for Fay. Detective Crane warns Lanyard to watch out for the vengeance of "Jack Knife" Anderson and "English Archie," two gunmen whom Lanyard exposed for cheating Maurice at cards. Shortly afterwards, the gangsters steal Mrs. Crosier's emeralds and plant them in Lanyard's cabin. Maurice saves his father by substituting imitations and secretly placing the emeralds in the purser's care for Fay. Notwithstanding Lanyard's innocence. Detective Plon is suspicious of him. Later, when one of "Jack Knife's" accomplices tries to intimidate Lanyard into stealing the emeralds and splitting fifty-fifty with the gang, Maurice appears on the scene, masked. He knocks the gangster unconscious, planting a string of pearls stolen from the notorious gold-digger, Tess Boyce, in the thug's pocket. Tess, in gratitude to Maurice for catching the thief, gives a dinner in his honor. Lanyard disapproves of the society of Tess Boyce for his son, but Fenno asks him to leave Maurice to her. Discussing the Boyce robbery, Plon informs Lanyard that the prisoner swore Lanyard and Maurice planted the necklace on him. M. Isquith, Tess' companion, compliments her on her progress with Maurice and Lanyard, adding that "they will have them where they want them." Crane is suspicious of Tess' interest in Maurice. He surmises the truth about the Boyce robbery. Crane overhears Tess tell Maurice that Lanyard's reform was just elocution. The detective warns Lanyard to keep his son away from her. Fearing another attempt will be made to steal the emeralds, Lanyard advises Fay to arrange for their protection when the boat docks. A ruby ring belonging to the Rajah of Ladore, disappears during a bridge game, and Lanyard is accused of its theft. He is confined to his cabin, but later allowed to go ashore after Plon tells him the ring had been "planted" on him.

Memory of that conversation grew more vivid, the more one ruminated on it. For the moment it was almost as though Maurice stood with the woman at the rail again, staring away into the matted dark, and was aware once more of the warmth of her shoulder, the perfume of her hair that flirted with his cheek, her confidential undertones that were hardly less caressing.

* * *

THE next intant he snapped back to the present with a secret shiver of distaste for the recollection. Fenno was speaking to him, and the frank deep kindness that warmed her voice stressed unpleasantly the purring innuendo of the other woman's.

Not that he disliked the Boyce. He knew her kind too well to think the less of her for being what she was. He was even grateful to her; but for her good-natured warning and instruction he would, in all likelihood, have let his father play him for a donkey. But he did hope she wasn't brooding any nonsense, wasn't being so stupid as to flatter herself she could estrange him from Fenno.

It was all very interesting, that plunge from the pier to the heart of town, all very curious and stimulating, if widely untrue to expectations kindled by first sight of New York from the air—the dream city of an elfin cubist realized in jeweled walls of mist and moonshine by the marge of a twilight sea. But to realize that magic promise, its dwellings would have to be all ivory and opal, its pavements seamless mother-of-pearl on which chariots like living bijoux coursed, its very air aromatic as the fabled breath of Araby—and there could have been nothing whatever in it of the scenes and smells of West street and Twenty-third, the lumpy going they afforded that antiquated taxicab.

Neither did Maurice find anything appropriately whimsical in the company of the man-at-arms who shared the supplementary front seats with Fowler, and with a hand ominously posed on the grip of his weapon, divided attention between the contingencies of traffic—as if looking to see danger manifest at any instant in the welter—and the charms of Fenno, to which he was unmistakably alive.

More or less askance, while playing up to Fenno's patter in the role of guide extempore, Maurice took stock of that young man; a type by no means new to him, boasting countless counterparts in every land, a cheap type, hard and cold and self-assertive to the point of open truculence—in a word—brassy. Their eyes at one time met, and the guard's were not the first to fall. Cool insolence played in them, and the chronic cast of his lips. Maurice made an end by letting his lids droop as if with fatigue and gave exclusive heed again to Fenno. Uneasiness none the less crawled in his temper. There had been that in the guard's look which hinted at a secret bond of fellowship—presumptuousness to Maurice unaccountable. If he bristled, however, he took good care not to show it, and was at pains to seem interested only in what Fenno was saying.

PORTRAIT OF A MAN TALKING TO HIMSELF.

THE officials at the paper and those at the broadcasting studios are liberal enough, of course, and I should be edited, I know...For a columnist and commentator is never that good an authority on what to omit...But at the studios the other night they thought it "was too much dynamite" and it might offend the new administration if I poked the hospital in town which took 55 minutes for its ambulances to get to the scene..."Mayor La Guardia," I yelled, "would want such a thing known. That's what he will stop as soon as he gets a chance to unpack!"...But they struck the sarcasm out of the continuity and I burned...The story dealt with orchids to Officer Fred Reicher, who heard a woman's screams the other middle of the night—and after investigating—discovered her alone and unattended in a basement on the verge of becoming a mother. It took the ambulance almost an hour to get there—and the baby was brought into the world by the trigger-minded policeman—bless him...They wouldn't let me add; "The ambulance got there in 55 minutes—thus establishing a new speed record for New York ambulances!"...For the first time I had no last flip crack, too. Not because they blue-penciled it—but because at the final moment someone recalled that Ed Wynn had used it recently...It was funny, anyhow...About Ben Bernie—who became a nudist—and when the nudist colony threw their first fancy dress ball—Bernie stuck a raisin in each ear and went as a cookie!

* * *

Among other buried personalities—who belong in New York—is a stranger to me named Arthur Godfrey...I itemed about him the other day—but some shrewd radio showman should bag him for here to make some of the midnight programs breezier...Godfrey is stuck in Alexandria, Va., on WJSV—across the Potomac from the Capitol... Probably because he has to take what he can get...But he is big-time ...He has a sort of Bernie droll and charm—but better!...His quips are sly—and his fly-talk is terrifically Broadway or Big Town...Apparently Alexandria, Va., is no longer a burg—for they "get" Godfrey there...I got a load of his stuff when he happened to be on an all-night show the other night...One of the Greenwich Village places could make great use of Godfrey—on the air, I mean...I don't know how he goes on a stage...At any rate—talent is at a premium—and I haven't picked a flop, yet... I expect to hear about him being signed for New York...His regular routine is from 7 to 9 a. m.—mixing his chatter of news and quips with local advertising...What an awful sentence for an expert at making people smile, and laugh...The poor man.

* * *

The revival of gigolos at the Casino de Parse—where the gigs come from representative families (one is a doctor) because they have to do something, aroused some of us the other night...They are handsome guys, immaculately attired, and I thought that many a husband would resent their wives dancing with them...The gigolos, however, will only dance with femme patrons if the husband or the lady's escort sends for them...The gigolo has suffered from a sour name—but some of them have risen high above the field—Several movie actors, now starring in Hollywood, frinstance, served in the same capacity and are not ashamed of it...The first of them—he danced with your lady friend if you liked—was Rudy Valentino—whose passing was mourned throughout the world...But what I started out to paragraph was this ...The movie stars who once were gigolos were favored by the fates—and a gentleman named Blumenthal, who was Oscar Hammerstein's general manager, and who had about five million smackers nearly ten years ago—wasn't...He is a Guild Theater stage doorman.

* * *

The war now being fought by the new mayor against the regime he licked hasn't really started, I hear...The Welfare Island mess is merely an opening act...Another due soon will be directed at a local crazy house—where they say a newspaperman was framed and confined there in solitary—after being trapped in jotting down notes on corruption and graft there...He wasn't on a paper at the time...He promoted a job, it seems, in the surgical ward and they caught him sending manuscript bit by bit to his publisher. As punishment and for fear his expose would ruin them all—he was adjudged nuts and still is there....That's the amazing tale being bandied among newspapermen, anyway.

HEALTH

Turning the Eyelid

WHEN a speck or cinder has gotten into the eye and is not to be seen when the eyelids are pulled apart, the probabilities are that it is stuck either to the under surface of the upper eyelid, or to the eyeball.

To get to the foreign body it becomes necessary to evert or to turn inside out the upper eyelid.

To the skilled and experienced hand, nothing is more simple than turning the eyelids. To all others, it is difficult. However, it appears like a major task only because it seems so much of a job to achieve with one's fingers and thumbs.

With thumb and forefinger take hold of the eyelashes of the upper lid and pull forward and down. With the other hand apply a matchstick or similar object to the upper surface of the eyelid.

Then by means of a rolling motion press the matchstick down and at the same time draw the lashes upward. The lid will then very obligingly turn inside out.

It should be borne in mind that several cinders or foreign bodies may have gained entrance into the eye at the same time. Therefore, even though one speck is found and removed, others should be looked for.

Under no circumstances should a foreign body be dug for. If it is adhering firmly to the eyeball surface, digging for it will injure the delicate covering membranes of the eye. Adherent foreign particles should be dealt with only by a properly qualified physician.

In the case of dust granules too fine to be seen, relief can be found by flushing the eye with a saline solution, which can be made by dissolving a teaspoonful of salt in a glass of water.

Care should be taken to drop the solution into the eye gently, using for the purpose an eye dropper or, lacking that, a sponge made of clean absorbent cotton.

TODAY'S PATTERN

Chic With Cottons

THERE is nothing smarter, nor more practical or inexpensive for home wear than printed cottons. And it would be hard to find another model so good for cottons and as chic to wear as the one sketched today. It boasts tiny turnback revers, perky sleeves, and clever waistline seaming that gives that desired tall, slim effect—easily adjustable too, for the sash ties in back. You'll be surprised how quickly and easily it can be put together—and the Instructor given with this pattern is an excellent guide in cutting, sewing and finishing the frock. Wash silks, too, are good.

Pattern 1532 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3¾ yards 38 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

THE NEW SPRING, 1934, EDITION OF THE ANNE ADAMS PATTERN BOOK IS NOW READY. All the best Spring styles for adults and children in an interesting, helpful book. Send for your copy and be chic this Spring. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Crossed Silver Bands Decorate Blue Gown

WASHINGTON. — Silver bands cross in back and loop into a silver buckle on a turquoise-blue silk evening gown worn by Mrs. Harold Ickes, wife of the Secretary of the Interior. The shoulder straps widen to form tiny cape effects over the arms.

Glazed Carrots

Two cups diced cooked carrots, a pinch of salt and paprika, two tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons butter. Mix ingredients and heat slowly in a frying pan. Cook for five minutes, stirring almost constantly. A nice way of using up the leftover carrots and a way the children usually like.

A Lunch That's Different

—By GLADYS T. LANG—

The menu:
Chicken Curry Soup
Surprise Fritters
Pickle Salad Peas
Chocolate Mint Charlotte
Sunshine Cake.

The recipes:

Chicken Curry Soup.

Chop two small onions and two apples and one small celery root. Cover with one pint of water and cook until soft, then strain. Add this to three pints of chicken broth, or three cans of the best chicken consomme. Heat thoroughly and season well. Pour over one and a half cups of cream, which has been beaten to a froth and heated in a double boiler. Just before serving, stir in one teaspoon of curry powder and in each serving place a tablespoon of chopped watercress.

Surprise Fritters.

Soak three sets of calves brains in cold salted water for one hour. Remove skins and chop very fine. Season with salt, pepper, paprika and a little onion juice. Add two whole well-beaten eggs and three-fourths cup of fine bread crumbs. Mix and place on ice for two hours to thicken. Cut rounds of bread three-fourths inch thick. Cover thickly, about one inch, with the brain mixture and fry in hot, but not smoking lard. When bread is light brown, turn and brown on the other side, cooking in all from 10 to 15 minutes. Drain on paper and place in a partition dish and cover with a creole sauce, or serve without sauce on a bed of green peas.

Creole Sauce.

Place four tablespoons of olive oil or butter in a sauce pan, add two finely minced onions and a medium sized green pepper, shredded; fry to a light color. When soft, add one-half crushed clove of garlic. Let cook a few minutes, then pour in a No. 2 can of tomatoes, strained, and one cup of stock. Season to taste with salt, pepper and a little sugar and celery salt. Cook slowly about 25 minutes.

Pickle Salad.

Mix together one cup of finely chopped celery, one cup of finely chopped cabbage and two tablespoons of finely chopped green pepper. Take one cup of cold water and one cup of sweet pickle juice and bring slowly to a boil. Then turn off heat and pour in slowly one whole package of lemon jello. Stir until jello is dissolved. Season when it begins to cool, add celery and cabbage mixture. Pour into individual molds which have been rinsed in cold water and set on ice to harden. Unmold on watercress or shredded lettuce and cover with the following dressing:

Mix one cup of French dressing with one-half cup of chili sauce, two tablespoons of mayonnaise, salt, pepper and one teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce.

Chocolate Mint Charlotte.

One and one-half cups of milk.
One tablespoon of gelatin.
Two-thirds cup of sugar.
One-half teaspoon of salt.
One and three-fourths cups of cream.
One teaspoon of vanilla.
Two-thirds cup of chopped pistachios (other nuts may be substituted).

Melt chocolate and mints in one cup of milk in a double boiler. Soak the gelatin in the remaining milk for five minutes. When chocolate, mints and milk are dissolved, beat briskly. Add gelatin and salt. Stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Cool slightly, or until it starts to congeal, then add cream and vanilla. Place bowl in a pan with cracked ice, and whip until the consistency of whipped cream. Sprinkle nuts on bottom of individual molds, and fill with the charlotte. Chill until firm, then unmold and garnish with rosettes of whipped cream.

Sunshine Cake.

Boil one and one-fourth cups of sugar and one-half cup of water until it forms a soft ball when dropped from a spoon into cold water. Beat the whites of six eggs stiff with a pinch of salt and add syrup slowly to the whites. Beat until cool. Beat the yolks of six eggs light and pour in slowly. Take one cup of pastry flour sifted four times with one teaspoon of cream of tartar. Add gradually to the mixture with a little lemon juice. Bake in an ungreased tube pan in a moderate oven for about 50 minutes.

Christopher Alone

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS CROW went back to the box and gave a tap wit. his right wing so that Willy Nilly would see him in.

"I just came back for a second to tell you all to go to bed and sleep comfort," Christopher said. "I'll take care of this little matter and won't let any creature harm any of us here in Puddle Muddle.

"And I'm sorry, too, Top Not that I called you a 'fraid cat. I didn't know at first what you meant, but I understand now that you weren't just thinking things.

"Is it an—?" began Willy Nilly but Christopher interrupted.

"Now I don't want any of you to be nervous. I'll be perfectly all right. You may think he is strong than I, but you are mistaken. least, I know I will drive him away. Crows can do it in numbers and will be able to do it single-handed or single-winged you might say you wanted to speak very correctly."

"Please, Christopher, if he what I think," began Willy Nilly "you need other Crows to help you."

"Nonsense," said Christopher, "I be all right."

Suddenly Christopher's keen ear heard a sound in the distance.

"There he is!" Christopher cawed. "I just heard him speak. Please me out again, Willy Nilly. Open the door and let me see what is outside."

Oh, how they all admired Christopher's bravery, but Willy was afraid that Christopher might have trouble by himself.

"Caw, caw," shouted Christopher as he got outside, "the battle has good as begun!"

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

ANDREW JACKSON'S TWO BIRTHPLACES—Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States was either born at the Waxhaw Settlement in Lancaster Co., South Carolina, or just across the border in Union County, North Carolina. The two rival claims have led to monuments being erected on both sites. The controversy as to which is Jackson's real birthplace is still unsettled and has even re-echoed in the Halls of the U. S. Congress.

REVIEW & COMMENT
REVERIE AT TWILIGHT

When the bankers and the financiers of this benighted land
With a horrified expression elevate a pious hand,
And announce their opposition to what they remark is bound
To lead right on to a currency both hollow and unsound,
I cannot refrain from thinking in an energetic daze
Of what seem to be referred to tenderly, as "good old days."

Oh, sad it seems, and sad it was (quite the opposite of funny)
That the nation in those days was not equipped with unsound money;
For the bankers and the financiers of this sunshiny land—
With a most cordial expression and a very eager hand—
Were offering securities "Fresh securities for sale,"

Baron Soil.

AN ORCHID TO ED!

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat.)

Ed Young has a window that attracts a lot of attention. It is a novel display of every cut there is in a beef, set in an Arctic background. Above, below, at the sides—everywhere is virgin snow. A tall pillar of ice and snow—made cold by refrigeration, occupies the center. There are displayed in the Arctic setting all the cuts in a beef—fine corn fed beef—right before your eyes. It's as intriguing as it is beautiful.

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1. —Yes, because with couples lacking poise and balance the one who plays best deflates the other's ego by outdoing him in the presence of others. It is usually the husband whose ego is the most sensitive and who dislikes to have his alleged superiority punctured.

2. —No. According to Dr. H. H. Laughlin, of the Carnegie Institute, horses run solely because of the instinct to run with the herd. He has just completed a great research on the heredity of the racing speed of the great race horses of modern times and this is his conclusion. Animals that have evolved the instinct to exert their utmost speed to keep up with the herd have survived while the lazy individualists that ran as fancy dictated got left and perished. He thinks it is not a sense of rivalry or competition such as human beings have. From the grandstand it certainly looks like real competition for the purse but Dr. Laughlin believes that the jockeys are doing the racing and the horses are obeying their instinct.

3. —Just the opposite. Formerly women had to marry the man in the same little town or city block, or on the next farm. In this situation many women preferred single blessedness. Today women have a much wider assortment of eligibles to choose from and, partly as a consequence, the marriage rate has risen decidedly in the past two generations.

DALADIER FIRES POLIC CHIEF, THRE QUIT CABINE

OUSTED OFFICIAL SENT TO MOROCC

Ministers of War and nance Understood to Ha Defended Him in Storm Session on $40,000,0 Pawnshop Fraud.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Premier ouard Daladier's Cabinet was s wide open today over the ousting Jean Chiappe, Prefect of Paris lice, as Daladier's first move clean house following the $40,0 000 Stavisky municipal pawnsh scandal at Bayonne.

Three members of the Cabin Minister of War Lieutenant-Colo Jean Fabry, Minister of Finan Francois Pietri and Minister Technical Instruction Gustav Do sian, walked out.

Their sudden resignations ca after a day of tubult in which Da dier showed an iron hand. Dada installed Bonnefoy Sibour as Perfect of the Paris Police ordered Chiappe, who is politic powerful and is called the "Li Napoleon," to Morocco as the R dent-General Sibour had been P fect of the Seine et Oise Depa ment.

Three Object to Chiappe's Ouste

The three resigning Ministers jected to Daladier's removal Chiappe, who has been accused Government oppositionists of h ing been a close friend of swindler, Stavisky, and of hav failed to see to it that Stavisky put on trial on a swindling char in which he was arrested in 19 Stavinsky killed himself wh police caught him after a wi spread hunt. He had founded Bayonne pawnship which collap Dec. 30.

Fabry and Pietri were understo to have defended Chiappe strong Rumors immediately started circulate that the entire Cabi might resign even before it fa the Chamber of Deputies for a v of confidence Feb. 6.

Several High Heads Hit.

In the sweeping shake-up Da dier has promised before Tuesd high police court officials ha already been hit. Among them the brother-in-law of former P mier Camille Chautemps, Georg Pressard, who as the Chief Att ney-Gengral was held technica responsible for 19 adjournments the Stavisky case.

Meanwhile he asked Joseph Pa Boncour, former Premier and F eign Minister, to take Fabry's po

An extrordinary session of t Cabinet was called for 10 a. m. morrow, when the reshaped Go ernment will be presented to Pre dent Lebrun.

Several previous Premiers ha tried to fire Chiappe, but they failed. Chiappe subsequently w described as "a state within state."

Chiappe Declines Moroccan Pos

Chiappe, whom Socialists sever times have accused of preparing coup d'etat, sent Daladier a lett tonight refusing the Moroccan po Sibour, meanwhile, sitting in Ch appe's old chair, issued a manif to in which he promised to clean Paris "simply and with all heart."

Chiappe, a plump and rich litt Corsican who gave Paris a mode system of controlling traffic, w at his home when he learned was no longer the Prefect of P lice. His motto, as Prefect, was firm hand but a generous hear and one of his endeavors was make the policeman a friend of t people.
